ARMED FORCES UPHOLD PEACE, SAYS COOLIDGE

Should Be Large Enough, He Holds, to Prevent Attack by Others.

UNABLE TO SEE REAL PREVENTIVE OF WAR

People Will Give Up Much for Protection, Article in Magazine Says.

POLICEMEN ARE CITED AS PRIMARY DEFENSE

Former President Opposes People Feeling No Peril in Attacking Others.

Philadelphia, March 27 (A.P.).—Calvin Coolidge, writing in the April number of the Ladies' Home Journal on "Promoting Peace Through Preparation for Defense," says the forces required for adequate national defense should "be large enough so that others would see that there would be a great deal of peril involved in attacking us."

"They should not be so large," the former President says, "that our country would feel that we would undergo no peril in attacking others."

The article will be the first of three by Mr. Coolidge to appear in the Ladies' Home Journal on the subject of promoting peace.

"The duty of a government is order," continues Mr. Coolidge. "We are told that it is heaven's first law. In our day we have come to take orders for granted as something almost self-existent, but it is not.

Cites Recurring Crime Waves.

"In fact, it is very difficult to maintain as we are constantly reminded by recurring waves of crime, and the outbreak of warfare. Order is of the first importance, because without it we could have no liberty and no progress. Property would be of little value, every home would be insecure and all life in danger.

"When the test comes the people will give up almost any other human right to secure safety and protection. Whenever anarchy imperils a state a military dictator always appears, because the people prefer him to the lawlessness of the mob."

"One of the methods," Mr. Coolidge writes, "by which each government undertakes to preserve order so that it may protect its people from domestic violence and foreign hostilities is known as preparation for national defense. The great object that it all seeks to accomplish is peace—peace for the citizen at home and peace for the citizen abroad.

Police First Line of Defense.

"Preparation runs all the way from the policeman on the corner, who is our first line of defense, to the Army and Navy, with their supporting fortifications and bases.

"We do not have these for the purpose of making war, but for the purpose of preserving peace. The ability to protect the people within its borders and to insure to them the security which can only come from the orderly administration of law is so much and so peculiarly the first requisite of every government that under international usage civilized nations do not recognize a government which can not or does not meet these obligations.

"Our Army can be small, because we are peaceful at home and far removed from attack by land. Also an Army can be assembled quickly. Our Navy is more extensive, because our shores, our great commerce and our distant possessions must be protected, and it takes years to build a warship."

Sees No Real War Preventive.

Capone Ordered Held By Mrs. Willebrandt

Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt (right) who yesterday ordered arrest of Al Capone (left), Chicago gang leader.

Charged With Contempt When She Challenges Sick Affidavit.

Chicago, March 27 (U.P.).—"Scarface" Al Capone, ruler of the beer industry who for years maneuvered to defeat his many powerful rivals, was routed in a skirmish with a feminine hand of the law today when he was arrested on a charge of contempt of Federal court.

The charge grew out of his efforts to evade a Federal grand jury summons while he moved about in the bright glare of Florida's reputed sunshine, parks, beaches, race tracks and resorts.

Having enjoyed the freedom of commuting between Chicago, where he was credited with being the baron of beerdom, and Miami Beach, Fla., where he owned a palatial beach home, Capone told his Uncle Sam that he was too ill to make the trip here to testify regarding the activities of liquor syndicates in Chicago Heights.

At the time he filed his affidavits, however, he was under the scrutinizing eye of Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, Assistant Attorney General in charge of prohibition enforcement.

Capone obtained a delay, and finally was induced by the Government to risk

STOCKS, FREED OF CREDIT GRIP, BOUND UPWARD

C. E. Mitchell Releases His Bank's Funds to End Jam.

SAVIOR OF MARKET ON RESERVE BOARD

INVESTMENT TRUSTS BLAMED FOR CRASH

Selling at Peak and Recalling Money to Rebuy Aided Downward Rush.

New York, March 27 (A.P.).—New York bankers smashed the money jam in Wall street today by supplying sufficient funds to keep the call money rate stabilized at 15 per cent, and stock prices rallied in spectacular fashion, recovering most of the ground lost in the two preceding sessions.

Chief credit for leading the "bull" forces and thousands of small speculators and investors still in the market out of the wilderness of despair was given to Charles E. Mitchell, president of the National City Bank, who loaned the bank's funds freely when the call rate threatened to go above the 20 per cent level on Tuesday, and served notice today that the bank was prepared to lend $25,000,000 additional, if necessary—$5,000,000 each at 16, 17, 18, 19 and 20 per cent.

This action immediately brought an influx of funds from other banks, and revived confidence which had been badly shaken by the drastic decline in the early part of yesterday's record-breaking session. Considerable significance was attached in Wall street to Mr. Mitchell's action because he is a director of the New York Federal Reserve Bank, which has been active in attempting to carry out the Federal Reserve Board policy of forcing a substantial reduction in speculative borrowing.

Sees Need for Action.

So far as this institution is concerned," Mr. Mitchell was quoted as saying, "we feel that we have an obligation which is paramount to any Federal Reserve warning, or anything else, to avert, so far as lies within our power, any dangerous crisis in the money market."

Total stock sales were only 5,618,990 shares, as against 8,246,740 in yesterday's record session. The ticker, which ran for more than two hours after the market closed yesterday, kept well abreast of the proceedings today, the final quotation being printed only 22 minutes after the sounding of the closing gong.

The strong support furnished the money market late yesterday brought about a heavy accumulation of overnight buying orders, with the result that the market started upward from the start. The market ran into some selling, however, when the call money renewal rate was posted at 15 per cent, the highest since February, 1920, and contrasted with an opening rate of 12 per cent yesterday. When it became apparent that the rate would hold at that figure and that powerful financial interests were standing by to support the money market, if necessary, the rally was resumed and continued until just before the close, when profit taking whittled away part of the earlier gains.

Losses by Small Traders.

Governors of the stock exchange voted to suspend business on Saturday as well as the Good Friday holiday, probably to afford relief to the thousands of brokerage house employes who have been swamped with an accumulation of work as a result of the riotous sessions of the last few days. Similar action was taken by the governors of the New York Curb Market.

Brokerage houses were thronged again today with customers, hundreds of whom watched stocks which they had dumped overboard yesterday climb to heights which would have netted them handsome profits if they had held on and weathered the storm of selling. Amateur "bear" traders, who invariably sell at the wrong time, also saw stocks in which they had taken a short position in the belief that the bottom had dropped out of the market, go surging to levels which forced them to cover their commitments at substantial losses.

While brokers are reluctant to talk about their customers' commitments, it is known that thousands of small speculators all over the country had been driven out of the market, or forced to take substantial losses.

Millions of dollars in paper profits also have vanished from the accounts of some of Wall street's largest operators, but these men are in a better position to withstand the losses, and have learned from experience that dumping their holdings in a wildly declining market, unless forced by necessity, is generally poor business.

The New York Evening Post said today it had learned on good authority

British Labor Party For U. S. Naval Treaty

Would Grant American Demands if Victorious at May Polls.

Geneva, March 27 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Great Britain's foreign policy in the immediate future, should the Laborites win the May general election, is outlined in the program of the Labor party's leader, former Premier Ramsay Macdonald, a copy of which has been shown to the New York World News Service correspondent here. The essential principles of this program may be summarized as follows:

1. Military disarmament to the minimum required for police purposes.

2. A naval agreement with the United States involving even surrender of theoretical offensive equality through acceptance of the American thesis of 10,000-ton, 8-inch gun cruisers advocated at the ill-fated Geneva conference of 1927.

3. Withdrawal of the conservative government's reservations to the Kellogg pact for the renunciation of war as an instrument of national policy.

4. Signing of the optional clause

Claudel Awaits Report Before Taking Case Up With U. S.

American Consul in British Honduras Forced to Ask Police Protection.

Belize, British Honduras, March 27 (A.P.).—G. Russell Taggart, U. S. Consul here, sought police protection today because of high feeling over the sinking of the vessel I'm Alone. Two Belize men were members of the crew. The authorities are taking every precaution to prevent an attack on the consulate.

By ALBERT W. FOX.

France, as well as Canada and Great Britain, now appears to be involved in the diplomatic aftermath to the sinking of the I'm Alone, British schooner of Canadian registry, sent to the bottom on the high seas 200 miles off shore by the gunfire of the American Coast Guard cutter Dexter.

Paul Claudel, the French Ambassador to the United States, yesterday received word from the French consul at New Orleans that Leon Mainjoy, who lost his life as a result of the attack, was a French national. The ambassador is taking steps to get further facts prior to taking the matter up officially with the State Department. The government of France and the people of France will insist upon suitable action if the victim of the attack proves to be a French national, as now reported.

The loss of life is conceded to be the most serious aspect to the whole affair because no amends can be actually made in compensation. Property loss, on the other hand, can always be assessed in damages if such adjustment is agreed upon as a suitable settlement of the unfortunate international incident.

Question for World Court.

In this latter connection, it is noted here that Senator Walsh, of Montana, states in an interview in Florida that this case would be a suitable question to submit to the World Court if the United States were a member. Diplomats point out that American membership in the court is not necessary to give the court jurisdiction of the case if the United States desires to submit it to the international tribunal. But before any phase of the case can be submitted to any tribunal it will be necessary to check up on points in conflicting testimony. Capt. Randall, master of the British-Canadian schooner, insists that he was beyond the 12-mile limit when the American cutter Wolcott first challenged him, while the Coast Guard insists that the cutter was within 12 miles of the shore.

The Canadian Legation here will receive reports from the British consul at New Orleans and reports from Capt. Randall, as well as other testimony taken in an effort to ascertain the facts.

Stimson to Study Case.

Meanwhile the State Department continues to suspend judgment. Secretary of State Kellogg said yesterday that the department was continuing to receive information, but had no announcement to make. The State Department has held aloof from any action tending to show indorsement of any statements so far issued by the Coast Guard. Henry L. Stimson will assume his duties as Secretary of State at 5 o'clock this afternoon and the State Department's position in the matter will be made known after Mr. Stimson has had an opportunity

VIRGINIA WILL LEAD DIXIE G.O.P. REFORM

Alabama and Texas Expected to Be Next in Carrying Out Hoover's Plan.

STEP HELD MOMENTOUS

By CARLISLE BARGERON.

The first response to President Hoover's bid for the South to establish the two-party system will come from Virginia, where the advisory council composed of three Hoover Democrats and three Republicans is to be immediately set up with a view to making a showing in the State elections this fall.

C. Bascom Slemp, Virginia leader, had luncheon with Mr. Hoover yesterday. Presumably the new plan of consolidating the Republican gains of the recent election was the subject of discussion. At any rate Virginia has approved the advisory council plan and it was stated at the White House that all other Southern States have done likewise, with the exception, of course, of Georgia, South Carolina and Mississippi, which are in a class by themselves.

But particularly are Alabama and Texas to have the advisory councils, it was made known. There had been reason to believe that O. D. Street, Alabama national committeeman, did not like the idea, but he was a White House caller again yesterday, and subsequent information was that there would be an advisory council in Alabama.

Reaction from throughout the South was favorable to the President's statement, it was said, although some distinctly unfavorable comment is expected when the Democrats get back here for the extra session of Congress.

For better or worse the impression in political circles was that Mr. Hoover had taken a momentous step, from which there can be no withdrawal. As the President said in his statement, other Chief Executives have aspired to set up the Republican party in the South, but he is the first one to boldly attempt to do it.

Prompt notice was taken of criticism that the Republican National Committ-

Petroleum Institute Goes Back to 1928 Basis; To Accept U. S. Aid.

FIELDS ABROAD MAY ACT

New York, March 27 (A.P.).—In a directors' room high in a Park avenue skyscraper, oil kings of the world today agreed to take up the slack in a market bulging from surplus supply by going back to their production basis of a year ago.

At the same time these men of millions received and agreed to carry out a recommendation for appointment of a permanent organization to study with the Department of Commerce and the Federal Oil Conservation Board the "serious overproduction" existing throughout the world.

Agreeing to these proposals were such men as Sir Henri Deterding, managing director of the Royal Dutch Co., one of the largest oil producers in the world; Harry F. Sinclair, of the Sinclair Consolidated Oil Co.; W. C. Teagle, of the Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey; E. G. Seubert, of the Standard Oil Co. of Indiana, and E. B. Reeser, of the Barnsdall Corporation, of Tulsa, Okla., and president of the American Petroleum Institute, a trade organization through whose directors the agreement was made.

Through a day of prolonged discussion and many committee meetings the producers presented their cases. Stumbling blocks were many, but the Visitor Suffers Broken Back in Plunge From Friend's Apartment.

Man Hurt in Leap As Wife Calls Him

Harry Donaldson, 23-year-old railroad brakeman suffered a broken back early this morning when he jumped from the second floor of the Park Lane apartments, Twenty-second street and Pennsylvania avenue northwest. He told police that he jumped from the apartment of C. L. Jones, a friend, when he heard his wife calling from the hall way.

Donaldson, who lives at 216 I street northwest, said that he had been having marital difficulties and his wife probably had trailed him to Jones' apartment. Jones and a woman friend of Jones', he said, whose name he knew only as "Davis," were in the apartment.

The injured man was taken to Emergency Hospital where he was treated by Dr. Leon Gordon, who said his condition is serious. Mrs. Donaldson went to the hospital with him. Donaldson told Policeman Jerry McCarthy of the Third Precinct that in jumping he tried to avoid an areaway but fell into it.

Nine of Transport Crew Accused of Rum Sales

San Francisco, March 27 (A.P.).—Nine sailors of the transport St. Mihiel's crew, who, United States authorities claim, not only had their pockets full of rye, but sold the illicit liquor openly to soldiers aboard the ship face charges of possession, transportation and sale of liquor.

A search disclosed that more than 100 bottles of illicit liquor had been sold. The nine men gave their names as Raymond Faller, Leo Stouto, William B. Allen, Daniel Ramos, Francisco Vidal, Potenciano Cabuccana, Alberto Malan, Cornelius Malpas and Regina Ayson.

EDUCATORS TO WAR ON 'DIPLOMA MILLS'

65 SEEK ASSISTANT POST

In a meeting held behind closed doors, the Board of Education yesterday took steps to prevent the continued operation of "diploma mills" in Washington.

Although the meeting of members of the board with other school officials was designated merely as an "informal one" for the purpose of acquainting members of the board with the authority to regulate the issuance of degrees in the National Capital under authority given it by the last Congress, it is known that the activities of the heads of several "diploma mills" were discussed pro and con and that definite steps were outlined to combat their future operation.

The United States district attorney's office has, during the past few years, uncovered evidence showing that "diploma mills" have been in operation in Washington and that "degrees" have been sold for fees ranging in price from $5 to $100. It was with a view toward stopping this practice that Congress, during the last session, enacted a law requiring all educational institutions operating here under general incorporation laws to obtain a license from the Board of Education before being permitted to confer degrees.

Dr. Frank W. Ballou, superintendent of schools, informed members of the board that 65 applications have been received for the position of assistant superintendent of schools in charge of buildings and grounds recently created by Congress. The position carries with it an annual salary of $5,000.

Dr. Charles F. Carusi, president of the Board of Education, announced following the meeting that the board would endeavor to choose from the applications, that of a man who would be in a position to cooperate to the fullest extent with the District Commis-

CONGRESS SHIP RUM LANDED, IS REPORT

Customs Officials Are Said to Have Passed Four Bottles for One Member.

NAME ON DUTY FREE LIST

New York, March 27 (A.P.).—The Evening World said today it had learned from reliable sources that one member of a congressional committee of fifteen arriving from Panama Monday admitted carrying liquor into the port with him and was allowed free entry.

The Panama Railroad Steamship Co.'s liner Cristobal brought back the congressional party, which had been studying isthmian affairs. Out of courtesy to them their baggage was under orders to be expedited and was entitled to free entry.

Through some error, however, the name of the representative was not included on the free list and he was asked the usual perfunctory question by a customs inspector whether he had any liquor in his baggage. The representative confessed he had four bottles.

Later, however, the chief inspector on the pier discovered that his name should have been on the free-entry list and his baggage was immediately closed and he was allowed to proceed, presumably with his four bottles.

Vienna, Thursday, March 28 (U.P.).—The Graf Zeppelin circled over Vienna at 3 a. m. today while thousands stood in the streets watching.

Withdrawals Menace Bank Branded Bootleggers' Ally

Philadelphia Concern Merged at Request of Clearing House as Depositors Start Run; Officials Assailed by Jury for Receiving Liquor Men's Cash.

Philadelphia, March 27 (A.P.).—The Corn Exchange National Bank & Trust Co. today took over the assets and deposit liabilities of the Union Bank & Trust Co., which recently was criticized by the "racket" grand jury for its alleged alliance with bootleggers.

This step was taken at the request of the Philadelphia Clearing House Association, comprising the city's leading banks, to avoid threatened complications as a result of heavy withdrawal of deposits by patrons of the Union Bank & Trust Co. These withdrawals, it was stated, reached serious proportions today when crowds gathered about the doors of the West Philadelphia branch.

It is understood that the member banks of the Clearing House Association have pledged their financial and moral support to the Corn Exchange in settling the Union Bank's affairs.

President J. S. McCulloch and other officers of the Union Bank were criticized by the special grand jury last week for failure to assist the jury in identifying depositors who were suspected of being bootleggers and who were alleged to have deposited more than $10,000,000 in the institution during a period of two years under fictitious names. At that time the bank was known as the Union National Bank. It subsequently was merged with a trust company and became a State institution. McCulloch resigned as president shortly after the grand jury's presentment was made.

Accuser Is Held With Two He Claims Are Hijackers

Thomas Harbaugh Jailed by Maryland Authorities When He Appears With Alleged Liquor Thieves and Seeks to Withdraw Charges; Another Man Sought.

Two men were arrested as alleged hijackers, their accuser is being held in default of bond as a State witness by Montgomery County Police and a fourth man is being hunted by Washington police as the result of warrants sworn out Tuesday by Thomas Harbaugh, of Washington.

According to police, Harbaugh swore out the warrants alleging that Beal McDonald, 200 Ninth street northeast; Joseph Pagioli, 915 K street northwest, and a colored man named "Bumps" Turner had held him up on the Columbia pike near Fairland Monday and had taken $150 and eleven boxes of whisky from him. The warrants were forwarded to the Washington police Yesterday Harbaugh arrived at the Bethesda police substation and asked that the warrants be withdrawn as he had decided that the men were the wrong ones. He was accompanied by McDonald and Pagioli. Police arrested all three and held Harbaugh as a State witness. The men were held for preliminary hearing April 1 in Rockville Police Court by Justice of the Peace Charles P. Clark, before whom the warrants were sworn out.

McDonald was charged with assault and highway robbery. Pagioli was charged with highway robbery and the two warrants which Washington police hold for Turner charge assault and highway robbery. McDonald was released on $2,000 bond and Pagioli was held at the Rockville Jail last night in default of $2,000 bond. Harbaugh was held for lack of $500 bond and also was lodged in the Rockville Jail last night.

Both the British Embassy and Canadian Legation here are obviously endeavoring to view the day-by-day developments in a dispassionate light and not add fuel to the fires of popular indignation in their respective countries.

Kellogg Treaty Involved.

It is regarded here as unfortunate that French indignation may be aroused precisely at the time when the Kellogg antiwar treaty is before the French Senate for ratification. This pact would have been taken up last week had it not been for the death of Marshal Foch. There is some opposition to it in France but it has not been of a serious character. But it admittedly may prove embarrassing to smother opposition while discussion of the French victim of American guns on the high seas is occupying the attention of French senators and French people.

Representative Britten, of Illinois, chairman of the House naval affairs committee, said yesterday that he regards the sinking of the I'm Alone as very serious.

"If the United States Government," he said, "is going to chase vessels 200 miles off the coast and sink them because they are suspected of rum-running, it will be able to chase them through the English Channel and into the North Sea and sink them. Such acts as this lead to war."

Jensen After Solo Endurance Record

Flier, Aloft Over Long Island, Finds the Air in "Bumpy" Condition.

Roosevelt Field, N. Y., March 27 (A.P.).—Bumping along the air like a farmer in a springless wagon, Martin Jensen looped the Long Island skyways today on the first stretch of an attempt to set a new solo endurance flight record.

The sky was clear and the wind no more than fresh, but the air was as rough as a corduroy road in disrepair. Jensen said in a note he dropped that one aerial thank-you-mam jounced him right off his seat and bumped his head on a cabin cross-bar.

But for all this Jensen reported "things are going fine," and told of a lunch of one sandwich, one orange, a cup of water and some gum.

The present record, established by the late Royal V. Thomas, is 35 hours and 35 minutes. To beat that record by one hour Jensen, who left the ground at 6:01:34 this morning, would have to stay aloft until 6:35 tomorrow afternoon.

Nicaraguan Rebels Kill U. S. Marine

Private Wounded in Clash With Outlaws; Mother Loses Second Son.

Managua, Nicaragua, March 27 (A.P.).—Private Elmer S. Black, of Montezuma, Colo., was wounded in a clash between American marines and outlaws yesterday and died several hours later, while being carried to Darali. The clash took place near Jocoto, in Nueva Segovia, northern Nicaragua.

Black's next of kin is Isabel D. Black, of Montezuma.

Montezuma, Colo., March 27 (A. P.).—Elmer B. Black, United States Marine, who died of wounds received in a fight with Nicaraguan outlaws, was the second son of Mrs. Isabel Black, a widow, of this city, to give his life in the service of his country. During the World War Mrs. Black's other son, Ralph, was killed in action in France.

Elmer Black, who was 24, enlisted in the Marine Corps a year ago. His father, Thomas Black, was a pioneer mining engineer of the Montezuma district, who died several years ago. Besides his mother, Pvt. Black is survived by a sister, Mrs. Norman Rice, of Breckenridge, Colo.

RANDALL RESENTS TREATMENT BY U. S.

PROMISES COURT FIGHT

London, March 27 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—The Evening News here this afternoon prints a long interview with Capt. John Randall, master of the I'm Alone, obtained by radiophone from New Orleans, in which the British skipper alternates between threats of "fighting it out in the courts" and sob stuff about the "raw deal" he got.

"I went into this liquor trade with my eyes open," Randall said. "I knew all the risks, but I never expected a raw deal like this. It's a miracle of luck that I'm here talking to you on the telephone."

Then followed much the same story of his ship's chase and sinking which has already been printed—a story in which he refers to the member of his crew who was drowned as "the little Frenchman, a nice boy."

Says Consul Is Angry.

Capt. Randall complained about the treatment he received after being landed, about being put in irons and about being refused permission to see the British consul for a long time, adding, "They've treated us darn badly ever since we were brought ashore. The consul here is just as sore as he can be."

"Everybody I've met here," the self-confessed rum runner continued, "is very indignant at this mad chase and shooting down of a ship at sea. I tell you I've had some pretty rough times at sea, but I never thought that in time of peace I'd come across a thing like this. It's no fault of the customs men we weren't all drowned. I've tried to find out what on earth they did it for any way.

"It couldn't be personal spite that made them pursue in this fashion. I can not imagine the reason but it's one of the things no sailorman would do. The consul here is doing all he can to help us. I've got a lawyer who is working hard for me and we are going to fight in court when we couldn't fight at sea. I did what every other British master of a ship would have done in the circumstances and I'm going to fight it out to the end."

English Press Temperate.

Meanwhile, despite the featuring of Capt. Randell's defiant telephonic comment from New Orleans by transatlantic phone, the British press continues to keep its temper.

The Evening Standard's comment today is typical: "Observe the bouquets," says the newspaper, "that have been flung by both sides over the spirituous bubbles that rise from this sunken cargo in the Gulf of Mexico. American opinion cries, 'Why should our prohibition fanatics use shot an' shell on this floating saloon to provoke mixed grins and wrath in the outer world?' To which British opinion replies, 'If your facts are right, you have a legal case and we can't parade our injured dignity over a rum runner.' So that both sides are doing their utmost to be friendly because shots were fired and blood unfortunately spilt. A blow has been struck and that was the best way of making us friends. Anglo-American relations have seldom been more marked by generosity than during the past few days, largely because these relations have been set by the tone of the man in the street while the powers that be have not up to the time of writing put their several feet in it."

PRISON BARS GUARD I'M ALONE CREW

Underwood & Underwood.

The captured crew of the British schooner I'm Alone, sunk by the United States Coast Guard after it refused to submit to a search, were put behind the bars in a New Orleans prison to which they were taken by the crew of the cutter Dexter. Capt. Randall, commander of the vessel sunk, is on the left behind the bars.

ATTACK ON DRY SPY LAID TO 3 WOMEN

Informer Rescued by Police From Angry Group; Sale Attributed to Fourth.

MARKED MONEY UTILIZED

That the Jones law, making violations of the prohibition statutes felonies, will react violently upon police informers was again demonstrated yesterday, when Needham Gillesippi, colored informer employed by police of the Sixth Precinct, was attacked by three colored women when he was recognized after making a purchase at 491 Missouri avenue northwest, and was chased through the streets by indignant women swinging clubs.

Policemen C. O. O'Meara and John F. Boxwell came to Gillesippi's rescue and arrested Ruth Adams, 24 years old, Kate Dodson, 39, both of the Missouri avenue address, and Bertha McDonald, 19, of 220 C street northwest, on charges of assault. Cora Wallace, 39 years old, also of the Missouri avenue address, from whom police claim Gillesippi made the purchase, was arrested and charged with sale and illegal possession of liquor. All of the women are colored, and were locked up at the Sixth Precinct station.

According to Boxwell and O'Meara, Gillesippi had made a previous purchase from the Wallace woman and returned yesterday with marked money, preparatory to the officers making a raid. He is said to have completed the transaction and was about to leave the premises when one of the other three women came in and, recognizing Gillesippi as an informer, called her sisters to arms and attacked him.

He ran from the place screaming "murder!" and fled down the street with the women in hot pursuit until the officers intervened.

Several weeks ago, almost immediately after the Jones act became a law, one negro was shot to death and his partner seriously wounded by alleged bootleggers on suspicion of being informers.

Kellogg Dissatisfied By I'm Alone Report

(United Press.)

Secretary of State Kellogg is dissatisfied with the Coast Guard report to him on sinking of the Canadian rum-runner I'm Alone and has asked the Treasury Department to furnish him more detailed information.

The Coast Guard report to the State Department, it was learned, did not specify whether pursuit of the rum runner by Coast Guard patrol boats began within the 12-mile limit, which is the principal point at issue. The official Coast Guard report, made public recently by Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, said that pursuit began within the 12-mile limit, but Capt. John T. Randall, skipper of the rum runner, said that when challenged he was outside the treaty limit, which is an hour's sailing. The State Department will not make its report until it receives all the facts needed.

Wilbur Addresses Jewish Students

Interior Secretary Delivers First Public Speech by Cabinet Member.

Secretary of the Interior Ray Lyman Wilbur delivered the first public address of a Hoover Cabinet member last night, when he talked on "Blinders in Education" before Jewish students of Washington colleges and universities, members of the Temple Brotherhood and the Argo Lodge of B'nai B'rith, at the Washington Hebrew Temple.

"Unless we control to a certain extent the emotional side of life," he said, "and build up the mental side by intellectual effort, we can not go on with this civilization we have constructed."

Associate Rabbi William F. Rosenblum, of the Washington Hebrew Congregation, also spoke. Plans for the national brotherhood convention in Washington April 7 were discussed. Entertainment was furnished by "Radio Joe" Kaufman, "Goldie Sigmun and Company" and Miss Dora Minovich.

Famed Fat Woman Of Carnivals Dies

Detroit, Mich., March 27 (A.P.).—"Jolly Pearl" Stanley died today, victim of a freak of nature which for fifteen years had earned her a living by making of her a laughing stock of the world.

"Jolly Pearl," 27 years old, weighed 643 pounds, and since her eleventh birthday anniversary had been a "fat lady" in carnival shows. She was but 4 feet 5 inches tall and, according to the gaudy placard outside the carnival tent within which she died, was 9 feet around the waist.

Pittsfield Selectmen Deny Hall to Heflin

Pittsfield, Maine, March 27 (A.P.).—The selectmen tonight refused the use of a local hall to U. S. Senator J. Thomas Heflin, of Alabama, who was scheduled to speak here tomorrow night.

Portland and Bangor previously had denied Senator Heflin the use of their respective city halls.

MAN CAUGHT IN TRAP SET BY HOWARD'S AID

Speak-Easy Investigator Has Man He Called Arrested Under Drastic Jones Law.

ONE SUSPECT ESCAPES

George DuPont, of Lansdowne, Pa., the Rev. Clinton Howard's speakeasy investigator, last night trapped Leonard A. Duffel, 27 years old, 1737 P street northwest, who was arrested on charges of violation of the Jones law. Duffel was booked at the Sixth Precinct Station.

DuPont says he is the man who furnished Dr. Howard, professional reformer, with information on which the latter based charges that Washington contains hundreds of bootleggers.

For the last few days, DuPont has been working, he said, as a special assignment man for the Federal prohibition enforcement department here. His base of operations has been a room at 515 Sixth street northwest, and he claims to have obtained data on more than a score of cases.

DuPont telephoned two persons he said were bootleggers last night. The first one became frightened, according to DuPont, left a case of so-called Bacardi in the hallway outside DuPont's door and made his escape. DuPont thinks his quarry must have recognized Agent M. B. Quinn.

DuPont called another telephone number. He put in an order for a case of "Gordon gin." This was delivered by Duffel, DuPont said, and Quinn made the arrest.

DuPont, who is leaving the city, is of the opinion that Washington bootleggers do not greatly fear the Jones law. He says several of them have told him so. DuPont is of the further opinion the "men higher up" would be extremely difficult to apprehend and convict, owing to special safeguards.

King George Greets Two New Prelates

Archbishops Swear Allegiance and Kiss Their Sovereign's Hands.

Bognor, England, March 27 (A.P.).—For the first time since the beginning of his illness in November, King George today performed an official ceremony at Craigwell House, where he is recuperating.

The occasion was a reception to the new archbishops of Canterbury and York, who came to do homage to their sovereign and kiss his hand on their appointments.

Premier Stanley Baldwin traveled from London for the ceremony and introduced the two prelates, who previously had donned their full state robes with jeweled and glittering miters and copes. On entering a room on a ground floor, which had been specially prepared for the occasion and in which the king was waiting with the gentlemen of his household, the two archbishops knelt, swore allegiance, kissed hands and departed, the ceremony lasting only a few minutes.

It is understood that the Holy Communion will be celebrated privately at Craigwell House on Sunday to enable his majesty to make his Easter communion. It is possible that the archbishop of Canterbury may conduct the celebration.

KIDNAPED TEACHER FOUND UNCONSCIOUS

20-Year-Old Girl Apparently Unhurt by Two Men and Woman in Auto.

POLICE SEEKING MOTIVE

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., March 27 (A.P.).—Kidnaped today by two men and a woman, a 20-year-old teacher of a rural school, Margaret Dodson, was in a hysterical condition tonight at a hospital and unable to give the police a connected account of what happened to her.

Just before time for her school, near Muhlenberg, this county, to start this morning two men and a woman drove up in an automobile, seized the teacher and carried her off in the car. Her frightened pupils hurried to their homes and notified their parents, who, in turn, notified the State police detachment at Bloomsburg. Two hours later Miss Dodson was found unconscious on a lonely road by searchers.

Taken to a farmhouse she was revived and said she was bound after being taken into the car and later she fainted and knew no more until found by searchers. She did not know her kidnapers and her description of them was vague. She could assign no reason for her abduction.

Police tonight were trying to find the writer of three threatening notes received by Miss Dodson prior to the kidnaping. It was the police theory the teacher had been kidnaped in retaliation for reporting a delinquent parent of one of her pupils. They said that the suspected kidnaper is the father whom Miss Dodson reported for failure to send his son to school.

Big Still Confiscated In Raid on Laurel Farm

Federal dry agents early yesterday raided the dairy farm near Laurel, Md., of Guil Barber, a Washington lawyer living at Tilden Gardens, arrested one man and destroyed a 2,000-gallon still and other alleged apparatus for the manufacture of intoxicants.

Louis Martini, of Laurel, was arrested and charged with manufacture and possession of illegal liquor and with possession of apparatus intended to be used for the manufacture of intoxicants. He was taken to Baltimore where he will be arraigned before a United States commissioner. Barber also has been cited to appear as a witness, although police do not believe that he was connected with the illicit plant.

Nansen Seeks Help Here for Expedition

Calls on Hoover and Adams to Discuss Flight to North Pole.

Dr. Fridjof Nansen, the famous Norwegian scientist and explorer, yesterday called on President Hoover and Secretary of the Navy Adams and asked their aid in his proposed flight over the North Pole.

Dr. Nansen plans to call on other Government officials in an effort to obtain scientific data for his expedition. He has devoted a large part of his life to scientific explorations. In 1896 he circumnavigated the Nova Zembla, Franz Josef and Spitzbergen archipelagos, and at one time reached a point about 225 miles from the North Pole.

Dr. Nansen plans to establish his base near Point Barrow, Alaska, and from this point will start and end his flights over the northern wastes, making a study of the movements of ice and water currents, changes in temperatures and other conditions bearing on the weather in the rest of the world. He is staying at the Mayflower Hotel.

Taft to Give Oath To Stimson Today

New Secretary of State Is a Protege of Chief Justice of the United States.

(United Press.)

Henry L. Stimson will be sworn in as Secretary of State this afternoon at 5 o'clock in his office by Chief Justice Taft, in whose administration as President he likewise served in the Cabinet, but as Secretary of War.

Cabinet officers usually are sworn in by the chief clerk of the department over which they preside, but Taft will swear in Stimson in recognition of their friendship and former companionship about the White House Cabinet table. Stimson is a protege of Taft, who was influential in his selection by President Hoover to the chief Cabinet post.

While Stimson will join the official Hoover Cabinet today, completing the Cabinet, he joined the unofficial "medicine ball cabinet" yesterday. He had to get up earlier than is his custom to engage in a workout with the "medicine ball cabinet," which begins its sessions at 7 o'clock in a secluded corner of the White House rear grounds. Stimson is a White House guest, and will remain at the Executive Mansion for the rest of the week.

Prince of Wales Holds His First Investiture

London, March 27 (A.P.).—The Prince of Wales held his first investiture at St. James Palace today in behalf of King George, presenting decorations to a number of persons.

The prince, wearing morning dress, walked bareheaded the few yards from his residence, York House, to the palace. Tomorrow he will hold the second investiture, postponed from yesterday because of his attendance at the funeral of Marshal Foch in Paris.

E. L. Doheny, Jr., Left More Than $12,000,000

Los Angeles, March 27 (A.P.).—Between $1,000,000 and $1,500,000 will be paid to the State of California in inheritance taxes on the estate of the late Edward L. Doheny, jr., it was estimated here today by Edwin P. Werner, chief counsel of the State Inheritance Tax Bureau.

The estate, still in process of appraisal, is valued at between $12,500,000 and $15,000,000.

Bank Association Is Bossed By Mere Girl—And Likes It

Sixty Financiers of Central States Group Gather in Chicago, Where Miss Forba McDaniel, President, Directs Sessions; Knows Her Job, They Say.

Chicago, March 27 (A.P.).—Sixty big business men—bankers from fourteen central States—were bossed about today by a slight girl dressed in a chic brown ensemble and snappy felt hat, and the bankers seemed to like it.

The girl is Miss Forba McDaniel, president of the Central States Bankers' Association and secretary of the Indiana Bankers Association, and she presided and was the only woman present at the eighteenth annual conference of the Central States bankers here today.

The bankers addressed the chair as "Forba" and the meeting as "gentlemen." They were ready to tell the world that bankers everywhere know "Forba" and consider her one of the outstanding secretaries of bank associations in the country. Miss McDaniel herself was too busy to talk with reporters, she said.

"She knows her job," explained A. G. Brown, president of the Indiana Bankers Association, in telling why a woman was elected head of the Central States bankers, and Walter L. Dunham, president of the Michigan Bankers Association and of the Detroit Savings Bank, echoed the sentiment.

"She has disproved any idea that a woman can't give as good service to banks as a man," said Mr. Brown. "She directs the effort at improvement of 1,000 Indiana banks. For five years she has been secretary of the Indiana organization and for twelve years before that she was assistant secretary."

Discussion of organization, a demonstration of new methods of bank protection against robbery, and talks on taxation questions occupied the meeting today.

2 COLONELS CHOSEN TO BE ARMY CHIEFS

Gilchrist Succeeds Fries in Chemical Service; Fuqua Takes Allen's Place.

ROTATION PLAN UPHELD

Reaffirming the policy of rotating colonels as chiefs of Army branches for four-year terms, put in practice by his predecessors, Secretary of War Good yesterday announced Col. Harry L. Gilchrist, Medical Corps, as chief of the Chemical Warfare Service, succeeding Maj. Gen. Amos A. Fries, who has held office since 1920, and Col. Stephen O. Fuqua, chief of Infantry, succeeding Maj. Gen. Robert H. Allen, filling that appointment since 1925.

Both Maj. Gens. Allen and Fries were unable to say yesterday what they planned for the future. Fries intends to take what leave is due him now, after which he will make known his plans.

Secretary Good, announcing the new chiefs, said the Davis policy seemed sound in the past and will be followed in the future. Maj. Gens. Fries and Allen will revert to the rank of colonels should they remain in service, but by virtue of having been chiefs of branches may retire now or at time of normal retirement, in 1937 and 1934, respectively, as major generals.

Setting forth adherence to the Davis rotation policy announced in 1927, on the occasion of Maj. Gen. James E. Fechet's appointment to succeed Maj. Gen. Mason M. Patrick as chief of the Air Corps, Secretary Good stated in view of our peace-time skeletonized Army it is of utmost importance that chiefs of branches be highly efficient to meet emergencies; that this would be assured by rotation in office.

Col. Gilchrist was born in Waterloo, Iowa, in 1870, was graduated in medicine from Western Reserve University (Ohio) in 1896, and appointed a contract surgeon in the Army in the Spanish-American War. He entered the regular Medical Corps as a captain in 1905, and reached a colonelcy in 1926.

In the World War he commanded Base Hospital No. 4, first actively participating American organization; British General Hospital No. 9, and became medical director of chemical warfare service, A. E. F. After the war he organized and commanded the American Typhus Fever expedition to Poland, for which he received the commendation of the Polish president, and has been chief of the medical division, chemical warfare service, since 1921.

Col. Fuqua was born in Louisiana in 1874, and entered service as a captain of the Second Volunteer Infantry in the Spanish-American War, serving in Cuba. With the Twenty-ninth Volunteer Infantry he fought in the Philippine insurrection In the World War he was assistant chief of staff of the Thirty-seventh and Twenty-eighth Divisions in France and chief of staff of the First Division. He has been assistant chief of staff of the Third Corps Area and the Hawaiian department since the war, and is at present commander of the Sixteenth Infantry, Fort Jay, N. Y., becoming a permanent colonel in 1928. He wears the Distinguished Service Medal, the French Legion of Honor and Croix de Guerre.

Mr. Fix is a handy man to do the little odd jobs you've been putting off doing from day to day. You'll find his address and telephone number among today's advertisements in the "Personals" classification of The Post.

FRIENDS OF DE KING ASK QUICK INQUIRY

AURORA CITIZENS ANGRY

Aurora, Ill., March 27 (A.P.).—Friends of Joseph De King, whose wife was slain by dry raiders after he had been struck with a gunstock and received a fractured skull, demanded an investigation of Kane County prohibition enforcement methods today.

A special grand jury and a special prosecutor would be petitioned, they said, if State's Attorney George D. Carbary did not present the case before a grand jury.

The regular grand jury, although in recess until April 27, could be called together whenever the State's attorney desired, they said.

The coroner's inquest was continued to permit Carbary and his assistants to complete their investigation and to wait until Roy Smith, who fired the shot that killed Mrs. Lillian De King, recovers sufficiently to testify.

In the meantime, fearing violence against Smith, a deputy sheriff, Sheriff Leslie Urch posted a guard over Smith's bed in the hospital. He was nursing a broken leg. He was shot by the 12-year-old son of Mrs. De King after she had been mortally wounded.

Killer Assails Law.

Apprehension was felt over the possibility of an invasion of the hospital, so high had the indignation among Aurora citizens mounted.

"I wish there was no such thing as prohibition," said Smith. "I'm through with it, and if I ever am ordered out on any such jobs as that one I will resign rather than go.

"Prohibition is a curse to officers of the law, citizens and every one else. You see what it led to in this case. Try and enforce the law and see what happens."

State's Attorney Carbary said he would present the facts of his investigation before the grand jury without comment and if Smith was indicted he would prosecute him.

Judge Displays Anger.

Friends of De King, a laborer, accused Carbary of delaying action until the feeling against Smith had subsided. Carbary said he would present the case to the grand jury at its next session, which has been set for April 27, but a demand was made on him to exercise his rights and call an earlier meeting.

Questioned concerning the validity of double use of the search warrant, Police Magistrate John J. Weber ordered reporters out of his office, shouting, "Don't try to drag me into this case!"

It was Weber who issued the search warrant on the affidavit of a dry investigator nine weeks ago that he had bought liquor in the De King home. He admitted last night, however, that the warrant had been used twice, first when the deputy sheriffs had been repulsed by De King and again when they returned with reinforcements, machine guns, shotguns and tear bombs.

Will Fight Special Jury.

State's Attorney Carbary announced tonight he would resist any efforts to impanel a special grand jury, and would oppose the attempt to displace him in favor of a special prosecutor. When the regular grand jury convenes April 27, Carbary said, he will present all the facts in the case without bias and will invite Attorney R. N. Milroy, who represents Joseph De King, and all other witnesses, to give their testimony. He asserted that as the duly elected State's attorney he was qualified and competent and would prosecute the investigation fully and fairly.

Carbary also announced that Gerald De King will not be prosecuted. Gerald's defense of his mortally wounded mother and prostrate father was a natural filial act, the State's attorney averred.

Boyd Fairchild, the investigator who reported purchasing liquor at the De King home and thus instigated the raid, is missing, but Carbary said he is not needed as a witness since he did not participate in the raid.

LONG GIRDS TO FIGHT IMPEACHMENT MOVE

Louisiana Governor, Assailed by Foes in Legislature, Ready to Strike.

WINS SKIRMISH IN HOUSE

Baton Rouge, La., March 27 (United Press).—Louisiana's fighting governor, Huey P. Long, was massing his forces tonight in preparation for the supreme battle of his stormy career, after a day which saw action on the impeachment resolution deferred until tomorrow.

The Long forces won one victory and lost another in quick succession today. Speaker John W. Fournet was a central figure in both fights.

Efforts to unseat Fournet, considered one of the governor's chief supporters, failed. The Speaker then ruled against a motion to declare the impeachment resolution out of order on the ground that it was not included in the governor's call for the special session of the Legislature.

After several hours of heated debate, during which friends of the governor brought to bear every available argument in their efforts to sidetrack the resolution, Speaker Fournet declared it was inconsistent to rule out the resolution, since a governor could hardly be expected to issue a call for his own impeachment.

Will Reconvene Today.

The lower house of the Legislature will reconvene tomorrow morning, when another effort will be made to reorganize. Consideration of the impeachment proceedings was deferred until that time in order to permit the drafting of a set of rules for the conduct of the case. It is expected that a vote will not be taken until Monday.

The Long forces were busy tonight seeking to rally to their standards vacillating members in an effort to muster sufficient strength to adjourn the legislature sine die. Failing this, their only hope will be to vote down the impeachment resolution when it comes up Monday.

The resolution contains nineteen specific charges of misconduct, ranging from drunkenness and carrying concealed weapons, to misappropriation of funds and the plotting of murder.

Long Appears Calm.

Gov. Long seemed to be unconcerned today, and full of confidence that he will triumph in this latest and most serious assault on his administration. He spent his time quietly at home in the executive mansion, excepting for a brief visit to his office in the Statehouse this morning.

The first inkling that impeachment proceedings were being considered broke out Monday night amid scenes of wild disorder. It was then that the famous "Battling" Bozeman affidavit, charging Long plotted to murder Representative J. Y. Sanders, jr., first became known.

An immediate attempt was made to end the special session, and a riot resulted when Speaker Fournet announced that the sine die adjournment motion had carried.

Another vote was taken, after Fournet and left the Statehouse, and it was then that the full strength of the governor's opponents was revealed. The house voted to remain in session by an overwhelming majority.

New State Dry Act Is Lost at Albany

Albany, N. Y., March 27 (U.P.).—New York State, the first to act upon a proposal for concurrent legislation since President Hoover's inaugural request for local cooperation in enforcing the Volstead law, was definitely out of the dry column tonight.

Assemblyman Edward B. Jenks, sponsor of the Jenks State enforcement bills, failed to get enough votes today to recall them to the floor of the House from the rules committee, to which they were sent a week ago, and the measures were lost.

While another dry proposal still is before the Legislature, leaving enforcement to counties who desire it, little chance of its passage before the Legislature adjourns tomorrow was conceded. This bill is opposed by reform organizations, representatives of which announced they would go before Gov. Roosevelt and ask its veto if it is passed.

CONGRESS SHIP RUM LANDED, SAYS REPORT

congressmen just back from Panama, said upon his arrival here last night that he knew of no liquor being found in the baggage of any members of the party by customs officials in New York.

Mr. Morgan made this statement when asked concerning a published report in New York City that four bottles of liquor had been found in the luggage of one member of the party.

"I didn't hear of any liquor being found," he said. "I don't know anything about it."

He declared that several members of the party upon landing in New York had been obliged to confer with customs officials upon the valuation of purchases made in Panama in excess of the $100 limit allowed by law. Eight or ten members of the party, he said, had cabled for the freedom of the port which granted them the privilege of bringing their baggage into the country without inspection. Upon landing, he added, they had to go through certain formalities to obtain this privilege.

JURY ACQUITS CRAIG; DEBATES 16 MINUTES

State Charged Richmond Man Killed Boat Companion for His Insurance.

MARRIED WIDOW LATER

Richmond, March 27 (A.P.).—Murley L. Craig was acquitted of a charge of murder in connection with the death of William P. Liggon last August by a Hustings Court jury here at 6:45 o'clock tonight. The jury deliberated sixteen minutes.

The defense based its argument on the ground that no crime had been proven by the State and that there was no evidence that Liggon came to his death through a human agency. Only one witness, a police sergeant, was placed on the stand by the defense, neither Craig nor Mrs. Craig, who was Mrs. Liggon, widow of the deceased, testifying in the case.

Liggon was drowned while he and Craig were recovering driftwood in a flood on the James River last August 10, the body being recovered two days later. Craig and Liggon's widow were married in Washington 26 days after Liggon was drowned.

In December Craig was arrested on a charge of murder, the State contending that he killed Liggon before the boat was overturned in the flooded river in order that he might marry his widow and collect $2,000 insurance on Liggon's life.

William H. Bosher was introduced by the State to testify that Craig had told him six months prior to the drowning of Liggon that he knew a girl who would give $500 to have a man "knocked off." Bosher said that Craig said he and the girl would collect insurance, buy an automobile and go to Los Angeles.

Liggon's body was exhumed in December and the coroner reported finding wounds on the side of the head. The State contended that these wounds were made by an oar in the hands of Craig. It was brought out in the testimony that Craig had stated that he struck Liggon with a stick in the water after the boat had been overturned in order to break a hold and prevent Liggon from dragging him under the water. This, the defense contended, he had a right to do.

Testimony was adduced by the State to show that Craig and Mrs. Liggon had been intimate before Liggon's death. It was brought out that the defendant had lived at the Liggon home for several months. The defense contended that there was nothing beyond friendship in this intimacy.

Bosher's testimony followed that of three river men as to the condition of the James River on the day Liggon was drowned. George Willis, jr., who pulled Craig from the river after the boat containing Craig and Liggon had turned over, said he warned them not to go out on the river because of the flood stage and strong current.

About 30 witnesses were summoned, including Mrs. Craig.

House Impeaches Oklahoma Judges

Oklahoma City, Okla., March 27 (A.P.).—After a day of voting in the House of Representatives, three of the nine justices of the Oklahoma Supreme Court, including the chief justice, tonight were under impeachment charges with the prospect of trial before the State Senate court.

Ten additional charges were voted against Chief Justice Charles W. Mason, who had been impeached on one charge last week. All of eleven charges reported against Justice J. W. Clark were adopted by the House, and nine of the ten charges reported against Justice Fletcher Riley also were reported. One article against Riley failed of adoption when it received only 33 votes, with 60 opposed.

BRITISH LABORITES FAVOR NAVAL PACT

League of Nations for peaceful settlement of all disputes.

6. Repudiation of the Anglo-French naval rapprochement negotiations.

7. Agreement with France for immediate withdrawal of the Rhineland troops of occupation. Otherwise, withdrawal independently of all British forces.

8. Ratification of the Washington eight-hour day convention and the league's treaty for control of traffic in arms.

9. Recognition of Soviet Russia.

For Freedom of Seas.

10. Adoption by treaties of the Wilsonian theory of complete freedom of the high seas, both in peace and war time, in so far as restricted by joint international action for joint enforcement of international covenants.

League disarmament circles have been informed that both the British liberals and laborites "mean business" regarding disarmament, if elected. It is authoritatively stated here that former Premier Lloyd George, leader of the Liberal party, sponsors a program which calls for a 50 per cent cut in armament budgets and sharp curtailment of existing expenditures.

Betting on the London Stock Exchange gives the Labor party virtually an even chance with the Conservatives of winning the greatest number of seats in the next English Parliament of any of the three parties contesting the general election to be held in May.

While even the most optimistic admit that negligible results will be attained at the forthcoming sessions of the league's preparatory disarmament commission, additional evidence appeared from two sources today that much accumulated debris will be cleared away.

Fifty Per Cent Cut Backed.

Moscow has officially notified the league that its delegation to the preparatory disarmament commission will be headed by two commissars, who will be accompanied by a dozen assistants and experts. Litvinoff, acting commissar of foreign affairs, and Boris Stein, chief of the European division of the Russian foreign office; Anatole Lunatacharsky, commissar of education, and high officers of the navy and army departments will be included in the delegation.

As formerly, the Russians are coming prepared to press their disarmament proposals, particularly the one for a 50 per cent all-round reduction in existing armaments budgets.

One of the most important factors in the behind-the-scenes parleys will be the disclosure of the British Laborites' foreign policy, the substance of which is outlined above.

Outcome Awaits Elections.

Litvinoff's line of attack will be additional modification of the Russian disarmament plan, with hopes that the neutrals and the United States will consent to extension of the league's draft treaty which comes up for second reading at the forthcoming conference

The session should prove prolific, as far as wordy phrases are concerned, but the delegates are aware that nothing of importance can be accomplished until the British general election has been fought out. It is believed here that if either the Liberals or Laborites regain power separately or if a Liberal-Labor coalition government results from the election immense advances toward the consolidation of international peace and toward disarmament will be possible.

Youth Can't Get in Navy; He's Girl in Birth Record

Lynn, Mass., March 27 (N.Y.W. N.S.).—Florence Wright, 17 years old, about as perfect a physical specimen of manhood as the Navy recruiting station here ever saw, despite his name, was turned down today as a prospective member of the United States Navy because a Maine town clerk had recorded him as a girl.

Wright recently moved here from North Vassalboro, Me., his birthplace, and after passing all requirements with flying colors, was told he must present his birth certificate. The birth certificate arrived today and stated that Florence Wright, female, had been born there March 6, 1912.

Florence hates his name now, and was about ready to clean up the recruiting station until he was told he probably will be allowed to enlist if he can clear up his birth record.

CREDIT RULING EASY IN NATION AT LARGE

Money Pinch in Wall Street Reacts Little or Not at All on Banks.

NEEDS OF BUSINESS MET

Boston, March 27 (A.P.).—The money market in the Boston Federal Reserve District was described today as being favorable by George S. Mumford, president of the Atlantic NationalH Bank. There is plenty of money for commercial borrowers at from 5 to 6 per cent, he said, and no evidence of tightening in that direction.

Philadelphia, March 27 (A.P.).—Money both for time and call has not risen above 6 per cent in Philadelphia, the legal limit.

A. A. Jackson, president of the Girard Trust Co., expressed the opinion that most banks here were in a loaned-up position, but were taking care of all customers.

Cleveland, March 27 (A.P.).—Despite the unusual credit situation now prevailing in Wall street, there "is no particular evidence" of tight money conditions in the Fourth Federal Reserve District, according to J. B. Anderson, of the Federal Reserve Bank of Cleveland.

There is a slight increase in bank loans made by the Cleveland Reserve Bank, but Anderson called these "seasonal," and not due to any influence from the stock markets. Taking all things into consideration, he described the money situation in this reserve district as "quite normal."

Texas Money Plentiful.

Dallas, Tex., March 27 (A.P.).—Dallas and the adjacent territory have all the money needed for legitimate business and credit conditions are about normal, Nathan Adams, president of the American Exchange National Bank of Dallas, said today.

"Money is a little tight on the stock market, but that doesn't affect us here," he said. "There is no call money here as that is almost entirely a New York proposition. Legitimate business can get all the money it needs at a reasonable figure and the banks are in shape to care for the demands."

W. J. Evans, assistant Federal Reserve agent here, refused to speak for the Dallas Federal Reserve district, saying that any comment at this time would be unwise.

Kansas City, March 27 (A.P.).—Prominent bankers here today reported increased money demand because of the credit pinch in New York but professed no uneasiness over the situation.

Officials of the Federal Reserve Bank declined to comment.

"Money is tighter here, naturally, due to increased commercial and investment demands," said James M. Kemper, president of the Commerce Trust Co.

"But because of a low Federal Reserve discount rate of 4½ per cent and the sympathetic attitude of the Federal Reserve Bank toward commercial and farm borrowers I do not expect any stringency here."

E. F. Swinney, chairman of the board of the First National Bank, entertained a similar view. "There is plenty of money available in the Middle West," he said.

San Francisco Not Affected.

San Francisco, March 27 (A.P.).—The sharp rise in call money rates on Wall street has not affected the credit situation in San Francisco, Mortimer Fleischhacker, president of the Anglo-American Bank & Trust Co. and a leading financial figure on the Pacific Coast, said today.

"No pressure for credit curtailment came down through either the Federal Reserve Bank of San Francisco or the leading banks of the city," Fleischhacker said, "and brokers, as far as I know, were freely supplied with funds, as usual, at 7 per cent."

Chicago, March 27 (A.P.).—Discussing the money situation in this territory, Melvin A. Traylor, president of the First National Bank, said that credit was tight.

"When 90-day bank acceptances, which are just as good as the deposits themselves, are selling at 5¾ per cent, it is certainly good evidence that credit is tight," Mr. Taylor said.

Officers of the Federal Reserve Bank declined to comment.

RELEASE OF FUNDS ENDS STOCK CRISIS

that one large bank called $60,000,000 in call loans for the account of investment trusts yesterday. The bank had been putting out about $200,000,000 in call loans for the account of investment trusts, the paper asserted.

"This entirely new factor that Wall street never before has had to deal with," continued the newspaper, "would explain both the rapid rise in call money and the remarkable rally in stocks at the end of the day.

"Last year and the year before thousands of investment trusts were formed in this country, representing hundreds of millions of capital. The buying of stocks in the open market by these investment trusts was a contributing cause in the great bull market of 1928.

"The investment trusts, which have the power to trade at will in the market, have been selling out at the top of the market at handsome profits and lending their money at call. The declines of the past week have brought stocks down to a point where the investment trusts consider certain stocks attractive. They called loans yesterday to finance purchases of stocks at what they considered bargain prices.

"The investment trust situation is new to the United States and still is an unknown quantity in the financial affairs of the country. Several times in recent months economists have pointed out that investment trusts were building up a terrific financial power which would be able to swing stock markets. It is generally believed that yesterday's experience was the first taste of just how much power the investment trusts have."

MISSOURI RIVER ICE MENACES BIG AREA

Huge Jam Chokes Stream at North Dakota Towns; Army Sends Aid.

WATER IS RISING RAPIDLY

Bismarck N. Dak., March 27 (A.P.).—The five-mile ice jam in the Missouri River below here, backwaters from which threaten to flood Bismarck, Mandan and extensive sections of rich farm land, cracked up today only to churn itself into another mountainous wedge that choked off the stream's flow.

While Army engineers directed a crew of men in placing dynamite on a gigantic gorge at Ruff, south of here, the ice jam began to move out and for half an hour it appeared that the danger of a serious flood was over, when the gorge suddenly re-formed and tonight it apparently was as solid as ever while the water was rising at the rate of half a foot an hour.

A sharp drop in the river stage today and the subsequent sharp rise were due to the vagaries of a stream which is famous for the tricks it plays upon those who live along its shores.

With a tremendous weight of water behind it, the current today cut a new channel along the east side of its old course and water was diverted around the gorge which had plugged the former bed of the river. The North channel, added to the South channel, carried the water away rapidly. In addition, a break occurred in the gorge proper and a great volume of water began to pour through the break.

Main Gorge Again Choked.

It looked as if the battle with the river was over and that the efforts of engineers who were trying to dynamite the ice gorge had been wasted. The condition lasted only a short time, however, and the main gorge choked up again.

A new gorge formed in the east channel, which had only recently been opened, and blocked passage of the water there. As a result of these changes in the situation the river gauge, which had fallen from the crest of 18.5 feet to 16.7 feet, began to skyrocket again and late today stood at 17.5 feet. It was still rising tonight.

Engineers returning from the gorge said the huge wall of ice presented an impressive sight. Cakes have piled on top of each other, forcing those underneath almost to the bed of the river. The sides of the gorge are wedged firmly against the banks in many places. Where the banks are low, cakes of ice 30 feet square have been wedged out upon the shore by the pressure of the current and the weight of the ice upstream.

River Roads Are Flooded.

Roads on the east side of the river, which were clear all day, were flooded tonight and it was impossible to reach the place where the engineers are trying to dynamite except by a long detour.

The flood on the east side of the river was caused by the choking of the east channel. The current had been directed toward it, and when it clogged with ice the water poured over an adjacent prairie.

Three Army observation planes arrived here today to augment the two already there, and two heavy bombing planes were expected later. There were no bombs available for them to use, however.

Meanwhile, ice was continuing to come down from the north to add its weight to the 25 miles filled, which is at the base of the gorge.

Three Bombers Are Sent.

Three Army bombing planes, ordered to Mandan, N. Dak., to assist in the bombing operations to break up the ice gorge there, and which were held here Tuesday by unfavorable weather, left Bolling Field yesterday morning for Wright Field, Dayton, Ohio. They will continue today for Fort Lincoln, N. Dak., by way of Chicago and Minneapolis.

Intruder in Home of Mrs. J. P. Holloway Runs; Alarm Sent Out.

Aroused from her reading to find a colored man standing in the doorway of her home at 130 E street northeast shortly before 9 o'clock last night, Mrs. Evelyn Holloway's lusty screams scared the intruder away after he had grabbed her by the arm and tried to force her upstairs, where her two young children were sleeping.

Mrs. Holloway and the children were alone in the house at the time and, despite their mother's screams, the youngsters continued their sleep in peace. The negro, however, became alarmed at her calls for help and fled.

The young woman's husband, James P. Hollaway, an electrical contractor, was out on a job when the attempted attack occured. Police of the Ninth Precinct obtained a good description of the colored man from Mrs. Holloway and broadcast a lookout for him.

HYDE WILL TESTIFY ABOUT FARM RELIEF

House Agriculture Committee Would Pave Way to Get Hoover's Opinion.

MAGNATES ARE INVITED

In the midst of an impasse between the White House and Congress that has prevented any start toward writing a farm bill for the extra session, a point of contact between the two branches of Government was established yesterday with the announcement that Secretary of Agriculture Hyde will appear before the House agriculture committee on April 1.

Chairman Haugen (Republican), Iowa, of the committee, in making the announcement, was uncertain what bearing the Hyde testimony would have on the views and program of President Hoover, but was confident that questioning would establish the necessary liaison with the administration to pave the way toward drafting an administration bill, a task that President Hoover has left to Congress and which members of Congress have declined to undertake without further instructions from the President.

When President Hoover was urged last week to ask Secretary Hyde to testify on behalf of the administration it appeared the request would be denied. The following day it was announced at the Capitol that the Secretary would appear. The next day he had departed for Missouri to wind up business matters. Yesterday's announcement came as a surprise.

"Kidding" Campaign Planned.

It was made apparent at hearings before Senate and House committees Tuesday and yesterday that a "kidding" campaign is to be conducted until Mr. Hoover indicates just what he wants or will stand for. Neither the White House nor the members of the House of Representatives enthused over the plan of the Senate committee to hear John D. Rockefeller, jr., J. Pierpont Morgan, Andrew W. Mellon, Charles M. Schwab, Henry Ford, Paul M. Warburg and Owen D. Young. Joseph F. Grundy, leading protectionist of Pennsylvania, was added to the list yesterday, and has been asked to appear.

William Higgins, assistant secretary to Mr. Morgan, wired Senator McNary (Republican), Oregon, chairman of the Senate committee, that his employer, who was abroad on reparation matters, could not attend the hearings.

Mr. Warburg also telegraphed that he could not appear.

Some administration leaders attributed the action of the Senate committee in inviting financiers and captains of industry to testify to a desire for publicity, but those behind the proposal are serious and believe that valuable suggestions can be had from successful business men.

Some Heard by Committee.

The Senate committee yesterday heard M. P. Hill, president of the National Farmers and Grain Dealers Association; G. W. Connell, secretary of the Minnesota Wheat Growers Association; Harvey Jordan, American Cotton Association; John W. Dillon, publisher of the Rural New Yorker; T. F. Luckingor, Columbia (Nebr.) National Farm Loan Association, and R. G. Hetzel, Association of Land Bank Colleges.

Mr. Connell said he would have the tariff made effective for the farmer and put him on a parity with industry. He suggested a stabilizing board for each commodity. Mr. Jordan would federalize every cotton warehouse and require sales by net weight and not bales. Mr. Dillon argued for orderly marketing, saying that the American farmer is now headed for old-style peasantry. Speculators control the market and name the price.

Witnesses Before House Committee.

Chester A. Gray, legislative agent of the American Farm Bureau Federation; George Shibley, representing independent economists; John P. Black, professor of agriculture at Harvard University, and former Representative Sidney Anderson, of Minnesota, were witnesses before the House committee. Before beginning its hearings the House committee appointed a subcommittee to pass on witnesses.

Some of the members said that while the Senate committee made a farce of the effort to get information it would proceed in an orderly way. Gray, who has appeared before farm relief committees for years, said that his organization had not relinquished its plan for an equalization fee, but it would "go along" with President Hoover if he had something better to offer.

Members of the House committee believe that the Republican national convention disposed of the equalization fee and that it is out of the question now.

Dr. W. M. W. Splawn Named American University Dean

War Claims Referee Given Leadership of 2 Schools in Capital.

DR. WALTER M. W. SPLAWN.

Dr. Walter M. W. Splawn, former president of the University of Texas, and now referee in the office of the war claims arbiter here, appointed dean of the Graduate School and of the School of Political Sciences of American University, it was announced by Dr. Lucius C. Clark, chancellor of the university.

Dr. Splawn, who also becomes professor of economics in American University, will begin his work at the institution September 1, for the opening of the next fall term. He takes the newly created post of dean, a combination of the positions formerly held by Dr. Edward T. Devine, dean of the Graduate School, who resigned to return to New York City, and the late Dr. Albert H. Putney, former director of the School of Political Sciences.

Since last May Dr. Splawn has been referee in the office of the war claims arbiter, Judge Edwin B. Parker, who is also umpire of the Mixed Claims Commission and commissioner of the Tripartite Commission. As referee, Dr. Splawn has participated in many cases involving claims of German, Austrian and Hungarian citizens against the United States, totaling millions of dollars. Prior to becoming referee, with offices in the Investment Building, Dr. Splawn was doing research work in the social sciences for the University of Texas and the Rockefeller Foundation. He then held the title of director of research in social sciences of the university.

Dr. Splawn holds the A. B. and M. A. degrees from Yale, Ph. D. from the University of Chicago, and LL.D. from Howard Payne College and Baylor University. He took advanced work in law at Yale and at the University of Chicago. He was admitted to the Texas bar in 1909. His teaching experience has been extensive, his last position being that of professor of economics at the University of Texas, which he held for nine years before coming to Washington. He was made president of the University of Texas in 1924 and after resigning the post was reelected. After relinquishing his administrative duties as president he became head of the department of economics and director of research in the social sciences.

On leave of absence from the university, Dr. Splawn served for a time as a member of the Texas Railroad Commission and in this capacity appeared before the Interstate Commerce Commission on important cases.

He is author of the following books: "An Introduction to the Study of Economics," "The Railroad Commission of Texas," "Consolidation of Railroads" and "Government Ownership and Operations of Railroads," the latter just off the press of the MacMillan Co.

He is a member of the Cosmos Club and resides at 1833 New Hampshire avenue.

LOS ANGELES TURNS OUT TO SEA IN HUNT

Moonlight Search for Missing Finucane Party Begun by Dirigible.

$10,000 REWARD POSTED

New York, March 27 (A.P.).—The Navy dirigible Los Angeles joined tonight in the search for T. Raymond Finucane, wealthy Rochester, N. Y., sportsman, and three companions who disappeared while flying from Norfolk to New York last Friday.

The search was given added incentive late today when B. E. Finucane, of Rochester, brother of the missing sportsman offered a reward of $10,000 to the captain of any ship rescuing the fliers. He also offered $2,500 for the first information directly leading to location of the missing plane.

Leaving its hangar late today with a crew of 50 men under command of Lieut. Comdr. Charles Rosendahl, the Los Angeles swung out over the coast to pursue a moonlight search for the missing plane throughout the night.

The search, ordered by Government officials at Washington, was to be concentrated over the ocean, the dirigible possibly going farther off shore than a scores of planes that have been hunting for days have been able to.

Finucane chartered the plane from the Curtiss Flying Service at Miami to fly to New York. The pilot was Harry Smith, of Miami, and the mechanic Robert Boyd, of Portland, Me. who was stationed at Miami. The fourth man was Frank Abels, of Mineola, N. Y. The missing plane was a twin-motored Sikorsky amphibian numbered 8019.

Atlantic City, N. J., March 27 (A.P.). Mrs. Richard Carpenter, of Broadwater, Va., wrote Municipal Radio Station WPG today that a plane passed over Hog Island near her home on Friday and that suddenly the motors stopped when the plane was about five miles northeast of Hog Island Light Station.

She said that the motors never started again and she was unable to sight the plane because of a long range of pine trees between the island the beach.

Capt. Christopher Bentham, of the local Coast Guard station, expressed the belief tonight that the plane never had reached the Jersey Coast.

VIRGINIA FIRST TO TEST HOOVER PLAN TO BOOST G. O. P. IN SOUTH

tee should have taken any necessary action against "Tieless Joe" Tolbert, of South Carolina, and Perry W. Howard, of Mississippi. It was given as Mr. Hoover's attitude that these two cases have no relation to the movement to build up the Republican party in the South.

In Mr. Hoover's mind these leaders had committed patronage abuses. It is true that neither has ever been convicted in court of doing so, but they have been convicted by Mr. Hoover and he considers it strictly within his jurisdiction to sit in judgment on them. Patronage has to do with the orderly conduct of the government. Patronage dispensers are men who recommend appointees to him and it is for him and no one else to determine whether he has confidence in those who make the recommendations. All he has done, in the case of Howard and Tolbert, it is pointed out, is to serve notice that he has no confidence in their recommendations.

Political Benefits Limited.

Admittedly, this action will make a good impression on independent Democrats in the South, but in so far as the two States involved are concerned, no political benefit is expected. It will be a long time before the Republicans get a foothold in South Carolina or Mississippi.

The substantial citizens with whom Mr. Hoover's administration expects to confer in regard to appointments in these States will naturally develop into influential citizens. In Mississippi there is in this category Charles U. Gordon, president of the Southern States Republican League, whose organization is probably bigger in name than in membership, and Lamont Rowlands, prominent lumberman. They probably will come to have considerable influence as patronage dispensers, but it will be a long time before they get any appreciable number of Democrats to go with them. There are not many independent or Hoover Democrats in either Mississippi or South Carolina.

In the other Southern States the seeds for the two-party system have been planted. It does very well to say that it was the religious issue that overturned the South in November and that four years from now it will be back in its normal Democratic fold.

Leaders Behind Party Bolt.

The religious and prohibition issues, virtually synonymous, did provide the momentum, but behind it were some of the best and most influential minds in the South, economically tired of the Democratic yoke and seeing in the two fiery issues the opportunity to overthrow it, and they are not going to yield their gains without a struggle. If the Democrats nominate an energetic wet four years from now, assuming that prohibition is in its present period, these two-party advocates are not to be scoffed at.

One immediate result of Mr. Hoover's bid, of course, will be to make the Democratic leaders less cocky and more disinclined to punish the November bolters. There is a place for them to go. In many States the Democratic leaders already have realized, for that matter, that the bolters are not alarmed at their threats.

The attitude of the bolters has been the cause of some apprehension to the leaders, noticeably in Virginia.

In that State the most fertile field seems to exist for the Republicans to try their experiment. The bitterness of the recent battle has not worn off. It is important that the advisory council be set up there immediately and its personnel will be awaited with interest. Bishop James Cannon, jr., would be a logical appointee and his appointment a master political stroke, in so far as that State is concerned, at least.

The indications are that Mr. Hoover is not worried about the hullabaloo that Howard is expected to create among the colored voters. It is four years before another election and the party is bigger than one man.

H. G. Hastings Active In Georgian Rebuilding

Atlanta, March 27 (A.P.).—Immediate steps to rebuild the Republican party of Georgia along the lines suggested by President Hoover yesterday, were announced today by H. G. Hastings, Atlanta business man and chairman of the Hoover campaign committee in this State.

Hastings said a meeting of "Republicans and anti-Smith Democrats" was held here today and that further meetings would be held here and elsewhere during the week. He added that many campaign committees which had not been disbanded after election, would function.

Pointing out that he had no connection with the Republican State central committee, Hastings declined to comment on the position of that organization. He said he pointed out to today's gathering that Georgia cast 99,000 votes for Hoover as against 30,000 for Coolidge in 1924, and that rebuilding could be launched on that basis.

The State central committee meanwhile was split into opposing factions, and had not been called into session by either of the leaders who claimed chairmanship. Roscoe Pickens, chairman of the faction which deposed Ben Davis, Atlanta negro, as national committeeman, at Kansas City, said he was "working with Hoover and administration forces to rebuild the party in Georgia.

"Mr. Hoover's program meets with my entire approval," Pickett said, "but just where the State central committee fits in I am unable to say as yet. These matters will have to work themselves out gradually."

COOLIDGE SEES NEED OF ARMY FOR PEACE

says that "opinions may differ as to whether nations with adequate military forces are more likely to enjoy peace than those which neglect their defenses. In the last analysis, this is a question of dealing with human nature. Every one knows that if there were no police our cities would be ransacked within 24 hours."

"I very strongly suspect that if there were but one nation in the world supplied with an army and navy, and, to make the supposition as strong as possible, if that nation were our own, it would not be long before the other nations had been overrun.

"It seems to me that it is almost a moral certainty that we should find some excuse for taking that action. But when we know that other countries have a considerable ability to defend themselves, it is human nature for us to regard them with a more wholesome respect and be more careful about violating their rights.

Others Less Likely to Offend.

"If we reverse this picture we can likewise conclude that if others know we are prepared to defend ourselves they will be less likely to commit offenses against us.

"While I have discussed national defense very largely as a method of preventing war, it has another aspect which is likewise of extreme importance. Perhaps peace is an ideal that can come only to future generations which are more perfect than our own. Meantime we should take every precaution to prevent war, of which adequate defense is one.

"But we should also take every precaution to protect ourselves to the fullest possible extent from its ravages, if it does come. The army and navy serve the double purpose of prevention and defense."

sioners and other local officials with whom he would come in contact. Dr. Carusi said the position would be filled within a few weeks.

The board members also discussed informally their plans for the establishment of a Teachers' College in Washington, under authorization of the last Congress. Under present plans the students attending the Wilson and Minor Normal schools will have an option of taking a four-year course leading to a professional degree up to June, 1931, and after that date will be required to take the full course upon enrollment in the Teachers' College.

PETROLEUM INSTITUTE VOTES TO CURB OIL

net result was that almost all of the American and foreign producers of crude oil in the Western Hemisphere would curtail from April 1 so that 1929 production, which thus far exceeds by about 170,000 barrels a day the daily output of last year, would not be greater than 1928 when 897,816,793 barrels were produced for an average daily supply of 2,453,051.

All the producers at the meeting agreed to curtail, but where and how much the cut would be were details left in the hands of five regional committees to determine. These committees will govern production in the Pacific Coast region, interior United States, Mexico and northern South America, the Atlantic Coast States and Louisiana, Arkansas and Texas. The Atlantic Coast and the Gulf States formerly were in one committee.

A general committee was authorized to ascertain what legislation is necessary to make the curtailment program practical, although some States already have enacted or have pending legislation covering produceiton.

Will Study Fields Abroad.

The committee also was asked to study whether it would be "desirable to encourage the same degree of restriction and conservation on the part of foreign fields as of our own."

President Reeser of the institute said he expected 50 per cent of the proposed reduction would be realized by April 1, with the curtailment fully achieved by July 1.

Reeser said he expected no advance in the price of gasoline at this time, although he indicated his confidence that the industry would recover from the "overproduction and uneconomical competition" which he indicated have kept the trade's return on its investment at 3½ per cent for several years.

"The baby was born today," he said, "and it still needs nourishment and encouragement, but it is the first time we're had a baby."

The institute's board of directors also adopted a resolution saying they did not oppose a gasoline tax for use on highway construction and maintenance, but opposing as "unsound and vicious" such a tax for other than road purposes.

Wilder Says Play Inspired His Book

Author Analyzes Creation of "Bridge of San Luis Rey" for Audience.

Seeing a one-act play by Prosper Merimee in Paris first suggested the writing of "The Bridge of San Luis Rey," Thornton Wilder, the author of the famous book, told an audience of more than a thousand in the Central High School Auditorium last night.

Mr. Wilder revealed that his character, the Marquessa, whose letters formed a major part of the novel, was modeled after Mme. de Sevigne, a famous lady in French history. The chapters dealing with the twin brothers were based on the philosophy Mr. Wilder extracted from his experience as a schoolmaster, he said. The portion of the book dealing with the stage was encouraged by the author's confessed absorption in everything pertaining to the theatrical world.

That Mr. Wilder's novel was symbolical was revealed in a great many things he said. The life of the Marquessa, he viewed as a symbol of the loneliness and isolation of a great many people. A striking feature of Mr. Wilder's lecture, which was the last to be presented this season by the Community Institute, was that not once did he mention the title of his novel. The word "bridge" was mentioned once.

No opposition was voiced against the establishment of stores and small commercial houses.

POLICE HEADS HELD AS ARMS PLOTTERS

REBELS LEAVING JIMENEZ

Tucson, Ariz., March 27 (A.P.).—Leslie Gatliff, chief, and Walter Morris, captain of the Douglas, Ariz., police department were held under $5,000 bond following arraignment in United States District Court here today on charges of conspiracy to smuggle arms across the Mexican boundary. Eight other prominent residents of Agua Prieta, Sonora and Douglas were held under similar bonds. Gatliff and Morris both furnished bail immediately.

Douglas, Ariz., March 27 (A. P.).—Ten men were arrested by United States special agents here today on charges of smuggling arms and ammunition across the international border. Their names were withheld. Agents said that other arrests were expected momentarily.

The agents have been investigating the whereabouts of 37,000 rounds of ammunition and two machine guns which belonged to the city. Mayor Millard Haymore showed the agents minutes of a city council meeting which contained an order to the chief of police to sell the ammunition. Chief of Police Leslie Gatliff, questioned by the agents, asserted that he sold the war material to a "strange American" about March 1.

Previously the agents had arrested Rodolfo Juan Campodonico, Douglas automobile salesman, while driving an automobile in which was found 2,000 rounds of ammunition and a rifle.

Rebels Leaving Jimenez.

Mexico City, March 27 (A.P.).—It was reported tonight on good authority that the rebels were evacuating Jimenez and continuing their retreat northward. Government officials here believe that Escobar will not make a stand against Gen. Calles' federals until he reaches Bachimba Pass, a few miles south of the city of Chihuahua.

In the first air battle to death ever fought in any Mexican revolution a Federal pilot was victor and sent his rebel adversary crashing from a height of 4,000 feet, government advices today said. The battle occurred Sunday during the siege of Mazatlan by rebel forces under Gens. Roberto Cruz and Francisco Manzo. A federal plane, piloted by Lieut. Jorge Lierenas, met a rebel plane aloft over Venadilla, suburb of Mazatlan, and, after brief maneuvering and fighting, put his ship out of commission. It was believed the pilot was killed.

Nogales, Mex., March 27 (United Press).—Rebel leaders here said tonight that the insurgent column under Gen. Francisco Manzo was continuing a march toward Guadalajara, after having "bottled up" federal troops in Mazatlan, Sinaloa.

Head for Guadalajara.

Specific details of Gen. Manzo's movements were not announced. Gen. Francisco Borquez said merely that the rebels were moving on Guadalajara as the first step in a proposed attack on Mexico City. Borquez declared that Gen. Jaime Carrillo, federal commander, could not escape from Mazatlan unless he left by sea.

Revolutionary headquarters was on the alert for indications that an attack was to be made on Nogales by federals from the State of Lower California, to the west. Rebel scouts, sent out when Gov. Rodriguez, of Lower California, threatened to attack from San Luis, Sonora, reported no trace of an enemy force.

Gen. Fausto Topete, who is heading 2,500 rebels, who propose to attack Naco, was reported still at Del Rio, 25 miles south of Naco. He was said to be continuing preparation of munitions and equipment for the advance, which he had announced several days ago.

Federals Made Advance.

(Associated Press.)

Federal cavalry advance guards were reported near the rebel main stronghold at Jimenez, in South Chihuahua, as confirmation of federal victory at Mazatlan, on the west coast, caused interest in the Mexican campaign to shift back to northern Mexico.

Chapultepec Castle announced that Gen. Ortiz, leading the advance of Gen. Almazan's army, had arrived "near Jimenez," where Gen. Escobar, rebel generalissimo, was said to have established headquarters.

"Escobar is still dodging us, but we are continuing to advance," Ortiz reported.

Gen. Calles informed Mexico City by wireless that his repair crews were putting into shape 6 miles of railway track daily north of Torreon.

Ambassador Morrow and Consul Blocker at Mazatlan both confirmed raising of the siege of the seaport. The government declared that a federal force from Durango, advancing against Culiacan, Sinaloa, threatened retreat of the rebels.

Aid for the rebels in the air was promised with formation of the "Yankee Doodle Fliers" by a group of American pilots who will serve Gen. Escobar. Federal mastery of the air has been a most serious menace to the insurgent campaign.

Pension of $4,000 For Widow of Foch

Thousands More File Past Vault Containing Marshal's Body.

Paris, March 27 (A.P.).—Mourning thousands continued today to file past the open vault under the altar of the Chapel of St. Louis in the Invalides to pay a last tribute to Marshal Ferdinand Foch. For the most part the lines were composed of the great commander's former soldiers, but when the file of these became thin the public at large was admitted to the lines.

At nightfall the gates were closed and the double line of republican guards, who had formed an aisle through the courtyard of the chapel, were withdrawn.

The widow, it was understood, will go to the country for a rest after she has recuperated from the long strain of the watch in the sickroom and the five days of funeral ceremonies. The government is to allow her to retain the home which was placed at the marshal's disposal after the war and which is only a few steps from the crypt where he lies.

Provision is being made also for her financial welfare in the shape of a pension of approximately $4,000 annually.

Girl Forced to Protect Bandits in $7,000 Theft

Indianapolis, March 27 (A.P.).—The East Side State Bank was robbed of approximately $7,000 in cash by four men early this afternoon. The bandits escaped in an automobile after taking Miss Dorothy Edwards, 25, a cashier in the bank, with them for a half block as a shield against possible firing at them by bank employes.

Capt. Chisholm Is Slated As Col. Grant's First Aid

He Will Succeed Brown as Assistant in Parks Office.

CAPT. E. N. CHISHOLM, JR.

Capt. E. N. Chisholm, jr., Corps of Engineers, will succeed Maj. Carey E. Brown, Corps of Engineers, as first assistant director, Office of Public Buildings and Public Parks and Engineer officer of the National Capital Park and Planning Commission, when the latter returns to military duties, this summer, it was learned yesterday.

Capt. Chisholm was born in Charleston, S. C., in 1878, and entered military service in the World War, serving with the Second Engineers in France. Following the war, he has had duty on the general staff, with the Muscle Shoals project, Federal engineer of the North Mississippi district, and with troops in the Philippines department.

Some weeks ago, Capt. Chisholm was ordered to duty in the Office of Public Buildings and Public Parks from Fort Humphreys, Va., succeeding Capt. George W. Gillette as second assistant director of the office, Capt. Gillette being transferred to Fort Logan, Colo.

Maj. Brown, whose next assignment has not yet been announced, came to the Office of Public Buildings and Public Parks in 1925, as an assistant director under Lieut. Col. C. C. Sherrill, former Army Engineer officer, who resigned from service to become city manager of Cincinnati, Ohio.

During the administration of Lieut. Col. Sherrill's successor, Lieut. Col. U. S. Grant 3d, present diretcor of the office, many important duties came under Maj. Brown's jurisdiction, which he discharged with ability. The great park and planning movement for the beautification of the National Capital and its environs was started.

NEW HOME CHOSEN BY WOMAN'S PARTY

Historic House on B Street, Built in 1772 by Lord Baltimore, Selected.

4,000 ROSES IN GARDEN

One of the oldest houses in Washington is to become the new headquarters of the National Woman's Party, which will be forced to vacate its present headquarters in the historic Old Brick Capitol in May as a result of its purchase by the Federal Government.

The new headquarters, located at 144 B street northeast, was acquired from Senator Porter H. Dale, of Vermont, who purchased it in 1922. The house is said to have been built by Lord Baltimore for his daughter in 1772, twelve years before Washington was selected as the site for the National Capital.

In 1814 British soldiers set fire to the house because they were fired upon by some one within when they were marching by on their way to burn the Capitol. However, no irreparable damage was done.

One of the features of the old property is its garden, containing more than 500 rose bushes, where as many as 4,000 roses can be seen blooming at one time.

The Government took over the Old Capitol and site for the new structure of the Supreme Court of the United States.

Rail Strike Voted By 4,000 Workers

Texas & Pacific Men Are Aggrieved Over Changing Division Point.

Dallas, Tex., March 27 (A.P.).—Although a spokesman for railway brotherhoods of the Texas & Pacific Railway declared today that the members had voted in favor of a strike, officials of the line here declared they had not been notified of the move. Four thousand employes were declared to have favored the strike. The vote was announced by Fred Barr, vice president of the Brotherhod of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen.

The Texas & Pacific changed its division point from Longview, Tex., to Mineola, Tex., in January. Many employes owned or were buying homes at Longview. They claimed the road should make good their property loss. Mediation failed and the strike vote was taken.

J. A. Somerville, vice president of the Texas & Pacific, said his road did not wish to enter a controversy with the men other than to say any notification of such a vote should come to the road from the locals instead of the national organization.

The vote was forwarded today to the grand officers of the brotherhood. If they approve the strike the date will then be set.

The aged general described the photographer as a "Frenchman" in an article entitled "Examples of the Immorality of Freemasons."

McManus, Held as Slayer Of Rothstein, Freed on Bail

Gambler, Said to Have Invited "A. R." to Game That Ended in Death, Puts Up $50,000; Doubted if He Will Ever Be Brought to Trial.

New York, March 27 (A.P.).—After four months in the Tombs Prison, George McManus was released in bail today, the charge of murdering Arnold Rothstein still standing against him, but the prospect of his ever being brought to trial an open question.

Smiling and debonair, McManus, in a natty spring suit, strolled from the prison's main entrance with his attorney. Extra police held back a curious crowd of several hundred persons, while news cameramen protographed him. Then he stepped into an automobile that whisked him away.

Behind him in the prison he left as surety of his appearance in case it should be decided to try him $50,000 in Liberty bonds furnished by Edward McLaughlin, son of a former police inspector.

Rothstein, the "big shot" of New York's gambling fraternity, was fatally shot in a hotel room rented by McManus, himself a professional gambler, last November 4. McManus' overcoat was found in the hastily vacated room and police were informed that Rothstein had been summoned to the place where he was killed by a telephone call from McManus, his reputed friend.

Police were unable to find McManus, but on November 26 he made a rendezvous with them in a barber shop and there they found him having a shave. Since then he had been in the Tombs, District Attorney Banton refusing to bring him to trial until after arrest of three other men jointly charged with the crime. One of these men is Hyman (Gilly) Biller, payoff man for McManus, and the others are listed only as John Doe and Richard Roe.

Biller was last heard of in Havana months ago and the whereabouts of Doe and Roe are as densely clouded in obscurity as are their identities.

Drug Sellers Sentenced.

Detroit, Mich., March 27 (A.P.).—A huge drug ring operating in Detroit and New York, which is said to have yielded a net profit to its leader of $1,000 a day over an eight-year period, was believed wrecked today with sentencing of four persons in Federal court.

Harry Reiter, 34, leader of the group, was sentenced to ten years in the Federal Penitentiary at Leavenworth, the first year to be spent in solitary confinement. With him were sentenced Edna King, with whom he lived in a luxurious apartment here; Reiter's lieutenant, Moe Raskin, and Raskin's wife, Irene.

Miss King, who informed Federal agents of the activtites of the ring because of attentions Reiter paid other women, drew a three and a half year sentence in the prison at Rutland, Vt., Raskin was sentenced to five years in Leavenworth and his wife to six months in the Detroit House of Correction. Narcotics valued at $25,000 were found in Reiter's apartment when it was raided.

Evidence connecting Reiter with the drug-selling activities of Arnold Rothstein, New York gambler, who was slain in a hotel room last November 4, was found by Federal narcotic agents when they raided Reiter's apartment in December. This was sent to Federal authorities in New York and resulted in arrest of several other persons connected with the Rothstein ring in various parts of the country.

Bank books found in Reiter's apartment showed deposits in New York, Detroit and Chicago banks averaging more than $1,000 a day, with dates running back more than eight years.

BISHOP BRENT DIES SUDDENLY IN EUROPE

Former Chief Chaplain A.E.F. Known for Long Fight on Opium Traffic.

STRICKEN IN LAUSANNE

Lausanne, Switzerland, March 27 (A. P.).—Death called Bishop Charles Henry Brent of the Protestant Episcopal Diocese of Western New York, in the middle of last night. He was widely known in Europe because of his strong advocacy of the League of Nations and his leadership in the battle against the opium evil. He died of heart trouble. Bishop Brent passed away in the presence of one of his physicians, Sir James Barlow, who was accompanying him to Venice, Athens and Constantinople. He was 66 years old.

Church organizations at Lausanne, where the bishop is well known since the religious conference held here several years ago, vied with one another to do his memory honor. A service will be held tomorrow morning in the cathedral under the auspices of Swiss ecclesiastic authorities. The English, Scotch Presbyterian and Greek churches will collaborate.

U. S. to Send Representative.

The Rev. Everett Smith, rector of the American Church of Geneva, will represent the American Episcopal community. The American Legation at Berne is sending a representative.

During his illness at Paris Bishop Brent is understood to have expressed a desire to be buried where he died, but no disposition will be made of the body until word has been received from Buffalo.

He came to Europe on a special mission to bear a gift to the retiring Archbishop of Canterbury and to attend the enthronement of the new archbishop, and was ordered by his physician to remain in Europe until his condition improved.

He had been a guest of Ambassador Hoghton in London until Thursday of last week, when he came to Paris. He left Paris Monday for a cruise in the Mediterranean. Passing through here en route to the Mediterranean, he was taken ill suddenly.

Bishop Brent was an intimate friend of Gen. Pershing, with whom he passed several hours in Paris on Friday.

Long Fight on Opium.

New York, March 27 (A.P.).—Charles Henry Brent, who became bishop of the Western New York Diocese of the Protestant Episcopal Church in 1918, was probably best known for his long fight against the opium traffic while Bishop of the Philippine Islands from 1901 to 1918. His accomplishments as chief of the chaplain service of the American Expeditionary Force during the World War also brought him high honors, including the Distinguished Service Medal.

During seventeen years' service in the Philippines he declined offers of the bishopric of Washington, and the bishopric of New Jersey. In this period he was for two years a member of the committee appointed by the Philippine government to investigate the opium question in the Orient. Later he became senior member of the American delegation to the International Opium Commission at Shanghai. He became president of this organization in 1909 and two years later he was named chairman of the American delegation and president of the opium conference at The Hague. In 1923 he was an American representative at drug-traffic conferences at Geneva.

His war services were recognized by the British government, which conferred the honor of Companion of the Bath upon him. The Italian government made him Commander of the Order of Leopold.

Lindbergh Will Marry In Maine, Says Paper

Boston, March 27 (A.P.).—The Boston Traveler today said it had learned that Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and Anne Morrow would be married at the Morrow summer home at North Haven, Me. The newspaper said the wedding would take place in June in accordance with an announcement made by Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Morrow in Mexico City.

No further plans were given, beyond the fact that the caretaker of the summer home, Herbert O. Grant, was preparing for the arrival of the Morrows early in June.

PRELATE DEAD

BISHOP CHARLES H. BRENT.

Duke of York Made Scottish Church Head

London, March 27 (A.P.).—The throne today approved the appointment of the Duke of York, second son of King George, as lord high commissioner of the Church of Scotland in succession to Earl Stair.

This is the first time that this ancient office, dating from 1560, has been held by a member of the royal family. In 1924, when Ramsay Macdonald was head of the Labor government, the post was given to a working miner, James Brown, who was Laborite member of Parliament for South Ayrshire. Brown thus represented the sovereign and took up residence in Holy Rood Palace. He gave a dinner party there at which the guests were mostly members of the Scottish nobility.

FAINT ENDS WOMAN'S CAREER AS CAPTAIN

NEW CHARGE IS BROUGHT

London, March 27 (A.P.).—Upon hearing a magistrate's decision holding her for trial on a perjury charge, "Capt. Barker," London's woman masquerader, fainted in Marylebone Police Court today and had to be carried out.

The defendant, who was summoned a fortnight ago on a charge of swearing to a fictitious name before the high court, sat through the preliminary hearing this morning huddled up in a chair, swaying her head from side to side.

A new charge upon which she also was held was brought at today's hearing. It was that she made a false declaration in connection with a marriage ceremony through which she went under the name "Victor Barker, bachelor," with Alfreda Emma Hayward at Brighton in 1923.

The Barker case has been one of the most sensational before the British public in a long time. Interest in "Capt." Barker's history reached its culmination today with the hearing before a crowded court.

The defendant, who was taller than any one in the room, crumpled up and collapsed when the magistrate committed her for trial. She broke down previously when she had to go through the ordeal of being identified by Miss Hayward, who had been placed in the witness box.

Dickens Volume Brings $6,500.

London, March 27 (A.P.).—A presentation copy of the first edition of Charles Dickens' novel, "A Tale of Two Cities," was sold to Gabriel Wells, of New York, for 1,300 pounds sterling (approximately $6,500), at Sotheby's Auction Rooms, today. Dickens had inscribed the copy as a gift to the Irish novelist, Charles Lever.

"I'M ALONE" IN THE WORLD COURT.

Senator Walsh, of Montana, suggests that the controversy over the Canadian rum-runner I'm Alone "presents an excellent example of the need for the United States' entry into the World Court." In an address at Winter Park, Fla., he said:

> Whether the British vessel was in United States waters or whether the United States had a right to fire on and sink the vessel are facts of law and law alone, and could be most properly considered and adjudicated by the World Court.

Was the vessel British or Canadian? If it was Canadian, then a Canadian judge would have a right to sit on the World Court bench in considering the case. But a British judge would be sitting also. Thus, unless the American judge could bring up support from the Abyssinian, Siamese or other independent judges, he would find himself in a position in which the burden of his song would be, "I'm Alone."

Senator Walsh should go further in enlightening the institute of statesmanship at Winter Park by explaining that Sir Cecil Hurst, coauthor with Elihu Root of the formula for bringing the United States into the court, insists upon the right of every British dominion belonging to the League of Nations to have a judge on the World Court bench when matters affecting that dominion are considered, without regard to the presence of a British judge also. He has satisfied himself somehow that the British dominions are both inside and outside of the British Empire. Therefore two or more judges of British persuasion should sit in judgment, but no other empire or republic should have two judges.

No doubt Sir Cecil has convinced himself that a British judge and a British dominion judge would just as readily disagree as agree. Perhaps they would; but it is noticeable that Minister Massey and Ambassador Howard are working in splendid harmony on the I'm Alone case. Mr. Massey makes this official statement:

> The British Ambassador, of course, will retain a direct interest in the question, should it be found that the interpretation of the liquor smuggling treaty of 1924 is involved, since this treaty concerns every unit of the British commonwealth.

Every unit! Then there must be a World Court judge for every unit, according to Sir Cecil Hurst. Of course, the seven British judges might violently quarrel among themselves and render judgment in favor of the United States. Senator Walsh possibly foresees a great advantage in a World Court bench consisting of seven British judges and a minority of other nationalities, including one lone American. By counting upon the certainty of an intestine feud among the British judges, all other nations could rely upon obtaining impartial justice in controversies over treaties that concern the British Empire.

Ambassador Howard and Minister Massey are not contributing to the force of Sir Cecil Hurst's argument by their chumminess in the rum-running controversy. They should at least pick a quarrel and have a duel, so that Americans who are chary of the "seven to one" rule in League of Nations and World Court affairs would abandon their arrogant demand for equality between America and the British Empire. It is this infernal demand for equality that has worked havoc with naval limitation; and now it threatens to work havoc with the Root-Hurst plan for getting the United States into the World Court.

HOOVER AND THE SOUTH.

President Hoover's determination to put an end to abuses of Federal patronage and to build up the Republican party in the South on a solid foundation is highly commendable. He is anxious to take advantage of the gains made by the Republicans in the Southern States in the last election, but he demands that the State organizations be put on a respectable basis. He has made a bold move which may cost the party considerable in votes in the next election, but which can not fail to strengthen the position of the Republicans in the South in the long run.

Mr. Hoover has put the issue squarely before the Southern Republicans, and leaves the duty of correcting existing conditions in their hands. His method should prove effective, since it is accompanied by the threat that if the States concerned "are unable to initiate such organization through the leadership of men who will command confidence and protect the public service the different Federal departments will be compelled to adopt other methods to secure advice as to the selection of Federal employes." The old organizations in South Carolina, Georgia and Mississippi, which are responsible for the corruption recently exposed by a Senate committee, must be supplanted by new leaders in keeping with Mr. Hoover's ideals. Sale of Federal offices will no longer be tolerated, nor will assessment of Government employes for political purposes.

There is no longer reason for geographical division into Republican and Democratic sections. The South needs a stronger party of opposition. Furthermore, the uprooting of the old organizations will discourage the tendency for division of the Southern vote along racial lines. Democrats who have forsaken their own party have in many cases been prevented from making an alliance with the Republican party because they would not accept negro leadership. Mr. Hoover's ambition is to build up a sound organization that will "commend itself to citizenship of those States." This will bring protest from the colored voters, but it will lay the foundation for a much stronger Republican party in the South which can meet the Democrats on an equal footing.

President Hoover might have pampered the South with Cabinet appointments and patronage plums for his personal advantage. But he does not work that way. He insists that the Republican party shall be clean in the South as well as everywhere else. By this foresight he is laying the basis for a sound organization which will eventually give the Republicans a permanent foothold in the South.

LIMITATION OF OIL OUTPUT.

The American Petroleum Institute, now in session in New York, plans to attack the oil problem by limitation of production to the 1928 basis. Immediate action is contemplated, so that the output may be curbed beginning April 1.

The plan would, if put into effect, reduce the daily average production by 178,468 barrels, which illustrates how rapidly the industry is expanding in spite of a glutted market and need for reserving a supply for the future. Cutting down production to the 1928 basis would be an obvious improvement, though it could hardly be expected to solve the problem. It might, however, prove to be a good starting point from which a more comprehensive policy could be worked out.

The plan is to be submitted to the Federal Oil Conservation Board for approval, and then will be submitted to the authorities of the States concerned. But it is not made clear whether the reduction is to be accomplished by voluntary and unanimous action of the oil producers, or whether the States are to be asked to cooperate, by legislation or otherwise. If legislation is necessary, long delay is inevitable. If cooperation by the industry itself is to be the method, then the question arises whether all producers in this highly competitive business can be induced to cooperate.

Two other problems are involved. What good will it do to curtail American production if world production goes unchecked? The Americans in that case would be facing ruinous competition. Yet it is by no means certain that foreign interests will agree to a general plan of limitation. The other question relates to the danger of a general limitation agreement evolving into a monopoly that would have the power to raise the price of petroleum and gasoline. The Petroleum Institute may begin with the best of intentions, only to find itself running afoul of the antitrust laws.

CHINA'S WAR LORDS FALL OUT.

China again faces a period of civil war. Desperate efforts have been made by the Nationalist government to hold the whole country under its control, but the war lords are evidently not yet ready to submit. Fighting is reported in several provinces, and unrest continues to grow. It appears that President Chiang Kaishek is determined to force a showdown with the military leaders who are challenging the authority of the central government.

The principal disturbance at present is in the Provinces of Hupeh and Anhwei. The Wuhan army has clashed with the Nationalist forces. Reinforcements are being sent from Nanking and a fund of $3,750,000 has been raised for the campaign. On the other hand, it is reported that 20,000 men are being mobilized in the south to move to the support of the rebellious Wuhan army. Communists have captured the City of Tingchow in the Province of Fukien. In Shantung, Gen. Chang Tsung-Chang, who started a revolt some weeks ago, is reported to be preparing to resume his attack with 7,000 additional men.

The situation may be further complicated by the negotiations with Japan for settlement of the Tsinanfu dispute. It is considered certain that the Japanese government will ratify the agreement, and as a result Japanese troops in Shantung will be withdrawn as soon as possible. The Nanking government is naturally anxious to establish its authority in this province, and a contest for supremacy in Shantung looms. Dispatches state that the Nanking government has ordered four divisions now stationed at Peiping to advance and take up a position along the Tsinanfu lines. Two divisions of Marshal Feng Yu-hsiang's troops have also been ordered to this area. It is still uncertain as to which side Marshal Feng will take, but observers believe that he will join the opposition, and a war over control of Shantung may result.

These events leave the Nationalist government in a precarious condition. Some doubt was expressed as to the possibility of unifying China under one government, even at the time when unification was nominally achieved a few months ago. Some progress has been made by the Nationalists, but China is still a long way from realization of a stable government.

CHILD CRIMINALS.

New York is undertaking a campaign against juvenile crime, enlisting the aid of boys' clubs, playgrounds and community centers and children's aid societies. Police Commissioner Whalen has discovered that 44 per cent of the 500,000 persons arrested in New York last year were under the age of 20, and that 60 per cent of the city's holdups are committed by youths between the ages of 16 and 18. Juvenile crime in New York, as in most large cities of the country, is on the increase.

Plans for the crime prevention campaign include, in addition to greater vigilance by the police, a drive for funds to erect six boys' clubs. The movement will be directed by trained social workers who are members of the police force. Efforts will be made to meet boys on their own level and turn them from influences that lead to delinquency. Environment which is conducive to crime will be changed so far as possible and commercial activities will be supervised. Special provision will be made for boys and girls who do not fit into the regular standards of training. Patrolmen will be asked to know their districts better and to be more active in checking criminal tendencies.

A similar movement has gained considerable headway in Chicago and other cities, indicating that in the future more emphasis is to be placed on prevention rather than punishment of crime. The problem is one that can not be successfully handled by the police alone. It offers an excellent opportunity for clubs, welfare organizations, &c., to prove their worth to their communities. Generally such movements are hampered by lack of funds, though city officials recognize that money spent for prevention of crime could not be better invested.

One angle of the problem that should not be overlooked is what Justice Samuel D. Levy, of the children's court in New York, refers to as the creation of criminals in the public schools. In a recent magazine article he said the public school system with its 2,000,000 children who are below the average mentality "is a recruiting ground for the increasing army of American criminals." Children who are backward in school quickly develop an antisocial attitude. They play truant and steal, acquiring the mental attitude of outlaws. Under the guidance of experts in segregated classes a large percentage of these potential criminals could be made into valuable members of society, Justice Levy thinks. This suggests that the problem should be given more attention in the schools as well as by law enforcement agencies.

MIDDLE-AGED GOLFERS

For the Gorgas Memorial Institute.

Usually the middle-aged business man, in the spring of the year, turns his attention to the golf links or to some other form of physical exercise. Even if he has played golf the previous summer, usually he has led a sedentary life during the winter. Very often he knows nothing of whether his heart and lungs can stand the stress of the exercise. Almost every day in the summertime the newspapers give an account of some elderly chap dropping dead on the golf links from sunstroke or heart failure, to say nothing of the other men who, after 36 holes of golf, go home exhausted, eat a hearty meal and either die of acute dilatation of the stomach or are sick in bed for a long time with the so-called popular "breakdown." No man can hibernate for four or five months during the winter season and then expect to go out and play golf with men much younger and more active than himself.

One feature of the game against which the middle-age man should be warned is the nineteenth hole. Too many men will play the nineteenth hole at the end of every nine holes. This peps them up, of course, for the next nine holes, but the stimulation is always followed by a long period of depression and is undoubtedly false.

Now, what should a man of 45 or over do before he goes out on the links to play golf? In the first place, he should have a physical inventory made by going to a competent medical adviser and having his heart and lungs gone over carefully; his urine examined and his blood pressure taken. Modern business and the worries and strains incident thereto wear out more hearts and kidneys than we have any idea of.

If a man over 45 is physically fit, he should start out in the spring and play with men his own age and in about the same physical condition as himself. He should take it easy, play slowly, not hurry up the grades, nor indulge in more than nine holes for the first week or so. Gradually, as his muscles improve in tone and his heart and vascular system becomes accustomed to the added strain, he may increase the number of holes that he plays. He should not attempt to become highly proficient at a game that can be mastered only by youth, with constant practice, nor should he indulge in explosions of temper. These things only decrease very materially the benefits that he will derive from the exercise.

When he comes in after the game, a warm shower followed by a cool one will refresh him and tone up and stimulate his whole body. If he sits in the clubhouse and imbibes bootleg alcohol or homemade gin, he will undo all of the good that he may have derived from the afternoon in the sun and walking in the open air. From these come all of the physical benefits that golf gives. If he comes in from his game tired, is unable to eat his evening meal and rises from his bed the following morning pepless, his golf is doing him harm, and he should again consult his physician for a check-up, in an endeavor to ascertain the why of these feelings.

On the Way Home to Celebrate Easter.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Booze and War.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The booze pushers and the drys, between them, will have the world at war again if indeed it is not already at it. The determination of the booze profiteers in Canada and Great Britain to sell contraband to the United States, whether the latter likes it or not, is sure to bring trouble, and the attempt of the dry half of the world to rule the private habits, morals and life of the other half is already plunging the world into trouble. The next war will be between the drys and those who decline to be bossed by them and by any other form of prohibition.

J. H. BURNHAM (Canadian).

Let Oil Be Unconfined.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: As a private American citizen who has devoted many years in the oil and mining development throughout our great country I wish to express my humble but hearty indorsement of your fine editorial no "The World Oil Trust."

While President Hoover's oil policy of conservation will be indorsed by many leading students of economics and producing corporations, yet on the other hand he will find the old-time prospector, independent company and philosopher who believes in our old mining and leasing laws, along with the theory that mass production in all things means prosperity throughout the world.

JOHN LEWIS COCHRAN.

"The Voice of America."

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: In a letter to the editor "E Pluribus Unum" reports a resolution recently adopted by the Methodist Men's Committee of One Hundred. The resolution urges President Hoover to cancel the Treasury order permitting reception and transportation of diplomatic liquor. It further suggests that any ambassador who tries to import liquor be handed his passports.

I can hardly make myself believe that one who was quite sober would make such statements as this:

"Here is the voice of America speaking. How long, how long, O Treasury, wilt thou seek to set thy voice above that of a people who have learned the benefits of prohibition and who seek to carry that blessing to all the peoples of the world?"

Can Mr. Unum be serious? The "voice of America" reminds us of the six London tailors who began their petition, "We, the people of England——" And as for "a people who have learned the benefits of prohibition"—really, this is too much! Surely that was written by some wicked wet with a sense of humor. TEMPERANCE.

Correcting a Misconception.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: On Wednesday, March 27, 1929, an article appeared which, by inference and innuendo, no doubt led persons to believe that the Jews as a race were gross violators of the prohibition act, and that the Jones law, recently enacted, curbed them to such an extent that their observance of religious festivals hereafter will be very quiet. Dr. J. T. Loeb, quoted as being responsible for such statement, informs me that it is to be regretted that such construction had been placed upon certain statements of fact made by him to your reporter relative to the observance of the Purim feast, one of our religious holidays. It is well to recall at this time that Congress, in its enactment of the prohibition law, gave official recognition to all creeds regarding the use of spiritual beverages for sacramental purposes by inserting the following clause in said act:

"Nothing in this title shall be held to apply to the manufacture, sale, transportation, possession or distribution of wine for sacramental purposes, or like religious rites, and that the head of any conference or diocese or other ecclesiastical jurisdiction may designate any rabbi, minister or priest to supervise the manufacture of wine to be used for the purposes and rites in this section mentioned, and the person so designated may, in the discretion of the commissioner, be granted a permit to supervise such manufacture."

In view of the above fact, I feel impelled to submit this statement for publication in your valuable paper, correcting any misconception in the public mind relative to the observance of religious festivals by the Jewish people. Respectfully yours,

HARRY I. CARROLL,
President Combined Hebrew Congregations of District of Columbia.

Dupont Circle Lights.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Why is it not possible to stagger the Dupont Circle lights so that green lights are on for traffic half the way around and red the other half?

As it is now, every bit of traffic, both round the circle and moving toward and away from the circle is stopped while the red lights are on. No traffic can move away from the circle on the red lights. On the green lights there are three lines of traffic in movement simultaneously—those continuing round the circle, those moving away from the circle at any one of the eight intersections. In more than 50 per cent of the cases the cars desiring to move away from a given intersection are on the inner lane, necessitating their crossing to the right in front of anywhere from one to four cars. Cars turning on to the circle from any one of the eight intersections are in conflict with both the other traffic streams.

I believe that staggering the lights would amply protect the nursemaids and children.

VIRGILA STEPHENS.

Ants, Being Small, Will Fight Over Very Small Things.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

ONE prolific cause of divorce is childishness—a childish sense of values.

Hate closes the chapter that begins with a controversy over trivial things.

No two individuals, though one by law and in spirit, can be one in their desires, hopes, dislikes, ambitions and preferences.

And when there is conflict, as there must be almost hourly, the man will dominate because of his superior strength or he will surrender because of his chivalry.

If he dominates with the woman's consent, she will become his adoring servant, with never a thought of her own, and all will be well; but if he dominates against her will, she will nurse resentment, sigh for her lost independence, and eventually will become a neurasthenic or will divorce him to save her individuality.

If she dominates—and this is more probable, for he has been schooled in chivalry and during courtship has habituated himself to humoring her slightest wish—then he will be the one to chafe in harness and the future will depend upon her skill with the reins.

If she has a velvet hand, she can rule him sweetly and keep him unaware of his bondage, so that he will serve her gladly and feel no loss of his manhood.

But if power makes her careless and she cracks the whip too brazenly, so that even in public he will quail before her domineering eye, they will live as bitter master and miserable slave, or he will reach the end of his endurance and divorce her or go philandering with another woman and thus compel her to divorce him.

One or the other will dominate in nearly all cases, for where will, pride and selfishness are equal there must be continual conflict and such cases are rare.

Where there is peace, the question of dominance has been settled.

Every question that arises—whether to attend a show or remain at home, whether to buy a new car or use the old one, how to train the children, how to spend the income, whether or not to open the bedroom window—every question will be answered by the dominant one.

Happy homes are the few in which the hero husband dominates with his adoring wife's consent, and the many in which the wife dominates casually because her chivalrous husband doesn't care.

Unhappy homes are those in which every trivial decision involves the question of independence, and the dominated one suffers martyrdom because he can't have his own way.

If divorce is in the making, it usually is because the husband has forgotten chivalry and isn't manly enough to surrender a trivial point without feeling abused.

HIGHWAY MARKERS.

Tourists driving westward through Kansas early in the summer of 1926 had to find their way by prior knowledge, by inquiry or by means of the somewhat confusing helter-skelter of signs which strewed the highways, says the Kansas City Star. If they returned by the same route later in the summer they found at regular distances neat black and white shieldlike signs with cryptic numerals on them. Those signs were the markers of the United States highways. By this summer the Government estimates 96,000 miles of Federal road will have been marked. Persons to whom geography once was a great source of puzzlement now pore over road maps intelligently, and plan their routes by number. The numbering of the highways has been accompanied by some bad features, to be sure, such as the gradual elimination of famous old names such as the Santa Fe Trail, the Oregon Trail and the like. But by means of a coordination between the highway authorities and societies interested in the retention of tradition, this need not necessarily occur. By a combination of name and number, the famous old trails still may retain their identity. The highway markers are at times a great comfort to the harried motorist. Because they are there, he knows he is on a Federal or State road, even though too frequently, in some States which we shall not name, he could not otherwise tell it from a township lane.

Indianapolis News: The President's prohibition law enforcement commission might recommend a law forbidding the false branding of a mixture of wood alcohol, liquid fire and shoe polish.

Always.

Boston Transcript: Mayor Nichols says that Boston should expend $100,000,000 for improvements. In making a speech, the figures should be large enough to appeal to the popular imagination.

Good Reason.

Ohio State Journal: Another reason why we want to go to heaven, sometime, is to find out how the neighbor women who precede us to that abode of rest get along without any recent operations to talk about.

Pretty Soon.

Rochester Democrat and Chronicle: It seems that a son of Turkey's last Sultan has joined a jazz band and let four of his wives go. After a little, the rest of his family will probably go of their own accord.

Pick the Leader.

Schenectady Union-Star: Finding the right one to follow is perhaps the most important job that any of us face. Once it is done the rest is fairly simple. We can do great things if we are handled right.

Three Cars.

Lafayette Journal and Courier: Prosperity doesn't explain the arrival of the three-car family. The three cars simply mean that the old man plays golf, the wife plays bridge and the kids play thunder.

Great in Defeat.

Atchison Globe: Some people are trying to belittle Al Smith because he recently bought a hand organ. Personally, we think the purchase of the hand organ by Mr. Smith is an indication that he is a good sport; that instead of whining about defeat he is going to amuse himself in the way he pleases. Al Smith is great in defeat, and every reasonable man must concede that. You must remember that Mr. Smith, after having suffered defeat, went to Mr. Hoover and wished Mr. Hoover all the success in the world. We can't recall that Mr. Bryan, in his hours of defeat, did anything like that.

RED CROSS VEIL WON BY MRS. J. J. DAVIS

Insignia of Gray Ladies Is Bestowed on 16 Others of Probationer Class.

SERVICE PIN IS AWARDED

Mrs. James J. Davis, wife of the Secretary of Labor, was one of a probationers' class of seventeen members who received the veil of the Gray Ladies of the Red Cross Volunteer Service at Walter Reed General Hospital yesterday. The Davis children, James Davis, jr., and his four sisters, Jean, Jane, Joan and Jewel Davis, were interested spectators at the picturesque ceremony when their mother had her gray veil given to her by Maj. Gen. Merritte W. Ireland, U. S. A., and her volunteer service pin was awarded to her by Miss Mabel T. Boardman, chairman of the Volunteer Service of the American Red Cross.

Princess Elizabeth de Ligne and Princess Antoinette de Ligne, daughters of the Ambassador of the Belgians and Princess de Ligne, were other members of the 1929 class of Gray Ladies, which will be graduated on April 23, after taking a thorough course in preparation for this service.

Among the other members of the class were Mrs. Robert Bates, Mrs. G. A. W. Bell, jr., Mrs. Roy L. Bodine, Miss Helen Clifford, Mrs. Mary Elizabeth de Sibour, daughter of former Assistant Secretary of the Navy and Mrs. Douglas Robinson; Mrs. George Dunn, Mrs. John Hudgins, Miss Mary Louise Johnson, Mrs. Blaine Mallan, Miss Francesca McKenney, Mrs. E. O. Robinson, Miss Victoria Tytys, Mrs. Robert Clement Watson and Miss Carolyn Dodge Willcox.

The candidates for the veils were presented by Miss Margaret Lover, field director of Red Cross work at Walter Reed Hospital, and head of the Gray Ladies. In the procession preceding the bestowal of the veils the Red Cross flag was carried by Mrs. Reeves Lewis, chairman of the Gray Ladies committee of the District Chapter of the American Red Cross.

An address was made to the candidates by Maj. Julia Stimson, head of the Army Nurses Corps.

Mrs. Theodore W. Richards, secretary of the District Chapter American Red Cross, and Mrs. Harry C. Barnes, director of the Roll Call, District chapter, represented the chapter at the ceremonies while among others present were Brig. Gen. and Mrs. James P. Kennedy, Maj. and Mrs. M. Kerr, Maj. and Mrs. C. M. Reddig and Mrs. Julia Flikke, chief nurse of Walter Reed Hospital.

CAPONE ORDERED HELD IN DRY CASE

the trip to Chicago, where he came last Wednesday to testify. He was anxious to return to Florida, still insisting that his health would not permit a long delay in the Northern air.

The Government, however, ignored the pleas of his attorneys, and only yesterday postponed his second appearance at the Federal Building. Word was spread about that "something was up."

Today the reason for the Government maneuvers was made known and Capone was served with the contempt warrant when he left the Federal grand jury room where he had testified. He gave bond of $5,000 and went immediately to his hotel suite.

Attorney Sees Forgery.

Mrs. Willebrandt's investigation was followed by her sending word here to arrest Capone on the charges of "willfully, corruptly and contemptuously," causing Dr. Kenneth Phillips in Miami to write a letter that Al had contracted bronchial pneumonia.

Capone's scheduled appearance here on March 12 was postponed to March 20 on the strength of the affidavits. Assistant District Attorney Daniel Anderson said he believed the affidavit was forged and that no discredit should be placed upon the Miami physician.

Capone, who has shown an evident desire to complete his grand jury testimony, had a smile left for the photographers as he left the grand jury anteroom where the warrant was served.

"All right, what do we do now?" he asked as he was led to the chief clerk's office where bond was arranged. A lane of guards, similar to the one that was present on the occasion of his first appearance last Wednesday, formed an aisle through which Capone passed to a waiting taxi.

First Arrest in 3 Years.

Two squads of Detective Bureau police accompanied him to the Lexington Hotel, where he will remain awaiting the further pleasure of the Government.

It was a different status of affairs from in the past. While the name of Capone had been linked with numerous crimes in Chicago, including the recent St. Valentine's day massacre in which seven men were lined up against a garage wall and shot down with machine guns, today was the first time he had been arrested in three years. He was arrested previously on a grand jury indictment charging violation of the prohibition law, but the case was dismissed for lack of evidence.

When he arrived here last week he and his attorneys had planned a "one-day stand" in Chicago because of fear of reprisals in the St. Valentine shootings, but it is quite possible the Government will prolong his stay for many more days.

Easter Approach Heralded By Special Church Services

Bishop Freeman Conducts Noonday Rites at Epiphany; Catholic and Protestant Congregations Augmented by Visitors, Drawn by Spring Weather.

Special services in all the churches of the Capital mark the approach of Easter and a record attendance at these services is anticipated, as the early spring weather has brought thousands of visitors to Washington and will add thousands more to the total before Sunday.

Today is Holy Thursday, tomorrow Good Friday, Saturday another Holy Day in the church, with Easter Sunday closing a period of special devotion for church members of practically all denominations. Lent ends at noon Saturday.

With the cherry blossoms in bloom, almost perfect weather for the past ten days and holidays in the schools, the Capital is likely to be the mecca for many more visitors than usual during the Easter holiday.

Many from other cities are already located in hotels and rooming houses of the city, automobiles are bringing in hourly contingents to supplement the throngs until by Sunday, it is expected, Washington will reenact scenes similar to those just before the inauguration.

Noon-day services are being conducted each day this week at the Church of the Epiphany, with Bishop James E. Freeman, former rector of the church, officiating. Bishop Freeman will deliver the addresses at the three-hour service on Good Friday, beginning at 12 o'clock.

This afternoon at 5 o'clock a communion service will be celebrated in All Souls' Unitarian Church, Sixteenth and Harvard streets northwest. A Good Friday service will be held tomorrow afternoon at 5 o'clock for the congregations of All Souls' Church and the First Universalist Church. The ministers of both churches, the Rev. Ulysses G. B. Pierce and the Rev. Frederic W. Perkins, will officiate.

The regular weekly meeting of the French congregation will be held Good Friday afternoon at 4:45 o'clock. The pastor, the Rev. Florian Vurpillot, will be in charge.

WETS WIN SKIRMISH IN ILLINOIS HOUSE

COMMITTEE IS OUTVOTED

Springfield, Ill., March 27 (A.P.).—Overruling an unfavorable committee report by a vote of 72 to 70, wet members of the Illinois House of Representatives today were successful in placing on the house calendar the Weber-O'Brady bill for repeal of the State prohibition enforcement laws.

Stimulated by recent killings by prohibition enforcement officers and deaths from poison liquor, wet members launched a bitter attack upon State and national prohibition laws.

Representative Roy Juul, of Chicago, called prohibition laws destroyers of religion. Representative Roy Green, of Rockford, declared prohibition was "rotten at its source, founded in fraud, slipped over while men were fighting for their country, and growing rottener every day." Charles Weber, of Chicago, suggested that members who vote dry should try abstaining from drinking.

"Only yesterday at Aurora," Weber said, "dry agents shot a woman who had a gallon of liquor in her house. They're going in for bigger and better shootings. The liquor law is one law under which you're allowed to kill, and they've extended the shooting grounds 100 miles off the coast.

Representative Juul said "After a trial of more than ten years we now are face to face with the fact that the fight against prohibition is a struggle to preserve our constitutional rights and liberties. Whether or not drinking is right is not the question—it's a fight against intolerance. Prohibition repeals the doctrine of free will upon which all religion is founded. The prohibitionists are tearing down the temples."

A former minister, Representative Charles Wood, of Keenes, was given the floor and quoted the Apostle Paul, who said "If eating meat harms my fellow, I will abstain from meat while the world lasts." Representative Juul replied, "You're quoting from Saint Paul, do you remember where he said, 'take a little wine for thy stomach's sake'?" A roar of laughter drowned out the rest of Wood's talk.

"If the prohibition law was seriously enforced, the Congress would sit at Atlanta or Leavenworth and the Legislature at Chester or Joliet Penitentiaries," Representative Green said. "There's only about fifteen members of this House who do not drink. I should like to hear each declare himself. Then we'd know who drink wet and vote dry."

Representative Elbert Waller, of Tamaroa, sprang to the defense of the wets who vote dry with the declaration that he was glad to know there was "some good in the worst of us." He was greeted with boos which necessitated the speaker calling for order, and inspired a defense of the Democratic side by Minority Leader Gloe, who told Waller to "mind his own business and not shake your finger at us."

Hunter Slays African Girl Raised by Apes

Berlin, March 27 (A.P.).—A remarkable story of a native woman apparently raised among apes from childhood is told in the monthly report of the agent of the German firm of Kristeller, which has plantations in the Kameruns.

An elephant hunter saw a group of apes in some trees and shot one, the report runs. He found to his astonishment that it was a negro woman, without the customary tattoo marks. The mystery was investigated by the authorities, who concluded that the woman must have been brought up from childhood by apes and lived with the group as one of them.

Gandhi Fined 36 Cents For Destroying Cloth

Calcutta, India, March 27 (A.P.).—Mahatma Gandhi, Indian Nationalist leader, was convicted today in court here of defying police orders against destroying foreign cloth and was fined 1 rupee (about 36 cents).

Gandhi denied any intention of defying police orders against destruction of foreign cloth and denied their right to interfere with a peaceful meeting. The police charged that the crowd which he addressed started a bonfire into which it threw the English-made product. Police then interfered and disorders followed, during which a number of police were wounded.

Dixie Dress Favorite Gown Of Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owen

Wears Necklace of Pearls and Single Ring of Strange Design.

EMMA PERLEY LINCOLN.

"The Dixie Dress" is the name which people in Florida gave to the type of evening gown worn by Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owen during the campaign which made her congresswoman from Florida. The gown is Mrs. Owen's own interpretation of the picture mode or bouffant style, adapted to her own uses. This proves a happy and becoming choice, for Mrs. Owen is tall, graceful and slender and carries this style of apparel with unusual success.

Mrs. Owen's evening gowns are usually in black or white, with occasionally a purple or lavender showing in a plain rich fabric or in a lovely brocade. Some of her black gowns are developed in lace or chiffon, but she has a decided preference for transparent velvet. She wears black taffeta, too, and has one gown with the new effect introduced by a huge bow at the back.

Since coming to Washington Mrs. Owen has been seen wearing a handsome evening coat of black embossed velvet with a collar and cuffs of sable. In the day time she wears often a black cloth coat with a narrow collar of ermine, and sometimes on cold days or evenings a black caracul coat with a collar of white caracul.

Her day frocks at this season are black with touches of white in lace or silk at the throat and wrists. Everything she wears is decidedly mbdish, the right accessories for each costume, without a studied effect which might rob the ensemble of its chic.

Mrs. Owen says that perfect harmony is worth any effort made to achieve it, whether it be in matters of dress, surroundings, or what ever. She says she has often searched for weeks for just the right bag for an evening costume, just the right necklace for a certain gown.

MRS. RUTH BRYAN OWEN.

She thinks, too, that it is enjoyable to wear certain pieces of jewelry as it suits one's mood, and then put the pieces away until they are new to you again. A strand of pearls is her usual choice as a necklace, but has been noticed on various occasions wearing a string of carved amethysts or jade. She wears a single ring, frequently, set in a strange design, of rare stones.

A connoisseur of dress could not speak of Mrs. Owen's clothes preferences without giving attention to her extremely smart foot-wear. She is always beautifully shod in type of shoe which is also particularly her own selection. Individuality is the outstanding characteristic of Mrs. Owen's entire make-up, and so it is not strange that it should be so marked in her attire.

BOY CHARGES UNCLE KILLED HIS MOTHER

Kept Silent Two Years by Fear, Dead Woman's Son Tells Official.

DENIED BY ACCUSED MAN

Bridgeton, N. J., March 27 (A.P.).—Police announced today that Walter Morrison, 18, had told them that William Workhiser, his uncle, had killed his mother, Mrs. Mary Morrison, two years ago, and that he (Morrison), was forced to remain silent because he feared his uncle would kill him. Workhiser denied the boy's story.

The woman's death from a fractured skull two years ago was attributed to suicide after Workhiser and the son testified she leaped from an automobile. Mrs. Morrison died without regaining consciousness.

Workhiser, the dead woman's brother, was arrested yesterday on a larceny charge, and Morrison, with his uncle safely lodged in jail, felt free, he told police, to reveal the truth.

Commissioner of Public Safety Audenroid quoted the youth as saying:

"Mother didn't take any automobile ride. She was carried into the automobile after my uncle had knocked her unconscious with a piece of iron pipe.

"My uncle and mother had a row over giving away mother's clothing and other things. He hit her on the head with the pipe and then carried her into the automobile, and we drove over into Salem County, then came back home and called the doctor."

Mrs. Morrison died two days after the ride in the Bridgeton Hospital.

Workhiser, questioned in his cell, persistently denied the boy's story.

MORE MEN DRAWN INTO INMAN SUIT

Wife's Cook Declares Male Visitors Allowed Liberties in Apartment.

SWEARS ONE GOT DRUNK

Reno, Nev., March 27 (A.P.).—Additional names were added today to the list of men with whom Mrs. Helene Garnet Patton Inman is alleged to have associated before her separation in 1927 from her husband, Walker P. Inman, wealthy Easterner, who is suing for divorce.

Mrs. Margaret Schmidt, a cook, testified regarding visits of a Bill Hardy and Robert Yap to Mrs. Inman's apartment in New York. She said Hardy arrived once while Mrs. Inman was ill, remained with the patient for a considerable time, "got drunk" and then went to sleep on a couch in the guest room.

Both Hardy and Yap were permitted considerable liberties about the apartment, the cook said.

Counsel for Inman, who previously had introduced testimony in an effort to show that Mrs. Inman had been intimate with John Steele, vaudeville singer, said the cook was placed on the stand to corroborate the charge that Mrs. Inman had made her apartment a gathering place for convivial drinkers.

Emanuel B. Cohen, New York attorney, was dismissed as a witness after he had undergone cross-examination concerning the circumstances surrounding a separation agreement entered into between Inman and his wife in 1927. Attorneys for Mrs. Inman, who asks that the agreement be set aside and that she now be given a property settlement of $250,000, sought to show that the agreement had been forced upon their client after a raid had been staged on her apartment.

Ball Player Faces Suit For Death of Opponent

Dallas, Tex., March 27 (A.P.).—Notice of a $35,411 damage suit was served here today on Art Shires, of the Chicago White Sox, by Mrs. Ida Lawson.

The suit alleges that Walter Lawson, of Caddo Parish, La., died as the result of being hit on the head by a baseball thrown by Shires May 30 last when Shires was a member of the Waco Club. The case is set for trial May 6 in Federal Court here.

Italian Prisoner's Death Starts Quiz

Jasper Rittolo's Family Says That He Was Murdered; Embassy Active.

Tampa, Fla., March 27 (A.P.).—Thorough investigation into the circumstances surrounding the shooting of Jasper Rittolo, New, York, by a Dade County (Fla.) prison guard several days ago, has been instituted by the Italian Embassy at Washington, at the request of the victim's family in New York, it was learned here today from H. Viti Mariani, Italian vice consul for this district.

The vice consul said he had been informed that Gov. Doyle E. Carlton, of Florida, had been requested to conduct a complete inquiry into the shooting. According to his advices Rittolo was shot to death while working on a road gang, and that other prisoners alleged the prisoner was killed in cold blood and without justification.

Attorney Antonio Reina, of Tampa, was retained by the man's family to attend the preliminary hearing for the guard, scheduled at Miami next Tuesday, and also to look out for the interests of the Italian Embassy. Reina was retained through the vice consul here by the Italian Ambassador, Mariani said.

4 of Orloff's Aids Exiled by Prussia

Police Hope Senator Reed May Assist in Trailing "Borah Documents."

Berlin, March 27 (A.P.).—Four alleged minor accomplices of Vladimir Orloff, now held as leader of an international document forgery ring, were ordered by the Prussian ministry of the interior today to leave the state within 48 hours as undesirable foreigners. Among the four was one woman, Olga Papkevitch.

Orloff has been transferred to jail, where he will be held until his trial for fraud.

Photographs of the so-called Borah documents have been received from Washington by the police, who are comparing them with the seized material. Since the photographs, made at the time of the Senate investigation into the forged letters are not the same size of the originals, it is believed that there is not much chance of establishing their identity with the Orloff forgeries.

The police, however, hope through the American Embassy to get in touch with Senator Reed, who now is in Sicily, to ask him to divulge the names of the Paris Russians through whom the Senate documents were obtained. If these prove identical with Orloff's Paris accomplices, this might prove a valuable clew.

30 Lost in Crash On Yangtze River

Tide Sends Chinese Coastal Vessel Against Italian Destroyer Libya.

Shanghai, China, March 27 (U.P.).—Thirty persons, including six foreigners, were missing tonight after a collision between the Chinese coastal vessel Kangtai and the Italian destroyer Libya at the mouth of the Yangtze River. Two small children were drowned.

The Libya was anchored when the tide carried the Chinese vessel into it, reports received here said. The destroyer rescued six foreign passengers and 70 Chinese who were on the Kangtai. The Kangtai sank.

The Japanese freighter Matsumoto Maru arrived here today with the crew of the Italian destroyer Muggia, which went aground on a reef between Finger Rock and Haichau Island Monday night.

Bandit Who Killed Diner Must Die

Southworth Faces Chair in the Death of Wealthy Auto Dealer.

West Palm Beach, Fla., March 27 (A.P.).—A Palm Beach circuit court jury today found T. Southworth, dinner party robber builty in the first degree of the murder of Harry M. Wells, wealthy Southampton, L. I., automobile dealer. The verdict did not recommend mercy.

The jury's verdict automatically carries a sentence of death in the electric chair. Judge C. E. Chillingworth, presiding, said he would entertain a motion for a new trial next Monday morning at 9:30 o'clock.

Southworth, whose real name is Harry E. McConarty, formerly lived at Quincy, Mass. He shot Wells as he was holding up a dinner party at the home of Mrs. Vincent Hall here on February 3 last. He pleaded not guilty by reason of insanity. Southworth had previously pleaded guilty to robbery and was sentenced to 30 years in State Prison.

Police Set Fake Party; 21 Fall in Bootleg Trap

Denver, March 27 (A.P.).—A mysterious host summoned bootleggers from all parts of the city last night to an exclusive Capitol Hill apartment house. Although they were unaware of his identity, liquor carriers hurried with all manner of alcoholic refreshments to supply the "big party," described by the new customer.

Today 21 alleged bootleggers faced charges of violating the prohibition laws. As fast as they arrived at the apartment, Patrolmen seized their automobiles and drove them into a vacant lot, where they were confiscated. Federal prohibition agents, the "guests" at the party, took possession of the deliveries, ranging from pints of synthetic gin to gallon jugs of moonshine and alcohol. The host was Chief of Police Robert F. Reed.

Nobel Prizes in 1929 Reach Sum of $46,299

What Today Means to You

MARCH 28

"ARIES."

IF March 28 is your birthday, the best hours for you today are from 8:30 a. m. to 9:45 a. m., from 11:30 a. m. to 1:15 p. m., and from 4 p. m. to 6:30 p. m. The danger periods are from 2:30 p. m. to 3:30 p. m., and from 7:45 p. m. to 8:30 p. m.

Unexpected success awaits you today according to the planetary aspects, as surprise and accomplishment are both definitely presaged. In the evening, an air of serenity will be in evidence, and the signs indicate harmony and enjoyment in social engagements.

The child born today will be quick-tempered, but will soon forget its grievance. It will have a sensitive nature and will suffer from self-consciousness. It should be taught self-confidence and encouraged in every way to rely upon itself.

To many you possess a superficial nature; you seldom let your buoyant spirit fall below par. You dare to live, to love, to laugh and to cry, but your sorrows, troubles and discouragements are usually locked up in the secret vault of your soul, there to be borne by you; you face the world with a smile, even if the song in your heart is not a happy one. Your emotions, however, are deep and you are as deeply stung by the whips of life as those who more openly demonstrate their feelings.

There will always be many who wish to bask in the sunshine and warmth of your comradeship; your good cheer and optimism is a tonic to your friends; your life will never be a lonely one. You only have a good word for your friends and acquaintances, and your gracious expression and sympathetic thought will bring you in huge dividends, all through your life, from unexpected sources and at unexpected times.

You expect nothing more from this world than that for which you are willing to work; and you go at even the humblest tasks as if they were of supreme importance. Children adore you, and you are able to bring out the best that is in them, and they will always help to keep you young in spirit.

Successful people born March 28:

Isaac I. Stevens, soldier.
Charles H. Deere, manufacturer.
Daniel R. Brown, Governor of Rhode Island.
Max Bendix, musician.

NATIONAL.

Easter week in the National Theater marks the revival of a celebrated classic of the stage, Kate Douglas Wiggin's and Charlotte Thompson's New England idyl, "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm."

After the Wiggins 'novel nad swept the country by storm two decades ago, it was transplanted to the stage where it became an overnight success. The last presentation in Washington was during the week of March 11, 1912. Edith Taliaferro, noted stage star, then trod the boards of the National in this quaint old play of New England life. The play has not been seen here since.

Rebecca, the girl who dwelt on Sunnybrook Farm, accorded the high privilege of being rated one of the outstanding American characters, comparable with Tess, of the D'Urbervilles, the heroine of Thomas Hardy, even though Tess and Rebecca are remotely removed in character and complexion. The likeness is not in comportment, but rather in renown. Both are by this time world characters.

The New England lass, Rebecca, charms by her naivete, her humor and her merry heart. She is set in opposite stand to her old maid aunt, and her conquest of the rigid discipline set upon her is one of the amusing parts of the play. Also she wins the love of a good man and true, and this forms a love story that is without equal in the American theater.

The opening will take place on Easter Monday afternoon. There will also be the regular matinees on Wednesday and Saturday.

BELASCO.

Ambition, seduction, murder—these are the elements of the typical American tragedy, according to Theodore Dreiser, America's great realistic writer. His novel, "An American Tragedy," made into a play by Patrick Kearney which played so long in New York and has caused more discussion than any other play of like nature ever has awakened, will be seen at the Belasco Theater, opening Easter Sunday night. Clyde Griffiths is a literary, but rather faithful reincarnation of an unfortunate who "burned" on the electric chair in Auburn several years ago. Clyde Griffiths would never have gone to the electric chair from a jury on which Dreiser sat. Nor would he have gone scot free.

"The intent of 'An American Tragedy' is to show that snap judgment of juries are inadequate in those knife-edge cases where justice is not to be found plainly to the right or the left, where there is a subtler distinction to be made than one between black and white," says Dreiser.

POLI'S.

"Good News," the Schwab and Mandel musical smash, will come to Poli's Theater for one week only, Sunday, March 31.

The book of "Good News" is by Laurence Schwab and Bud De Sylva, Lew Brown contributed the lyrics and Ray Henderson is responsible for the music. Some of the latter's airs include the title song, "Good News," "The Best Things in Life Are Free," "Lucky in Love," "The Varsity Drag" and "Just Imagine." There also is a very good waltz, "A Sister in Pi Beta Phi."

The cast that will present "Good News" here is the one that played in New York and broke box office records in the doing. It includes Don Lanning, John Grant, William Sully, Anthony Hughes, John Philbrick, Maurice Darcy, Evelyn Kindler, Dorothy Fitz-Gibbon, Dorothy Daw, Edwin Michaels, Neil Collins, William Russell, Dorothea James and Holly Hall. Also George Olsen's famous "Good News" Band will be present.

STRAND.

"The Bohemians," title of the Strand Theater's offering next week, indicates the nature of the entertainment—lithesome, nonsensical and lightly entwined with merriment and relays of comedy. Art Mayer, eccentric comedian, and Frankie (Red) Moore are topliners of the cast. Dolly Lewis is the soubrette. Emelie Billings, a diminutive ingenue, specializes in "blues" songs. Johnny Gilmore is associate comedian. Paul Ryan is the leading man. Mickey Kane is a juvenile. Topping scenes in a long list of comedy bits and ensembles will be "The Shooting of Dan McGrew," "The Gorilla" and "The Garden of Vampires." There will be the usual fast wrestling match this evening between local favorites.

GIRL DIED IN SUICIDE PACT, ASSERTS MAN

MATRON'S STORY DENIED

Harrisburg, Pa., March 27 (A.P.).—Harry Bowman, accused of robbing and drowning Miss Verna Klink here last January 25, testified in his own defense today.

The 39-year-old perfume salesman defendant recounted the story he told police at the time of his arrest, a narrative of gift of money from Miss Klink, their mutual despondency over business reverses and arrangement of a suicide pact.

He said they leaped into the Susquehanna River together after Miss Klink had given him $900, and that while struggling in the cold water he changed his mind and clambered ashore after failing to rescue her. He told of going to the apartment of his friend, Mrs. Ethel Miller, to dry his clothes, and also gave his version of his private conversation with Mrs. Miller at the State police barracks, saying that she told him to "tell the police you pushed Miss Klink into the river and they'll leave you off easy." To this statement he said he replied, "If I'd tell them that, they'd send me to the electric chair."

Yesterday Mrs. Miller testified that in this conversation Bowman told her he pushed the girl into the river. When Bowman heard this testimony, he leaped to his feet and cried, "That's a lie!"

Philip Plant Admits Wife Is Seeking Divorce

New York, March 27 (A.P.).—Reports that his wife, the former Constance Bennett, was obtaining a divorce in France were confirmed by Philip Plant upon his arrival from Europe.

"Yes," he said, "Mrs. Plant is getting a divorce. I expect the decree will be entered very soon."

Plant, heir to the millions of his stepfather, Commodore Morton F. Plant, remained in Paris at the bedside of his wife until she was well recovered from a severe attack of appendicitis. They were married at Greenwich, Conn., in 1925.

Reduce the Acid

In sick stomachs—instantly

Sick stomachs, sour stomachs and indigestion usually mean excess acid. The stomach nerves are over-stimulated. Too much acid makes the stomach and intestines sour.

Alkali kills acid instantly. The best form is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia, because one harmless, tasteless dose neutralizes many times its volume in acid. Since its invention, 50 years ago, it has remained the standard with physicians everywhere.

Take a spoonful in water and your unhappy condition will probably end in five minutes. Then you will always know what to do. Crude and harmful methods will never appeal to you. Go prove this for your own sake. It may save a great many disagreeable hours.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting excess acids. 25c and 50c a bottle—any drugstore.

"Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of The Charles H. Phillips Chemical Company and its predecessor Charles H. Phillips since 1875.

DON'T MISS THE OPENING CHAPTER

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

ARCHERY, GOLF AND HOMICIDE.

Claims that the intelligence level in America is rising have been ruined again. This time by the introduction of a new game combining golf with archery.

• • • •

At Palm Beach, Miami, Ormond and other winter resorts foursomes composed of two players with golf clubs and two with bows and arrows have been disporting about the links, thereby adding immeasurably to the perils of each game.

• • • •

It is the pinnacle of freakish pastimes, but you've got to admit that the presence of a few careless persons with bows and arrows on any golf course does a lot to speed up the ancient Scotch game.

• • • •

No golf player is going to feel like striking a series of plastic poses on a green when there is an impatient flapper 50 yards away waiting to propel an arrow capable of piercing a one-inch plank.

• • • •

There are many things that may cramp a golfer's style but few things will wreck it like an arrow in his plusfours.

• • • •

Not even a Bobby Jones could retain his form and composure on a golf course if he felt and looked like an early Pilgrim father upon whose anatomy a bloodthirsty Indian had just scored a bull's eye.

• • • •

The more one thinks about this bow and arrow innovation the more one concludes that for the purpose of speeding up the game archery paraphernalia might well be a legitimate part of every golfer's equipment. It would work wonders in the worthy cause of reducing the players on crowded links.

• • • •

Nothing, in fact, would do more to open up the game and the course on a Saturday or Sunday than bows and arrows, except pistols.

• • • •

• • • •

They are what golf has always needed, and needs today more than ever.

• • • •

Combine golf with rabbitshooting and you would get a game that would make a man think twice before he played it. And there is the real trouble with golf: people don't think twice before they take it up. They don't even think once.

• • • •

Why will a woman, who can't hit a ball farther than her grandmother can hurl a paper plate, go out day after day for a jolly 18 holes? Why will a man, who requires a dozen practice swings (?) drive a ball as far as his wife can throw a fistful of confetti, fool around all summer with every club in his bag? Why will a group of four doddering merchants in knee-trousers spend more time on a putting-green than Grant took for his entire Wilderness campaign?

• • • •

Answer: Because the players immediately behind them have no deadly weapons!

• • • •

(From the Daytona Beach, Fla., News-Journal.)

"Well, what's the answer?" pleads Larry. "I'm having trouble keeping the house warm and you say it can't be the coal."

"Sure it can't be the coal," says Hank. "You're buying CERT-I-FIDE Anthracite the same as the rest of us. And that's the finest fuel ever shipped, the best prepared and the best inspected hard coal you've ever had."

"The trouble's probably in the way you tend the fire," chimed in Jim. "You're trying to do it by ear—the same way you play bridge.

WRC Will Give Fight By Rounds

Walker-Loughran Match in Chicago to Start at 11 Tonight—De Leath in Triple Role—Mexican Movie Star on WMAL.

Round-by-round description of the Mickey Walker-Tommy Loughran boxing match in Chicago tonight will be broadcast over the N. B. C. system, including WRC, it was announced yesterday. This special feature, starting at about 11 o'clock, will supplant the usual Slumber Music number on the program. Sen Kaney, of the Chicago office of the National Broadcasting Co., will be the announcer.

Between 8 o'clock and midnight Station WRC, associated with the National Broadcasting Co., will present eight network features. The first of these will be Vaughn De Leath, whose voice is known to radio listeners from coast to coast. She will step from her role as featured singer on the Song Shop to fill the combined role of program director, honored composer and featured singer all in one for a night.

Comparatively few of Miss De Leath's listeners realize she is a composer and song writer also. She could muster up 300 or so lyrics or tunes she has created, and some of them, sung on the air, have called for repeat after repeat.

Among the numbers she will present tonight are "Susan," "Drowsy Head," which she wrote in collaboration with Irving Berlin, one of the few times Berlin ever has worked with any one else on a number; "Log Cabin Lullaby," "A Little Bit of Sunshine," "Bamboola," "Hawaiian Nightingale" and "Gingerbread Parade."

Harry Tierney, modern American composer who wrote "Adoring You," "Irene" and "Rio Rita," contributes a cycle of songs to be heard in the Hoover Sentinels broadcast. Jessica Dragonette, soprano, will sing two of Tierney's best known works, "Alice Blue Gown" and "There's a Castle in My Dreams."

An original transcription of Liszt's "Liebestraum" will be sung by the Seiberling Singers. This is another of the vocal arrangements made by Frank Black from instrumental classics. Of interest also will be Black's arrangement of the Herbert composition, "I'm Falling in Love With Someone," scored for the "Singing Violins."

Following the Rapid Transit presentation, another musical entertainment originating at the imaginary fireside of Halsey, Stuart's "Old Counselor," will be broadcast. During the course of the program, the "Old Counselor" will again place at the disposal of radio listeners his own vast store of knowledge on the important subject of investment securities.

Gamby and Douglas Stanbury will be guest artists in the National Broadcasting and Concert Bureau Hour. More familiar features to be presented during the hour are the Utica Jubilee Singers and the National Concert Orchestra, under the direction of Cesare Sodero.

The concluding feature from WRC will be the Slumber Music. Four instrumental soloists who are heard frequently will contribute to this hour. These are Oswald Mazzucchi, cello; Raphael Galindo, violin; Milan Smolen, piano, and Leo Fleitman, viola. Beethoven's overture, "The Creatures of Prometheus" and selections of ballet music from the early operas of Gluck will be played by the orchestra under Ludwig Laurier as the opening and closing features of this program.

Lupe Velez, Mexican movie star, will make her first national radio presentation during the "Columbiana" program broadcast at 10 o'clock from WMAL. Miss Velez, following the precedent set by Dolores del Rio, will sing, rather than talk, over the air. She has selected "Where Is the Song of Songs for Me?" Irving Berlin's latest, and "Nena," a Mexican song featured in her new picture, D. W. Griffith's "Lady of the Pavements." Miss Velez will be accompanied by Frank Yaconelli, one of America's leading accordion players.

A new hour entitled "Arabesque" will have its premiere over WMAL and the stations associated with the Columbia Broadcasting System at 8 o'clock.

A group of waltzes of yesterday and today will be featured in the program that "Then and Now" will present at 8:30 o'clock. Among these are "After the Ball Is Over," "Waltz Me Around Again, Willie," "Three O'Clock in the Morning" and "The Waltz I can't Forget."

Two stages of Mozart's life will be featured in the "Musical Episode" at 10:30 o'clock.

In her broadcast at 10 o'clock this morning, Mrs. Ida Bailey Allen will point out what is wrong with many silhouettes and will tell how to remedy the difficulty. As she talks, Grace White, the club dietitian, will prepare a group of goods that "slim" as they build.

At 6:30 p. m. Miss Betty Kent, ingenue of the National Theater Players, will sing for Station WOL. Miss Kent will be the third of the members of this popular company to offer their talents for the entertainment of the radio audiences, Miss Mary Newton and Charles Hampden having preceded her. It is the intention of WOL to offer the National Theater Players as a regular feature every Thursday. Betty Kent will sing "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm," a song written and dedicated to the play of the same name, in which Miss Kent will appear in the title role at the National Easter week.

Florence Jane Adams, impersonator, and a Carlton dinner concert, which is interrupted at 7:11 o'clock for "Amos 'n' Andy," are the early evening features.

Two hours of dance music will be presented, beginning at 10 o'clock.

A Children's Half Hour will be presented at 7:30 o'clock from WJSV, followed by a request half hour. Ray Harper, tenor; Kathryn Crowley, pianist, and the Columbia Trio will be heard later in the evening.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

NEIGHBORING WITH THE PRESIDENT.

"It is strange," I remarked, "that our neighbors don't call,
Or ever once chat with us over the wall.
We've been here a week and they've never once said:
'Good night' or 'Good morning.' What's wrong with 'em, Fred?
We've been here a week and there's not been a sign
Of washing or bathing suits hung on the line.

"Policemen stand guard at the gate night and day.
Can it be that they wish to keep neighbors away?
The Briggs and the Fishers have asked us to tea,
We've talked to Jack Dempsey and kindly was he,
But these neighbors of yours who live back of the wall
Haven't shown us a neighborly spirit at all,

"I'm not grumbling about it. I'm stating the fact.
Is that how our mothers have taught us to act?
The four of us men were all trained from the start
How to neighbor with others and not be too smart,
But these strangers who live just a stone's throw away
Go in and go out and have nothing to say.

"They've never once borrowed our lawn mower there,
Or asked if we had a few eggs we could spare.
All the neighbors I've known trotted over with speed
To see if we had a good book they could read.
Do you know who they are?" And Fred said with a grin:
"I've heard that's the house which the Hoovers are in."

Function of New Tubes Is Explained

Types Have Become Much Elaborated and Public Is Confused; Winners in Keith Contest Divided Into Two Groups.

So many new tubes for different purposes have been developed, H. B. Richmond, of Cambridge, Mass., director of the engineering division of the Radio Manufacturers Association, said yesterday, that the public should be advised of the functions of different types of tubes in the modern receiving set.

"When radio receivers first left the crystal state," says Mr. Richmond, "the number of tubes employed was a fair measure of the performance of the set. With the advances in the art, the number of tubes used in any particular set became no longer even a rough guide as to the performance of the set. It is perfectly possible to have a five-tube set, so-called, where but two tubes would be useful radio tubes as commonly thought of in terms of the earlier battery-model sets. A purchaser of such a set, nevertheless, desires to know whether he must buy two tubes or five, regardless of how such tubes may be used in the operation of the set.

"In order to tell the purchaser of a set how many tubes he must buy or maintain, and at the same time to inform him how many tubes are 'radio tubes' as formerly thought of and how many are special tubes for additional services, such as battery elimination or automatic volume control, the engineering division of the Radio Manufacturers Association has recommended that these two classes of tubes be divided into their respective groups and that their numbers be separated by a dash. Thus 6—3.

"In the first group would be placed those tubes used as radio-frequency amplifiers, detectors, and audio-frequency amplifiers. Oscillator tubes required in such circuits as the superheterodyne would be included. In the second group would go the special service tubes, such as voltage control or ballast tubes, those for automatic volume control, rectification either for plate or filament use.

"In the 6—3 illustration already referred to, a typical set would be one having three radio-frequency amplifier tubes, a detector and two audio-frequency amplifier tubes which would comprise the six 'radio' tubes. The three special service tubes could be a voltage control tube, a rectifying tube and an automatic volume control tube."

Instead of polling 100,000 votes in the Radio-Keith-Orpheum Hour, the count yesterday revealed that more than 3,000,000 votes had been cast. The original idea was to have the eight leaders appear in an all-star bill next Tuesday night at 11 o'clock, but due to the unexpectedly heavy and close voting it has been decided to divide the winners into two groups, the first to appear next Tuesday night, April 2, and the second a week from Tuesday.

Those in the first division, with the number of votes received in the contest, will be Belle Baker and Sophie Tucker, who tied for first place with 20,236 votes; Van and Schenck, 20,187 votes; Rudy Valee and orchestra, 20,142; Waring's Pennsylvanians, 20,007; Vincent Lopez and orchestra, 19,813; Ted Lewis, 19,777, and Nick Lucas, 19,708.

In the second group, to be heard April 9, will be Leatrice Joy, 19,600 votes; Ben Bernie, 19,509; Billy Jones and Ernie Hare, the Interwoven Pair, 19,426; Illini Singing Band, 19,344; Kate Smith, 19,207; Miss Patricola, 19,150; Joseph Regan, 19,098; Little Jack Little, 19,087, and Gilda Gray, 19,076.

The R-K-O Hour is heard locally through Station WRC. The hour is broadcast from New York, but on these occasions the artists will be scattered all around the country, some of them being as far away as the Pacific Coast, and they will be broadcast from where they are.

Old Lutheran Textbook Near 400th Anniversary

Copenhagen, March 27 (A.P.).—While school textbooks change very often, and few studies today are a decade old, one yet in use can celebrate its four hundredth anniversary with the Lutheran world congress here June 25 to July 3.

Luther's Catechism was written 400 years ago and still is used in Lutheran schools. The Lutheran church is the largest Protestant church. Its membership is estimated from 75,000,000 to 80,000,000, mostly in north Europe and America.

Dare INTERPRETS the MODE

New York, March 27, 1929.

WE have spoken here on several occasions of the popularity, in colors of secondary importance, of yellow, especially yellow of a beige tint.

Another rather important note, and a distinctly pleasing one, is the many combinations of yellow and brown. The two colors, of course, harmonize perfectly, and while they are not tones that every one should wear, the two in combination are somewhat less trying than yellow alone.

We have seen a good bit of this combination, for instance, chez David, who creates men's togs and sport clothes for Miladi.

A stunning scarf, for example, of a Scotch plaid in yellow and brown, embroidered with a brown monogram, was in perfect taste with a brown ensemble.

A yellow crepe de chine blouse was worn with a brown skirt, brown felt hat and brown coat.

A brown jersey pullover, a pleated yellow skirt and matching yellow jacquette made another smart outfit.

And on the de luxe side we must mention a gorgeous evening coat at Redfern's of yellow lame (lah-may) cloth in a woven Persian design, trimmed in soft brown fur.

Ever seen a Hindu woman's trousers at close range? Well, you can quite conveniently get into one of them—not one pair, but one trouser! And a Chinese woman's trousers are not much better. It remains for Occidental adaptation of this very comfortable and useful idea to give it elegance and grace without in any way destroying the original charm, comfort and line.

And then, too, we have adopted the pajamas for various purposes—and each purpose requires a different type of suit. This week's illustrated leaflet tells you how to make sleeping pajamas. Send your stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare department of The Washington Post for it, and make yourself five or six smart, new sleeping pajamas with just the very least amount of trouble ever.

As we were saying yesterday about the normal waistline—the princess silhouette that gave the eye an unbroken sweep was very graceful, and very flattering. As was the more recent straight one-piece dress, or tube frock. But shapely defined normal waistline can never be graceful on a figure with well-defined hips—alas, the most usual feminine figure!

More anon.

An evening cape for spring, elegant and not too striking, yet entirely individual, is illustrated for you today. Of pink velvet lame (lah-may) simply trimmed with brown zibbeline—darn hard to illustrate, if you ask me!

Evening Ensembles.

Evening ensembles for spring are taking lines of great simplicity, depending entirely upon their cut for their distinction. A coat of soft pale green velvet with stripes of pink, turquoise and yellow at the bottom and on the sleeves, lined with silver lame, is worn over a very distinctive silver lame gown—a typical spring ensemble.

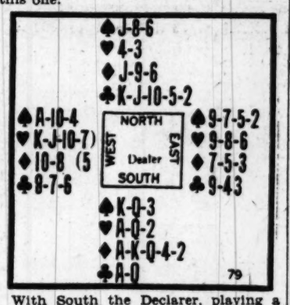
WORK'S BRIDGE

The series of "Misplayed Hands I Have Met" is continued today with this one.



With South the Declarer, playing a No Trump contract, West's opening lead was the Jack of Hearts which South won with the Queen. Declarer then won five Diamonds and five Clubs which with the Heart already won, made a total of eleven tricks. South discarded his losing Heart and two Spades on Dummy's last three Clubs; but as West, who had the advantage of discarding after South, kept his Ace of Spades, the Declarer was held to a Small Slam of which he was assured as soon as he saw Dummy's hand and which he could have claimed without playing a single card.

Was there any way in which Declarer could have made a Grand Slam?

THE CORRECT PLAY.

After winning trick 1, Declarer should have seen that he could make all the tricks if he could induce the adversaries to hold up the Ace of that Ace, it was quite probable that he would duck trick 2 if Closed Hand led his Trey of Spades from King-Queen-Trey. As the cards happened to be, West holding Ace-Ten-x, naturally would hope that East had King or Queen and so West would not play the Ace merely to make sure of shutting out Dummy's Jack. If Declarer's little ruse succeeds and Dummy's Jack holds the first Spade trick, Declarer then can show down his Grand Slam as it will be evident that he can discard all his losers—two Spades and one Heart—on Dummy's Clubs. This scheme is practically sure to succeed if West holds the Spade Ace, and trying it can lose nothing if East holds it.

How to Keep Well

If he wants to investigate for himself there are simple tests for testing left-handedness. We do not know as much as we should about the relation of left-sidedness to speech and to various mental processes. But there are some known facts. One is that it is not good judgment to try very hard to convert a left-sided person to right-handedness. If the training can be done easily, it is wise to carry it out. But if it is proving difficult it is wiser to put up with the inconvenience of left-handedness.

Another fact about left-sidedness which has been recently established is that it is an inherited trait, at least to a considerable extent. Of the general population, not quite 1 in 20 is left-handed. In 82 families where the father was left-handed, one-eleventh of the children had the same peculiarity. In nearly as many families where the mother was left-handed, one-seventh of the children were that way. In 33 families where both parents were left-handed, nearly one-half the children preferred the left side.

Left-handedness is half again as prevalent among boys as it is among girls. At the same time, a left-handed mother, as compared with a left-handed father, is about half again as apt to pass on the peculiarity. This is enough to base some opinions on. One is that inheritance is an important factor in left-sidedness.

Left-sidedness is in some way related to sex. The inheritance of it is in some way influenced by sex.

IV. GIANT STARS

IN MY visits to schools in different cities, I have learned that almost every pupil above the third grade knows that the sun is larger than the earth; but most of them do not know how much larger the sun is.

Let me give you the diameter of the sun. From one side to the other, it measures 866,000 miles. The diameter of the earth is about 8,000 miles. Think of the difference!

If you want a stronger idea of the difference in size, ask your teacher to let you make a diagram on the blackboard. Make two circles, one of them one-fourth inch wide. The other circle should be 27 inches wide. The little circle will stand for the earth, the big one for the sun.

How many little circles would go in the big one? It may be fun for you to draw one-fourth inch circles over the face of the big one. If you kept it up long enough, you could place several thousand of the little circles inside the one standing for the sun. Remember that the sun is shaped like a ball, making the difference still greater.

One of the greatest things men have done is to learn how to measure the stars. The method would be hard to tell in a small space, but it is certainly clever. By using it, scientists have learned that some of the stars are far larger than the sun!

One star, which we call Arcturus, is 25 times as wide as the sun. Another star—Betelgeuse—is 10 times as wide as Arcturus!

Just think of such sizes! It is enough to make us dizzy! You may well ask, "If the stars are so large, why do they look so small?"

The tiny circle at the center stands for the sun. The next circle is for the star Arcturus, and the largest circle is for the giant Betelgeuse.

The reason is because they are so far away. You have seen how small an airplane looks when it is a mile or two distant. Compare that with the way it looks when you are next to it while it stands on the ground.

The stars are billions of miles away, even trillions and quadrillions of miles. You could not expect them to look very large at such distances.

TODAY'S WOMEN

By EARL HINDENMAN

MARCH 28.

ST. TERESA, the Spanish convent reformer and founder of an order of Carmelites, was born this day, 1515. For her services to the church, Pope Gregory XV canonized her in 1622 and appointed October 15 as her festival.

St. Teresa was inspired to her holy work by reading of the lives of saints and martyrs. She entered a convent and took the veil. There she was distressed by the apparent decline of discipline, so she founded her own convent, introducing a new order, the Barefooted Carmelites, which grew into sixteen branches. She spent the remainder of her life traveling from one branch to another. The saint's staff, cross and rosary are still preserved at Avila.

Her five works on religion are among the most famous books published by the Catholic Church.

Anne Douglas Sedgewick, author of "The Little French Girl" and other well-known novels, was born this day, 1873, in America. She left this country at the age of 9 and has since lived abroad, chiefly in Paris. She is married to Basil de Selincourt. Other books by this author include "Adrienne Toner," "The Third Window," "Christmas Roses," "Tante," "The Shadow of Life" and "The Encounter."

RALLY IS CONTINUED, WITH STRONG BUYING

OIL STOCKS ARE LEADERS

New York, March 27 (A.P.).—Strong hands took the reins on the stock market today and led a remarkable rally, in which the losses incurred by the headlong selling of the previous session were more than regained.

Call money renewed at 15 per cent for the first time since February, 1920, but powerful banking interests, fearing a complete demoralization of the call loan market, which might cause a debacle in stocks more disastrous than yesterday's, acted to stabilize the rate at that figure.

Although 15 per cent money is an extraordinarily high rate, the relief of traders who had feared it might go even higher than yesterday's 20 per cent rate was so great that a bullish celebration was immediately held. Scores of important issues were bid up 4 to 10 points and Adams Express was hurled up 34 points.

Trading at Rapid Pace.

Trading was maintained at a rapid pace, 5,618,990 shares changing hands, a large day's turnover, although scarcely comparable to the unprecedented 8,246,740-share day yesterday. Commission houses have been swamped with work, and an announcement that the stock exchange would close on Saturday, following its regular holiday on Food Friday, was received with relief.

A continuation of the powerful buying that halted the dizzy drop in the previous session was apparent at the opening, but the market turned extremely nervous when call money renewed at 15 per cent and seemed pointed higher. Then the National City Bank sent $25,000,000 to the loan desk to be put out $5,000,000 each at 16, 17, 18, 19 and 20 per cent, and it was reported that other large banking interests were prepared to take similar action. J. P. Morgan & Co. was reported to have supplied $10,000,000.

Money, however, was firm all day. About $30,000,000 in loans was called, and were eventually replaced, but during much of the day the loan desk had no surplus of funds. With the heavy Easter currency demands and the quarterly interest and dividend requirements of April 1, heavier than ever before, little hope of a rate lower than 15 per cent was held for the remainder of the stock market week, which ends tomorrow.

Minds Are Set At Rest.

The recent selling generally set at rest regarding the possibility of an increase in the Federal Reserve rediscount rate tomorrow, as a sharp reduction in brokers' loans is expected.

A particularly cheering development was a decline of ⅛ of 1 per cent in bankers acceptance rates, which have been mounting steadily for months. Time money, however, was practically unobtainable, although the quoted rate held at 8¼ per cent. There was no change in the rates quoted for commercial paper, but it was said to be practically at a standstill.

Business news was generally favorable. Although a large increase in crude oil production was reported for last week, the general committee of the American Petroleum Institute meeting here to consider curtailment, was said to have made substantial progress, and Sir Henri Detarding, of the Royal Dutch Shell, said his interests would cooperate in a world-wide curtailment plan.

The steel trade reviews again described mill operations as practically at capacity, although there were some indications that the seasonal peak is in the immediate offing. Advances in pig iron and iron ore attested a favorable price situation. Freight car loadings for the latest week showed a fair gain, and would have shown a better one, but for floods in the South.

Oil Takes Leadership.

The oil shares, spurred by curtailment developments, assumed market leadership. Standard of New Jersey mounted nearly 6 points, to 58¾, a new 1929 high, while Atlantic Refining, American Republics, Houston, Indian Refining, and Pan-American B mounted from 5 to 10 points. Coppers were again well bought, Anaconda and Greene Cananea mounting 5 and 10 points.

International Telephone jumped more than 20 points to a new high price at 263¾, and Case Threshing, Commercial Solvents, Vanadium and Electric Auto Light mounted about 10 points and more. American Telephone and General Electric jumped about 7 points each. Radio sold up 7½ points to 100½, and closed at 97. General Motors and United States Steel closed more than a point higher. A number of investment rails mounted 2 to 4 points.

Among the few soft spots, Federal Mining & Smelting lost 35 points in a small turnover, and American Safety Razor, Motor Products and International Cement closed off 2 points or so.

Commodities generally rallied in sympathy with stocks, after nervousness earlier in the day. Cotton closed 50 to 90 cents higher on higher Liverpool cables and rains in Texas, and grains turned firm.

The foreign exchanges eased in reflection of the high New York money rates, although sterling cables finished the day fairly steady.

NEW YORK COTTON.

New York, March 27 (A.P.).—Some additional liquidation was absorbed on declines of 9 to 12 points in cotton today and prices rallied on trade buying and covering, accompanied by reports of a better tone in stocks. July contracts, after selling off to 19.87, advanced to 20.13 and closed at 20.13. The general market closed steady at net gains of 4 to 18 points.

The opening was steady at unchanged prices to a decline of 8 points under overnight selling orders, which apparently had been brought in by the unsettled ruling of yesterday's market. Selling was absorbed by trade buying and covering encouraged by the relatively steady showing of Liverpool.

After some early irregularities prices turned upward. The bulges met further liquidation. There may have also been some local and Southern selling, but offerings were much smaller than yesterday and the market showed indications of an improved technical position.

This seemed to stimulate covering, which became a little more active during the afternoon. Prices reached the highest levels of the day in the late trading, with May contracts selling up from 20.43, the early low level, to 20.69. The new October contract advanced from 19.72 to 19.95.

Closing quotations were within a point or two of the best. Part of the early selling was said to have been on reports of beneficial rains in the Southwest, but this factor was believed to be just about offset by bullish features in the weekly report of the Weather Bureau.

Some local brokers said many of the contracts liquidated on the decline esterday went to the trade. The falling off in selling today was regarded as indicating that the speculative long interest had been substantially reduced.

Private cables said liquidation had been absorbed by continental and Bombay buying and trade calling in Liverpool. According to these reports, demand for cotton cloth from China was less insistent and yarns were dearer.

Exports today, 8,364, making 6,787,003 this season. Port receipts, 25,385. United States port stocks, 1,806,717.

NATS WIN FIFTH STRAIGHT, BEATING BROOKLYN, 5-4

Horton Smith Triumphs at Pinehurst

Tom Armour Second; Voigt Slips, Ties for 4th Place.

By EDDIE BRIETZ
(Associated Press Sports Writer).

PINEHURST, N. C., March 27 (A.P.).—Another golf title dangles tonight from the bulging belt of Horton Smith, brilliant young Joplin, Mo., sharpshooter. Climaxing a sensational winter campaign, Smith today added the historic North and South open, rich in tradition if not in cash value, to the long list of important tournaments he has bagged since hopping into the spotlight six months ago.

Smith's score of 287 for the 72-hole stretch was two strokes better than the 289 Tommy Armour, of the Tam o' Shanter Club, Detroit, used to repeat his performance of last year and finish in second place.

Roland Hancock, young Lynchburg, Va., pro, who muffed a golden opportunity to win the national open at Chicago last summer by taking sixes on the last two holes when he could have beaten both Bobby Jones and Johnny Farrell with a pair of fives, shot the best two rounds of the day to win third money with a 291. Hancock, who is threatening again to hit the stride which made him a real threat last season, polled morning and afternoon rounds today that were four strokes better than any delivered by the rest of the field.

Voigt Shares Fourth Place With Burke With 294's.

Billy Burke, the Westport, N. Y., defending champion, shared fourth place with George Voigt, Metropolitan district star from New York and the ranking amateur in the tournament. Their score was 294. Until Smith began his march to glory in the morning round today, Voigt was the big menace of the tournament. He was five strokes ahead of Smith and Armour at the end of the first day's play.

Walter Hagen, British open champion, finished sixth in a three-cornered tie with Joe Turnesa, lithe Elmsford, N. Y., club swinger, and Ross Somerville, of London, Ontario, Canadian amateur champion.

Trailing in ninth place was a quartet consisting of Wild Bill Mehlhorn, of New York; Emmett French, of Youngstown, Ohio; Jack Forrester, of Oradell, N. J., and Hugh Kirkpatrick, of Columbia, S. C.

Mehlhorn was off his game in the afternoon round. He strained a shoulder ligament yesterday and played today under a handicap.

Smith $700 Richer With Armour Gaining $500.

Johnny Farrell, national open champion, was well down the list with a 306, while Leo Diegel, Canadian open and P. G. A. title holder, gave up in disgust after the opening round today.

As a result of today's victory Smith pulled down $700 first money. Armour is $500 richer for finishing second and young Hancock got $400 for third place cut. Burke was given $300 for finishing fourth.

During the morning, Smith, who had finished Tuesday's play in a tie with Tommy Armour for second place, uncorked a brand of supergolf to cut down Voigt's five-stroke advantage and capture the lead. His 67 round was the best of the tournament.

For the first five holes he went along

RIOT SCENE IN CHICAGO RING WITH 10,000 FANS IN PANIC

Associated Press Photos.

Walker Seeks Third Title Tonight

Betting Even in Battle With Loughran Despite Weight.

Concedes Champ 10 Pounds; 25,000 May Witness Bout.

By CHARLES W. DUNKLEY
(Associated Press Sports Writer).

CHICAGO, Ill., March 27 (A.P.).—Mickey Walker, famed toy bulldog of the ring, bids for his third world's boxing title tomorrow night by attempting to wrest the light-heavyweight championship, from Tommy Loughran in a ten-round battle, opening Paddy Harmon's $7,000,000 Chicago Stadium.

Walker, once ruler of the welterweights, and present standard bearer of the middleweight class, will match his ruggedness and terrific hitting force, against one of the world's cleverest ringmen, in endeavoring to achieve his ambition of winning his third championship, a distinction held by only one other fighter—Bob Fitzsimmons.

The match will be fought in the world's largest indoor sports arena, with indications that a new record for indoor attendance and receipts may be established. The arena has a seating capacity of 25,000. If it is a sellout, the gate receipts may reach the staggering total of $300,000.

Champion, at 175-Pound Limit, Has 10-Pound Advantage.

The advance sale is heavy, but promoter Harmon does not expect a capacity attendance, unless it comes at the last minute. His best guess tonight was the receipts would exceed $200,000.

Walker and Loughran will meet at the light heavyweight class limit of 175 pounds. Loughran, the title holder, will scale just about 175. Walker expects to hit the beam between 165 and 166, which, he says, is his best fighting weight. They will weigh in at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at the offices of the Illinois State Boxing Commission.

Loughran, carefully watching his weight, felt the need of going through light exercises this afternoon to keep his poundage exactly on the dot. He did not box. He weighed in privately and said he was only a few ounces over 175. He figures the drying out process will make it easy for him to scale exactly 175 tomorrow afternoon. Then he will have eight hours in which to eat and sleep and put on additional weight, thus sending him into the ring around 10 o'clock with his full energy and fighting strength. Loughran may go into the ring at 176 pounds. If he does he will have about 10 pounds on the challenger, as Walker says he will not weigh over 166 pounds at ringside.

Walker Confident of Knockout; Loughran Expects Decision.

Walker did not train at all today. He took a long walk and did some calisthenics. That was all. He has no weight worries. In the afternoon he atended a theatrical performance.

Both are confident of victory, with Walker declaring he will knock out Loughran. The Philadelphian said he expected to win decisively, perhaps by a knockout. He said he was in the best shape since winning the 175-pound championship, and that he has a far better chance to stop Walker than Walker has to stop him. Walker said Loughran's advantage in weight, height and reach would be no insurmountable

Chicago Arena Bans Mixed Boxing Bouts

Chicago, March 27 (A.P.).—Mixed boxing matches will not be permitted hereafter at the Coliseum, Charles Hall, president of the Coliseum Corporation, announced today.

One person was dead and two others were reported dying today as a result of the panic and stampede of spectators at the bout Monday night between Jackie Fields and Young Jack Thompson, California negro.

Herman Landfield, 38, who fell or was pushed over the balcony during the excitement, died of skull fractures and internal injuries.

A coroner's investigation today into Landfield's death was but one of several inquiries into the affair. The State Boxing Commission, the city building commissioner and the city council all had taken steps to determine the cause of the panic and to prescribe methods for preventing a recurrence.

Speed on Base Figures in Victory

Brown Wins Game, Scoring Stewart by Single in Ninth.

By FRANK H. YOUNG
(Staff Correspondent of The Post).

TAMPA, Fla., March 27.—The Nationals made it three victories in a row over the Brooklyn Robins here today. The Nats won, 5 to 4, to register their fifth straight triumph and tenth in twelve starts in the Southland. It was speed afoot which decided matters, as Buddie Myer stole home in the seventh to tie the score, and Stuffy Stewart did some great racing to bring home the winning run in the eighth, beating the ball to the plate by a whisker after Bressler had taken Brown's single on the first bounce only a short distance back of shortstop.

It was another of those "you chase me and I'll chase you" games. The Nats took an early lead, lost it and twice pulled up to tie scores after the Robins had gone in front.

Ad Liska, who went five frames, and Lloyd Brown, who finished the game, not only pitched well, but used their bats to good effect at timely moments,

Goslin's Arm in Form, He Shows Bancroft

Special to The Washington Post.

Tampa, Fla., March 27.—"Goose" Goslin today served notice on the baseball world that the good right arm that used to rifle throws in from the outfield again is functioning as of yore and will play an important part in the Nats' defense this season.

In the game with the Robins today, Goslin took Bancroft's hit far down the left field line and shot a throw to second base, nailing Bancroft by 10 feet when the veteran tried to take two bases on the hit. Goslin made all throws with an overhand motion and declared after the game that his arm was in fine form.

each driving home a run. Liska is credited with two hits, sharing stick honors with Myer. Herman and Bancroft were the batting heroes of the Robins.

Liska's Own Hits Help Stake Nats to Early Lead.

One of the features of the game from a Washington standpoint was the pegging of Goose Goslin. He served notice on the baseball world that his arm is now functioning as of yore when he took Bancroft's single on the left field line and pegged him out by 10 yards in the second inning, much to the surprise of the veteran, who continued on to second with the utmost confidence. Not only that, but the Goose made all returns thereafter with overhand pegs and stated after the game that they did not give his arm any setback.

Both teams were busy in the first four innings, which ended with the score 3 to 3. The Nationals scored a run in each of the first two sessions, saw the Robins take the lead by counting three times in the fourth and then came back with the run needed to knot the string.

A pass and singles by Myer and Bluege gave the Nats their first tally, while the second came with two out when Liska singled and West tripled. The Nats' pitcher also did his bit in coining the run which tied the score. His single scored Judge, who had opened with a one-baser and advanced on an out.

A base on balls and an error by Liska figured prominently in the Robins' fourth-frame rally. Bancroft then scored both with a triple down the right field line and hustled over the plate while Hayes was tossing out Johnny Gooch.

Myer Opens 7th With Double And Thrills Gallery by Steal.

There was no excitement during the next two innings, but Frederick brought the fans to their feet in the seventh by crashing a home run over

C. U. HELD TO 2 SAFETIES BY CADETS

V. M. I. Wins Opener, 5-1; Two Hurlers Strike Out 16.

Special to The Washington Post.

LEXINGTON, Va., March 27.—Holding Catholic University to two hits, Virginia Military Institute opened its baseball season today with a 5-1 victory on Alumni Field. Gillespie and Williams delivered an impressive pitching performance for the Cadets, striking out 16.

Catholic University threatened in only one inning—the third. Pitcher Conlin doubled after Sweeney had fanned and he scored on a double by Brennan following Walsh's fly.

V. M. I. evened matters in their half. Hull walked and Sullivan sacrificed. Laughorn doubled and Hull scored. A second tally was added in the seventh without the aid of a hit. Harner walked and took second on Jacobs' sacrifice, the latter taking first when an unsuccessful attempt was made to catch Harner on the play. Blocker choked the bases when Welsh erred. Sullivan was thrown out at first on a grasscutter, Harner scoring.

Brennan's Error in Outfield Aids 3 Runners to Score.

The game was clinched by the Cadets in the eighth on two hits and three errors. Williams took second on an

Three Teams Gain Finals In South Atlantic Tourney; Boys Club Five Wins Title

THE United Typewriter Grays defeated the Mount Vernon Quintet, 52 to 23, last night in the District unlimited class semifinals of the South Atlantic A. A. U. Tournament, which The Washington Post is conducting at the George Washington University Gymnasium.

The St. Peter's Five provided the biggest upset of the tournament in the 145-pound District semifinals when it eliminated the Montrose Team by a 37-to-28 score. The 100-pound District championship was won by the Jewish Community Center Team, which nosed out the Arcadian-Frenchys by a 17-to-16 margin in a thrilling game, decided on a list minute foul shot.

The Boys Club Optimists won in the other District final on the night's program, defeating the Aztecs, 21 to 18, in another point-for-point battle which kept one of the largest tournament crowds in an uproar.

Grays Meet J. C. C. Quintet In District Finals Tonight.

The Grays, who as the Woodlothians won the South Atlantic title last year, will defend their district honors tonight against the Jewish Community Center five in the unlimited feature of a four-star program. The typewriter Five will be a slight favorite to win the game.

Three other District titles will be decided tonight. The St. Peter's five meets the Howard A. French Co. team in the 145-pound class, the Aztecs and Curtain Wonders meet in the 130-pound class and the Jewish Community Center sextet plays the Eagles in the girls senior division.

The same nominal fee of twenty-five cents will be charged for these games.

Grays Defeat Mount Vernon, 52-23, in Semifinals.

It took the United Typewriter Grays some fifteen minutes to bring out the fact that they would swamp the less experienced Mount Vernon Quintet. The final score of the contest was 52 to 23, but during the early stages of the game, the Church team surprised by staying on the heels of the defending South Atlantic champions.

The Grays concentrated on keeping down the scoring activities of Forrest Burgess, American U. Star. Burgess was held to 12 points despite the fact that he played one of his best games. There were no other 12-point scorers on Burgess' side, however.

All of the Grays figured in the scoring with the exception of Fones, who played only the last few minutes. Buckie Buscher led his teammates by a narrow margin. The Grays' short-passing game which was missing on a couple of cylinders at the start began hitting on all five in the second half, and that ended the game as far as the Church team was concerned.

The Grays led, 8-5, at the end of the first quarter, 26-15 at the half and 39-19 at the end of the third period.

Mount Vernon entered the game handicapped by the absence of Center Barker, who is out of town, and was further handicapped by the loss of McQueen, who suffered a cut over his eye when his glasses were broken in a scuffle near the Grays' basket.

St. Peter's 145-Pounders Beat Montrose in Upset.

The St. Peter's Basketers came out of the Southeast last night to play the Montrose A. C., 145-pounders, conquerors of the Brentwood Hawks, and pregame opinion gave the Churchmen little chance for victory. But at the end of the hardest fought basket ball games in the South Atlantic tournament to date, St. Peter's had dealt the powerful Montrose A. C., featuring the scintillating Thompson brothers, Jimmy and Herbie, a stunning defeat, 37 to 28, and entered the finals.

The game was nip and tuck throughout, the score being tied at 27 to 27 with five minutes to go in the final period. After Jimmy Thompson had given his mates a 1-point lead at this stage, 28 to 27, Joe Robey, Eastern High star, and John Hickey, who learned his basket ball at St. John's, proceeded to put the game out of danger with a lightning-fast attack that netted 10 points in the last three minutes.

The Georgetown Basketers, with the Thompson boys and Scheele leading the attack, started off in brilliant fashion and held a 9 to 4 advantage at the end of the first quarter. But in the second quarter the St. Peter's representatives gave one of the greatest exhibitions of distance shooting ever witnessed in the South Atlantic games.

St. Peter's maintained its advantage in the third quarter, mainly on the ability of Hickey to feed his mates on the block play in true professional style. Jimmy Thompson kept Montrose in the running during this period with two flashy field goals.

But it remained for the final period

Cards Add Three New Faces; Giants Have Minor Changes.

Robinson Bothered by Infield; Clark Is Braves' Regular.

Editor's note: Following is the second article giving the major league line-ups outside the pitcher's box. The American League teams were carried yesterday.

By GEORGE KIRKSEY,
United Press Staff Correspondent.

NEW YORK, March 27 (U.P.).—Four National League managers practically have settled on the line-ups of their clubs, while the other four are still experimenting with various combinations.

No further changes are planned in the line-ups of the Chicago Cubs, the New York Giants, St. Louis Cardinals and Philadelphia Phillies. On the other hand, the line-ups of the Pittsburgh Pirates, Cincinnati Reds, Brooklyn Robins and Boston Braves still remain uncertain.

Rogers Hornsby, National League batting champion, is the only new figure, outside the pitcher's box, in the ranks of the Cubs.

Reese-Cohen Duel Interests Giant Followers.

Only minor changes have been made in the Giants. Andy Reese has temporarily won the second base job over Andy Cohen. Fred Leach, obtained from the Phillies in a trade for Lefty O'Doul, has the call for left field. Art Veltmann, speedy Texan, possibly will win an alternate outfield berth.

New faces will be seen at shortstop, third base and possibly in right field in the Cardinals' line-up. Charlie Gelbert, Rochester flash, apparently will hold down the shortstop job. Fred Haney, former Detroit infielder, is slated to play third base, leaving Frankie Frisch at second base. Manager Billy Southworth or Wally Roettger, who broke his leg early last season, will play right field.

Thevenow, O'Doul, Peel Strengthen Phillies.

The Philadelphia Phillies probably have been strengthened by the addition of Tommy Thevenow, who has regained his 1926 form, at shortstop; Lefty O'Doul in left field and Homer Peel, Houston recruit, in center field.

Donie Bush has been confronted by numerous handicaps in selecting the Pirates' line-up, and other changes may be made before the season opens April 16. Earl Sheely, former Chicago White Sox first baseman, has made good at the initial sack, and Adam Comorosky, who was around last season, probably will play regularly in the outfield this season.

Third base has been giving Jack Hendricks, manager of the Reds, the most trouble, but Clark Pittinger, who filled the role of utility infielder last year, probably will start the season at the hot corner. Evar Swanson, a Pacific Coast League star, apparently is headed for a regular outfield job.

Wright and Flowers Out Of Brooklyn Line-Up.

With Glenn Wright's arm still an uncertain quantity and Jake Flowers, last year's regular second baseman, on the sick list, Manager Wilbert Robinson is having a great deal of difficulty in selecting his infield. Bill Rhiel, from Atlanta, and Max Rosenfield, who came up from Birmingham as an outfielder, may break into the infield. John Frederick, Memphis star, is battling hard for an outfield berth.

As many as half a dozen changes may be noted in the Boston Braves when they take the field April 16. Freddy Maguire, formerly of the Cubs, will be at second. Rabbit Maranville or R. J. James, Omaha rookie, will be at shortstop. Joe Dugan is competing with Lester Bell for third base. Al Leggett, from Reading, has won a regular catching job. Earl Clark and George Harper are slated for outfield duty.

COLLYER'S COMMENT on the SPORT of KINGS

COLORATURA

The Harned boys plan to cut another melon with this filly in the fifth event at Keeney Park, where the mavericks have been performing like a lot of trained pigs for the Collyer followers. This filly was thrown in rather light and with THE RUNT taking up 115 pounds it looks like money from home.

In the opening spasm, the lads with the split second watches are sweet on MINT TODDY, weight and all. WHIZZING CLOUD and DR. HICKMAN for what is left.

NELDA W appears a standout in the second event. That last race was better than the old dope would indicate.

MANUELITA is an overdue good thing ready to strut its best stuff in the third. Commission planted here more than a week ago.

Look out for AMERICAN THUNDER in the fourth. This trick cost the stable a lot of dough recently and this race looks like a set up to yours truly.

APOSTLE'S last race was nothing to brag about. At that he has enough class over the others to entitle him to second-place consideration.

Look for THUNDER GIRL to upset the dope in the sixth. Her two previous races over the mile and 70 yards route and light weight gives her more than an even chance to best YACHTSMAN, who is picking up 6 pounds from his last victory.

PATTERSON'S STRING AT BOWIE.

Poly, Clearance and Other Racers in His Charge.

KIMBALL PATTERSON, just back from Tia Juana, where he put in a pleasant if not a profitable winter, is addressing himself at Bowie to the task of getting a string of seven horses, one the property of Brose Hoover, the others of Mrs. Jim Bean, of Washington, ready for the spring meeting of the Southern Maryland Agricultural Association.

This meeting will begin April 2, and run through the 13th. Renewals of the $5,000 Inaugural and $5,000 Prince Georges Handicaps, dashes of six furlongs and one mile and a sixteenth, respectively, for 3-year-olds and over; the $2,500 Capitol, a gallop of seven furlongs for 3 year olds; and the $2,500 Bowie Kindergarten, a sprint of half a mile for 2-year-olds, will be features. There will be about $170,000 in purses.

The best known horses in Patterson's string are Clearance and Poly, the former a 5-year-old son of Sweeper and Playcanay, she a daughter of Fair Play, the latter a 5-year-old son of Polymelian and Seemly. Both of these horses can run when they are of a mind to, although Clearance won only once last year and Poly didn't score at all. Clearance was up against it all season. Something ailed Poly, which, a year ago last November was one of Bowies stoutest weight packing sprinters.

Poly's Trouble Remedied, Patterson Believes.

Patterson isn't saying what Poly's trouble was, but he believes he has found a remedy. Poly is in splendid condition physically and ready. Patterson had Clearance with him at Tia Juana. Poly was worked judiciously through the winter by the foreman in whose charge Patterson left him.

Four of Patterson's other charges are 2-year-olds by The Wanderer, bred in Montgomery County, Md., by James Bean; the other is a New York-bred daughter of Paragon and Eleusina. This one is called Eleusagon, and she looks like a runner. She hails from John Sanford's Hurricana stud, of the Mohawk Valley, the Empire State's oldest thoroughbred nursery.

One of The Wanderer's colts is from Golden Bantam. She is a daughter of Star Shoot. He is, accordingly, an own brother of Golden Wanderer. He is one of the most consistently good horses that has borne the sliks of Bean. His registered name is Wandering Gold. Jim Bean, another right good horse, has an own sister in the group in Azyi Wanderer. This miss is from Azyiade, Bean's best brood mare. She will have to be good to handle that absurd name. Another filly is from Virginia Flannery, the dam of Bernie Harding. She is called Wanderlow. Another, Wandering Flower, is from Sweet Flowers, the dam of Wheaton, Beautiful Flower and Silver Springs. Patterson developed The Wanderer, a son of Vulcain and Rose Tree II and a half-brother of Roemer, eleven years ago for Edward F. Simms.

Almost the Naked Truth

By JAMES S. COLLINS

NEW YORK, March 27.—The ancient jinx that has been straddling Wilbert Robinson for years still has his legs entwined around the fat neck of the Brooklyn manager. When he went South this winter it was with the confident belief that a long-standing infield problem had been solved. Robbie believed that in Wright and Flowers he had as nifty a keystone combination as any manager could boast. Now it is a question if either will be able to play at all.

Wright's shoulder injury threatens to incapacitate him permanently and Flower's health is so poor that he is likely to see little service this year. Robinson has been trying to pry Eddie Farrell, Lester Bell or Joe Dugan loose from the Braves, but so far the bait he has offered has failed to produce a nibble. The portly pilot may yet have to play himself at second base and Judge McKeever at shortstop if anything happens to Dave Bancroft.

Special Sort of Egoism in Baseball, Says Gowdy.

Hank Gowdy, the Braves' coach, who has the distinction of being the first big league ball player to enlist in the rumpus overseas twelve years ago, also has the distinction of being the only former infantryman to say a good word about the Marine M. P.'s who infested Paris. Two of them caught Gowdy redhanded while he was A. W. O. L. in the French capital. As soon as they learned his identity one of the M. P.'s said:

"Don't worry about us, Hank. You can stay here with or without papers for the duration of the war as far as we're concerned."

"It was very sweet of him, I think," says Mr. Gowdy, in telling the story.

Gowdy, who donned a mask and protector and went behind the bat for the Braves in a game Tuesday, recently admitted that he thought he is just as good a catcher as he was fifteen years ago, when he did more than his share to bring a world's championship to Boston.

"Ball players never admit to themselves that they have slipped," said Hank recently. "Almost any old timer will tell you that he can play as good baseball as ever if he only got the chance. And nearly every player thinks he is a lot better than he really is. There is a special sort of egoism that goes with the game."

Johnny Evers Guarantees No Inflated Ideas Among Braves.

If the present team of Braves think it is just about the whole cat's anatomy on the diamond, Johnny Evers will soon disabuse it of so quaint a notion.

"As dumb a lot as I ever saw, and I've seen some pretty dumb ones in my day," said the assistant manager the other day after three Braves had been run down between bases in a single game. "In my day as a player, a thing like that wouldn't happen once in a season and the bonehead who got caught would have a fine of 100 bucks slapped on him for a first offense and a ticket to the minors for a second."

Evers did not reprimand Jack Smith for letting a perfect third strike cut the heart of the plate when there were two strikes and three balls on him and two out with the bases filled. Johnny was so angry that words failed him.

Joe Jacobs, manager of Andre Routis, does not believe in pampering his men, even if he is featherweight champion of the world. Upon their arrival here Tuesday on the Ile de France, Mr. Jacobs was comfortably ensconced in first cabin quarters while the champion languished in a second-class stateroom.

CARDS LIST MEETING.

New candidates for the National Press Building Cardinal Nine will be welcomed at a meeting of that team tomorrow night in suite 1170 of the National Press Building.

The team is shaping up well. Pitchers Medler, Young, Holland, Howard and Beans look like regulars. The infield will likely include Harrington, Hospital, Hodges and Cotton, with Buscher, Turvey, Groff and Gray in the outfield. Howard, Long and Brown are chief candidates for the catching job.

The betting odds vary, with most wagers being made at even money, although in some spots Loughran is quoted as a 6 to 5 favorite. The experts figure Walker has an excellent chance to win by a knockout if he succeeds in crashing over his heavy blows within three rounds. If Loughran gets by the early rounds they figure he will be returned the winner because of his exceptional boxing skill.

Griffith and Lomski to Meet in Semifinal.

Paddy Harmon, a two-fisted, gray-thatched Irishman, promoting his first fistic venture, has driven a sharp bargain in bringing Walker and the Philadelphia Adonis together. Loughran is to receive 55 per cent of the gate receipts. If he wins he must pay Walker $50,000. If he loses his title he gives Walker only $10,000. In addition, Loughran has agreed to pay part of the purse for the supporting attraction, a ten-round battle between Tuffy Griffith, Sioux City, Iowa light-heavyweight and Leo Lomski, the Aberdeen, Wash., "assassin."

No information was forthcoming from the State athletic commission today as to the referee and judges in the Walker-Loughran fight. They are keeping the names of the officials secret until the last minute. The question of a referee, however, is giving members of the commission deep concern. The word spread around that Phil Collins, who refereed the Sammy Mandell-Rocky Kansas lightweight championship fight has the edge, but Davey Miller, Eddie Purdy, and Joe McNamara also are thought to be under consideration.

SPEAKERS MEET FRIDAY.

All candidates for the Tris Speakers A. C. Nine are to meet tomorrow night at 7 o'clock at their clubhouse. The Speakers finished second in the Capital City League Insect Class race last year. For games, call "Stump" Warring, at Decatur 548, at 6 o'clock.

in even par. He got a four on the sixth for his first birdie on the round and added another on the 137-yard eighth.

From the fourteenth hole Tuesday morning until the twelfth hole of today's morning round not a five was chalked up on Smith's card. He was headed for a par four on the twelfth, but his putt rolled up to the cup and stopped dead, necessitating a five after 33 straight holes in fours or under.

Voigt found the going much harder today and shot the last six holes in 76 and 79. Armour played great golf all day and if Smith had failed to go the last two holes in par, the Detroiter's two rounds of 74 and 71 would have tied him for the lead.

Two Washingtonians finished right together when Al Houghton, of Harper C. C., ended the 72-hole grind with 148—77—74—299 and Freddie McLeod, of Columbia, totaled 150—78—74—302. Sandy Armour, of Congressional, finished a little farther down the list with 158—82—77—312. All three of the Washington professionals were outside the money. Houghton failed to show any of the golf which gave him a fine 68 Tuesday afternoon.

Untried Team At Hilltop In Debut

G.U. Line-Up Definite With Exception of Batterymen.

Wolff, Boxing Champ, to Perform With Nittany Lions.

WITH the school boys and sandlotters as yet in the early training stage and the big leaguers still playing for fun in the South, Washington baseball fans today will turn to the colleges for their first glimpse of a real ball game this season. The Georgetown and Penn State teams first will toss the lid of the season off somewhere in the woods surrounding the Hilltop Diamond, and then, as friendly, but serious rivals, will try to knock the cover off the ball against each other, starting at 3 o'clock.

Georgetown is going into the game with an untried team, having three infielders, an outfielder and two of the three possible starting pitchers playing their first year of varsity baseball. Blue and Gray adherents will watch the inaugural with more than usual interest.

Coach Bucky O'Neil, who is essaying his first season of varsity coaching, will wait until game time to pick the Georgetown battery. The talent from which the selections will be named is composed of pitchers Jack Edmonston, former Western High School right-hander; Harold Poole, another right-hander, and Russell Whitte, a southpaw, and catchers Paul Donovan and Tom Phelan.

Capt. Ralph Duplin will be seen in left field, while Ralph McCarty, also a veteran of last year's team, will patrol center. Bob Wholley, new in the role of regular, will hold forth in right.

Bozek to Start at First Base; Morris Out of Infield.

John Bozek former Gonzaga star, will start as the Blue and Gray first baseman, and the rest of the infield will find Ed Scalzi at second Johnny Dunn at short and Ed Leary at third. Walter Morris, former Washington Nationals' mascot and a product of St. John's Prep, was slated for the third base position, but recently was forced out of action by infected feet, the result of blisters.

Penn State will enter the clash with one game already under its belt, but it is not expected that the Lions will show any more polish than the Hilltoppers, since the latter have undergone three weeks of outdoor preparation, while the Lions were confined to indoor work until ten days ago.

Allie Wolff, who won the intercollegiate middleweight boxing championship last Saturday night, will be in a Penn State uniform. He is said to be as expert at third base as he proved himself to be in the ring.

Unites Win Practice Game Over Gallaudet

In a practice game yesterday at Kendall Green, the Gallaudet College Baseball Team lost to the United Typewriter Nine, 4 to 1. Hokanson hurled for the losers, yielding but five hits, but his wildness and costly erors by his mates paved the way for the Uniteds' victory. Hokanson obtained two of the six hits gleaned by the Gallaudet Team off the offerings of Ryder.

Dye performed well at shortstop for the Kendall Geen Team in addition to getting a clean single in two trips to the plate and scoring the lone run for his team. Schloss at third was the fielding star for the victors.

The United line-up is composed of American University students.

ITALIANS FORM NINE.

The Avenue Valet Shop unlimited nine was organized at a meeting last night, at which time it was decided to enter the Capital City League championship race this season.

MARYLAND U. TEAMS TAKE SHAPE.

Baseball, Track and Lacrosse Groups Await Debut.

A TRIO of University of Maryland spring sports teams will pry open their campaigns within the next week.

Geary Eppley, who still is very much unsettled over his track team, will take his charges to Lexington, Va., to meet V. M. I. Saturday and remain there to engage Washington and Lee on Monday; Jack Faber's lacrosse twelve will entertain New York University in its inaugural at College Park on Monday, while on Wednesday Burton Shipley's ball team will display its 1929 wares for the first time by playing host to the University of Pennsylvania.

Eppley was to finish picking his track team today for the jaunts to Lexington. His pertainties are Quinn in the dashes, Rannamon and Elliot in the hurdles, Dorsey in the quarter, Plumley in the half, Stemsburg in the mile, Myers and Bowlsbey in the two miles, with the McDonald brothers, John and Henry, doing the bulk of the work in the field events. Aman and Suter also are cure to compete in the pole vault, as is White in the broad jump.

Coach Faber Has 8 of His 1928 Lacrosse Team Available.

Faber has two-thirds of his 1928 twelve to start against New York University, as only four regulars were lost by graduation. Included in the losses, though, were Streett, goal, and Linkous, out home, both all-American selections, and Davidson, a really great center.

Faber's opening line-up will be something like this:

Kelly or Epstein, goal; Dodson, point; Crothers, cover point; Heagy, first defense; Wilson, second defense; Loane, third defense; Beck or Chapman, center; Evans or Chapman, third attack; Roberts, second attack; Holloway, first attack; Evans or Smink, out home; Snyder, in home.

Shipley has about decided upon his battle array for the diamond clash with the Quakers and his batting order probably will be:

McGann, catcher; Derr, short; Gaylor, third base; Kessler, center field; Leschinsky, right field; Radice, second base; Jones or Kay, left field; Hetzel, first base; DeMarco or Hess, pitcher.

Five of the eleven mentioned—Derr, Gaylor, Jones, Kay and Hess—are from last season's freshman nine. Derr fills a gap at short that cost the 1928 team many games.

Recreation Team Near Title in Ladies' League

The Recreation Team last night practically clinched the championship of the Ladies District Duckpin League by defeating the second place Meyer Davis Team in three games at the Recreation alleys. No unusual scores marked the crucial match.

The Recreations were not rated as likely champions at the start of the season, but took an early lead and have held it since, turning back the Arcadia and Meyer Davis Teams' respective challenges for the leadership.

MIDDIES TAKE DIAMOND OPENER

Early Lead Gives Navy Deciding Edge Over Penn State.

Special to The Washington Post.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., March 27.—Getting the jump on the enemy in the first two stanzas in which they piled up seven runs, the Naval Academy Baseball Team defeated Penn State in the opening game, 8 to 5.

Frye was Hugo Bezdek's pitching selection, while Johnson went to the hill for the Middies. The former was wild and was forced to retire in favor of Stokes in the second frame, but the Middies had wrought sufficient damage to bag the game. Stokes twirled steadily and effectively with the exception of the seventh, when the Tars bunched two hits for a tally. Johnson went the full route for Navy and was generally efective and was given good support. The Middy infielders forcing out five runners at the second sack.

Crum to Direct Spring Drills of G. W. Teams

Spring football and baseball practice will both be directed by Coach Maud Crum at George Washington University immediately after the Eastern vacation period, which will extend through next week. Crum will work three days a week with the football candidates and two days with the diamonders.

George Washington's baseball season will be limited while only second-class opposition will be scheduled, as there is little baseball strength among the Colonial athletes. Only local or nearby nines will be met.

Turner Seeks Revenge In Bout With Nelson

Wrestling fans of the District are expected to see whirlwind action when Joe Turner, the rustic of the game, and "Rough House" Nelson lock arms tomorrow night at the Strand Theater. Promoter Joe Freeman scored a strike by signing up this pair.

A genuine hatred exists between Turner and Nelson and it was incepted last year when Nelson pulled some "rough stuff" on the veteran in a match at the Arcadia. Turner never forgot that mistreatment.

NATS' SPEED ON BASES HELPS DEFEAT ROBINS

West's head. Hardly had the cheers for this died down when Buddie Myer sprang into the limelight. He opened the lower half with a double, advanced on an out and then electrified the small gallery by stealing home to tie the score again.

After the Robins had been retired in order in their eighth, the Nats scored what proved to be their winning run. With one on the shelf, Stewart dropped a Texas league double to right center, took third on Tate's scratch hit past Bisonnette and registered on Brown's one-base looper to left.

Robinson sent two pinch hitters to the tee in the ninth, but neither could help any, Glenn Wright fanning to end the game.

SINGLE DRILL UPHELD BY JOHNSON

Tells Barnard Players May Lose Pep in Doubles Session.

By FRANK H. YOUNG,
(Staff Correspondent of The Post).

BEFORE leaving here for his home in Chicago to make plans for the opening of the season, President R. S. Barnard, of the American League, and Manager Walter Johnson had quite a discussion as to whether one or two daily practice sessions better fit baseball players for the long grind in front of them.

This is a question over which many managers differ, the old school especially being strong for the "two a day." John McGraw, who can not be called a failure as a leader, believes in literally working his men to death, yet the results do not show his men "all in." There are several others who have the same idea. President Clark Griffith at one thing last winter considered ordering two workouts, although his reason was because of the bulkiness of the squad with all of his men training at one and the same time.

Mr. Barnard brought up the question more or less to seek information, admitting that he was doubtful as to which was the more effective system and it did not take Walter long to give his ideas.

Player May Loaf in Morning Under Two-a-Day Plan.

"It has been my experience," he said, "that a player needs only about an hour's work a day, and that the best way to give it to him is to keep him going steadily until he gets it and then send him to the showers. Working under a hot sun practically all day is debilitating and saps the player's strength. And, in the long run, he only gets about the same amount of actual work.

"Under the double workout plan a player knowing that he has to work again in the afternoon always saves a little something in the morning drill. Then he loafs through the second session, and the net result is that he has had no real workout—merely a long siege of fooling around. Our plan keeps everyone moving all the time, gives those who need it more work than those who don't and to my way of thinking is much the better plan.

"I believe the condition of my players right now is a good answer to my argument," Johnson concluded. "Practically every one of them is near top form due to the fact that the single shift is no hardship on them. There may be some benefits derived from the all-day practice plan, but I can't see them, and as long as I am manager of the Washington Club we will continue under our present system."

The last open date between now and the day before the regular season starts will be enjoyed by the Nationals tomorrow, as Johnson's men start on their last lap Friday when they open a 3-game series with the St. Louis Cardinals. Following this come three games with the Tampa Smokers, and after the final one, the Nationals pull up stakes and start their trek homeward.

18 Double Plays in 10 Games Reveals Improved Infield.

An indication of the way the Washington infield is working may be had from the double plays figures compiled as a result of the first 10 exhibition games, no less than 18 having been turned in. This speaks particularly well for the present combination around second base, Ossie Bluege and Joe Cronin at short and Jack Hayes at second.

It was here that the Washington Club was weak last season, for Bob Reeves, who played short most of the time, seemed to have trouble both starting and finishing these two-play swats, which are of inestimable value.

Eight Central High Bowlers Are Chosen

The eight high scorers in the Central High School bowling tournament, which ended at King Pin No. 1 alleys yesterday, have been named to represent the school in a series of challenge matches with teams of Tech and Business.

Max Sherman, Hilliard Harper, Henry Broadbent, Reds Pryor, Randy Robinson, Gus Chaconas, Walt Osburne and Clarence Appler finished in that order. Sherman was chosen captain of the team by virtue of his high set. Sherman and Pryor had high games of 127.

CITY CLUB'S RING TEAM WINS, 4-1

Two Maryland State Champions Bow to District Boxers.

THE City Club's exponents of the manly art of poke and duck indicated what they might do in the South Atlantic boxing championships next week when they gave a satisfying exhibition for the followers last night by defeating the Emorywood A. C. Team, of Baltimore, in the G street clubhouse, 4 bouts to 1.

Especially pleasing to the club members who gathered for a monthly stag night was the fact that the home boys managed to polish off a couple of Maryland State champions who graced the roster of the Oriole Club.

It took an extra round in each case, however, for Joe Bateman's proteges to come through with the decisions against the title holders, and the decision awarded Douglas Swetman, of the City Club, over Johnny Beadenkorpf, Maryland 112-pound title holder, was a bit dubious in the minds of some ringsiders.

Young Swetman Shows No Concern for Title Holder.

If the City Club representatives repeat their good work of last night in the championship bouts next week, it is safe to say that they will insert several lively arguments into the proceedings before the various crowns are duly awarded.

Young Swetman showed not the least concern when his opponent was announced as the Maryland State

YOUR BOY AND YOUR GIRL

By ARTHUR DEAN, SC. D.
The Parent Counselor.

Precious Silence.

A HIGH SCHOOL BOY steps to the microphone today with a radio problem that must be solved in many homes. Tune in on him:

"Dear Mr. Dean—I have a room in which to study, but because we live in an apartment house all the rooms are on the same floor. So I can't get away from our accursed radio.

"I reach for the dictionary at just about the moment I am advised to reach for a cigarette and drop the sweet.

"I get dreaming just a bit about my life's ambition and it's knocked cold by 'Watcha Gonna Do Now?' sob stuff. Just as I'm expanding a binomial theorem raised to the N minus two power, I hear, 'I love you, I love you, I love you.' And this musical gem is followed by 'Is There Anything Wrong in That.'

"I'll say there is! It's all wrong! How can I do any work with that blasted radio bang-a-de-banging all the time, and my father sitting there eating it alive?

"Father says if I had any sort of mind I would be able to concentrate regardless of the radio. Is he right?

SOONANUT.

No. I've tried the experiment of reading something without the radio then closing my book and writing out a synopsis. Then I have turned on the radio, read something, shut off the radio and written out a synopsis. The first was far ahead of the second.

Not one letter is read or answered in my office with the radio on, but when I want to get work out of the girls with the mimeograph machine I turn on the radio and the production is increased 25 per cent. When it comes to sealing up envelopes the radio makes the hour brighter. I can read a funny paper and paste clippings to "Bah-de-o-do." I can read a good magazine or the best selling novel accompanied by a radio orchestra playing some more or less classical music. I can not read a technical book, and I have many such to read, under either the influence of Mendelssohn or Berlin. Your studios are comparable to my technical books.

When I study I study. When I work I work. And when I play, by George, I play—and I don't intend to make a cocktail mixture out of work, play and study.

Either your parents ought to give you a chance to study by shutting off the radio, which really is pretty hard on your father because he has done his day's work and wants a little relaxation, or else you will have to pack up your books, walk out of the house and find some place to study. Perhaps you can do your studying before father gets home, or agree with father on certain "silent hours" for the radio and do your work then.

I remember seeing, in my younger days, the lurid billboard announcement "Why Girls Leave Home." I suspect, so far as studious boys and girls are concerned, the answer is going to be in this day and age, "Bah-do-de-o-do."

Is the cradle in the attic and the baby carriage in the garage? No longer, a baby and still not old enough to be reasoned with. Is your 3-year-old bothered with dreams? Does he dawdle now that he dresses himself?

Through arrangements made with this newspaper my readers are entitled to my instruction sheets on either of the following topics: "The Toddler;" "Dawdling While Dressing."

Underscore the one you desire, clip this article, send to Arthur Dean care of this newspaper together with a stamped envelope addressed to yourself. (No. S.A.S.E. means no answer.)

Shirking Responsibility.

My boy is stealing money out of my pocketbook. In fact, he has done it ever since he was a little fellow. The moment I forget to put it away he takes from it. Instead of putting his envelope in the Sunday School collection he hides it in the ventilating pipe outside and then he and his friends spend it afterward. He also tells terrible lies. I do not tell his dad because I know the terrible punishment he would give our son. Is there any other way of stopping it?

BURDENED.

Answer—I commend you for trying to handle it yourself, but I rather suspect the boy is aware that you are deceiving your husband and perhaps that influences him to deceive you.

Of course punishment might work, but I should like to have you try a scheme of having him do some steady assignments of work around the house and pay for them. Also have him keep a chart like the one I am sending you. He is stealing and lying because he is afraid. It is his way of escaping responsibility.

Wives of Tomorrow

"Tragedies of Marriage."

DEAR Miss McDonald: I read your articles every day and enjoy them so much. Your views are always helpful, so I want to ask you about a little friend of mine.

She is married to a splendid fellow, has been married for three years. She adores him and he apparently is very devoted to her, but something happened a short time ago which she says makes her absolutely hate him. She is a brilliant girl, writes plays, and is very successful. For years she has been concealing a physical defect; she concealed it not because she was ashamed, for it is nothing that she can help, but she is dreadfully sensitive. It is a source of a great deal of heartache to her. She found out a couple of weeks ago that her husband had discussed this very thing with office associates. He did it in an utterly thoughtless manner, but still he knew how sensitive she was even at mention of it between themselves. Now she says she positively hates him, when she thinks how unloyal he has been. He says he can not see wherein he has done any harm. They are now living apart. What do you think of such a circumstance? Please answer in your column. Since then she has told me the whole story, and it does seem cruel that he could disregard her feelings so much. Yet he was and is utterly unable to see where it was wrong or feel that he has done anything to justify his banishment from her love. Can you throw any light upon the matter, as it really seems a double tragedy. JANE.

About one marriage out of every two is just a double tragedy. Nothing less. In this case it is the sensitive woman married to the insensitive man. He can not see the indelicacy, the sheer indecency of discussing his wife's affliction with his cronies. He probably could not see, either, why he should not open her mail or use her bath brushes. He is just of that make-up. He can't see.

About a year ago a woman of my acquaintance left her husband to every one's intense astonishment. Her explanation was simple. She had nearly died under a Caesarian operation. At last she was declared out of danger. She heard the doctor tell her husband. And she heard her husband say "Well thank the Lord, how soon will she be out, the house is a sight?" She sent for the doctor and told him not to admit her husband to the room again. When she left the hospital she went with her child and a nurse to a quiet hotel. The husband to this day feels deeply aggrieved. He supports her and hopes for a reconciliation. What reconciliation is possible? She is a human being. He is to all intents and purposes just a brute. It was no doubt the nine-thousandth time he had jarred her sensibilities, but that time she reacted.

Personally I can see how your friend would have to leave the office-gossip who just had to chit-chat about her infirmity. And I can not see why two souls so far apart should be tethered by any fleshy tie.

Perhaps I am wrong. If so this column will lose no time in so declaring. So wait for their verdict which may be more hopeful than mine.

Chamber Chairmen To Hear of Projects

Chairmen and vice chairmen of all newly appointed committees of the Washington Chamber of Commerce will attend a special meeting at noon today. President Charles W. Darr will preside.

President Darr will outline all major projects that are expected to be undertaken this year. The purpose of this is to acquaint the committee heads with a complete idea of the plans for the current year and also to inform them as to what parts their respective committees are to take in the work.

MOST BONDS REACT AS CREDIT EASES UP

FEDERAL LIST IS DULL

New York, March 27 (A.P.).—Despite the brisk recovery in stock prices and the sharp advances in a few of the convertible liens, bond prices generally lost ground today in the face of moderately easier credit conditions. Call money ruled at 15 per cent, as against a high rate of 20 per cent yesterday, and bankers' acceptances were reduced one-eighth of 1 per cent, but time money and commercial paper rates held firm.

The action of the market was a surprise to many brokers, who expected that the sharp break in stock prices earlier in the week, coupled with the forthcoming distribution of about $500,000,000 in dividend and interest payments, would bring a fresh volume of buying into the investment market. Dealers' shelves, however, are reported to be well filled, due to the slowness in disposing of many of the recent new offerings.

Anaconda Copper 7s and International Telephone convertible 4½s—both in the so-called speculative-bond class—were the spectacular features, the former rising 13 points and the latter soaring to a new high at 123½ and closing at 123, up 5 points on the day. Sales totaled $12,950,000, and the International Telephone 4½s accounted for a large share of the volume, $1,235,000 changing hands in the five-hour session. Total sales in the market yesterday were $14,694,000.

Convertibles and Rails Gain.

Gains were practically restricted to the convertibles and rails. Public Service of New Jersey 4½s rallied 7 points from yesterday's record low level to 179, and Dodge Bros. convertible 6s rose a point, but Bethlehem Steel convertible 6s were at a new low for the year, after an early display of strength.

The bulk of the trading in the firmer rails was centered in St. Paul adjustment 5s, which wound up the day 1¾ points higher, and Atchison convertible 4½s, up 1½ points. Chicago & Eastern Illinois 5s rose 2 points, but new lows for the year were established by Atchison adjustment 4s, Canadian Northern sinking fund 7s, St. Paul general 4½s and Rio Grande Western collateral 4s.

Investment Trusts Active.

The investment trusts also contributed to the heavy volume of sales. Alleghany Corporation 5s, after an early period of heaviness, rallied to close fractionally higher. American International 5½s advanced more than 2 points, but Commercial Investment Trust 5½s broke more than 6 points to a new low.

The meeting of the oil executives to take action on a production curtailment program brought some buying into the petroleum group. Transcontinental 6½s rose 2½ points in active trading, to 99.

The lack of interest in U. S. Government securities is partly attributed to the high rates for bankers' acceptances. The Government obligations displayed an irregular tone, four of the seven active issues closing the day behind minus signs. The Liberty 4¼s were at a new low rate for the year.

Tokyo City 5½s were the feature of the dull and irregular foreign list, rising nearly 2 points in sympathy with strength in the Japanese yen.

STOCK PRICES FALL OFF

By ROBERT C. ALBRIGHT.

Showing an improvement of $4,045.39 over February a year ago, the income balance of the Washington Rapid Transit Co. came out of the red ink last month, and was on the right side of the ledger to the extent of $789.05, according to the February report of operations filed by President E. D. Merrill with the Public Utilities Commission yesterday.

The company showed a deficit of $3,256.34 in this item in February, 1928, and a deficit of $2,396.96 in January of this year. The company reports net operating revenues of $4,988.83, which contrasts with a deficit of $238.68 a year ago. Taxes were $1,441.19, against $658.33 in February of last year. Operating income amounted to $3,547.64, as compared with $897.01 in red ink a year ago. Gross income, which in February, 1928, was $196.94, aggregated $3,662.44 last month.

Stocks Generally React.

Stock prices fell off generally on the Washington Stock Exchange yesterday, with but two issues moving against the downward trend. Riggs National Bank, after opening in a strong position at 575, moved up 2 points in trading after call. Federal-American common sold at 54, a point up.

There was more steadiness evidenced in Capital Traction Co., which sold at 98½, the price at which it closed in Tuesday's market. Other stocks holding at previous levels were Columbia Sand & Gravel preferred, which sold again at 92, and Merchants Transfer & Storage common, which held at 129.

Stocks selling somewhat below recent prices included Potomac Electric 5½ per cent preferred, which brought from 108 to 108¼; Federal-American National Bank, which traded at 343; Mergenthaler Linotype, at 107, and Washington Railway & Electric preferred, at 97¾.

Chevy Chase Club 5½s led the bond division, $2,000 changing hands at 101½. Washington Railway & Electric 4s, to the extent of $1,000, sold at 87; $1,000 Washington Gas 6s, Series A, 108, and $1,000 Anacostia & Potomac River Railway 5s, 96.

The members of the exchange voted themselves a holiday tomorrow and Saturday.

Bonds Retired for Stocks.

Responsibility for the current tendency on the part of industrial corporations ot retire their bonded indebtedness and to substitute new stocks for the old bonds may be traced to three situations, all more or less related, in the opinion of the Washington office of Ernst & Ernst, accountants.

In the first place, stocks are more readily salable than bonds at the present time, the accountants point out, and although this condition is not necessarily permanent yet there is no definite indication of a material change. The investing public is more willing than a few years ago to assume the ownership of corporations, with its combination of greater risk and possibility of greater profit, as a substitute for fixed return on investment, they hold.

Secondly, it is stated, the current yield on most stocks is less favorable than the yield on bonds, and although the margin of difference is bound to diminish in due time yet so long as it exists as at present many corporations can acquire capital through sale of shares at a lower rate than through bonds.

The third situation presented is the fact that corporation ownership is more widely distributed, and sometimes bondholders are given a chance to switch to stock, getting it at a somewhat lower price than the subsequent market price.

Exchange Members to Meet.

A special meeting of the full membership of the Washington Stock Exchange will be held Monday morning at 11:15 o'clock to vote on a constitutional question involving the right of the board of governors to elect to the exchange an employe of a Washington investment house who is not a member of his firm.

Voting on such a candidate's admission, the board recently became involved in a deadlock, three favoring and three opposing his entrance. The tie was brought about by the absence of Edward L. Hillyer, the seventh member, who has been critically ill. Following repeated tied ballots on the question, it was finally decided to refer the matter to the entire membership of the exchange.

Railroads Report Gains.

Railroads the country over yesterday reported gains in earnings for February and the first two months of 1929, in comparison with results attained in similar periods one year ago, according to reports filed with the Interstate Commerce Commission here. These included the Pennsylvania, Baltimore & Ohio, Chesapeake & Ohio, the New York Central, New Haven, Union Pacific, Illinois Central and the Florida East Coast Railroads. Due to unusual circumstances, among them severe weather, the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul & Pacific fell behind the two similar periods. The Norfolk & Western registered large gains under all heads for both February and the two months, with the exception of the road's February net operating income, which was lower than in the same month last year.

New Corporation Organized.

Announcement is made by Spencer Trask & Co. that they have completed the organization of a corporation known as Spencer Trask Fund, Inc. No public offering of the stock is being made, the shares being offered privately to the clients of Spencer Trask & Co. The initial offering is $42 a share.

Our Pledge
To the Public on USED CAR SALES

1 Every used car is conspicuously marked with its price in plain figures, and that price, just as the price of our new cars, is rigidly maintained.

2 All STUDEBAKER automobiles on which are sold as CERTIFIED CARS have been properly reconditioned, and carry a 30-day guarantee for replacement of defective parts and free service on adjustments.

3 Every purchaser of a used car may drive it for five days, and then, if not satisfied for any reason, turn it back and apply the money paid as a credit on the purchase of any other car in stock—new or used. (It is assumed that the car has not been damaged in the meantime.)

DRIVE TO INCREASE DISTRICT WORKERS' SALARIES PLANNED

Federation Officials Claim Pay Far Below Average of Federal Jobs.

WILL ASK CONGRESS TO MEET SITUATION

Campaign for More Members Will Be Conducted in All Departments.

A determined drive to raise the salaries of District employes and provide retirement benefits for those who now are excluded from the benefits of the retirement law is to be launched soon by the National Federation of Federal Employes.

According to Miss Gertrude McNally, secretary treasurer of the federation, the salaries paid to municipal employes are far below the average paid to the employes in the various departments of the Federal Government. Congress will be asked to correct this.

With regard to retirement, Miss McNally pointed out that the per diem employes of the District do not come under the retirement law, and consequently are virtually helpless when they reach the age where they must retire. Congress also will be asked to correct this situation.

Plans Membership Drive.

As a prelude to the campaign to better the lot of the District employes, the National Federation of Federal Employes will conduct an intensive drive for new members among the District employes. One reason it has been so difficult to do anything for them, Miss McNally explained, was that they have never presented a united front.

The District Commissioners have authorized the use of the board room on the fifth floor of the District Building for two meetings designed to swell the membership of the District locals. The membership drive will be conducted by A. J. Oliver, staff representative of the federation.

On Tuesday at noon Oliver will talk to employes of the following departments of the District Government: Auditor's Office, Insurance Department, Health Department, Public Utilities Commission, Inspector of Plumbing, Assessor's Office, Arrears Division, Collector of Taxes, Blueprint Room, Inspector of Boilers, Playground Department, Superintendent of Buildings, Water Register, Inspector of Buildings and Superintendent of Licenses.

Addresses Others Wednesday.

On Wednesday at noon Oliver will address employes from the following offices: Executive Office, Asphalts and Cements, Engineer Department, Surveyor, Street Cleaning Department, Sanitary Engineer and Sewer Department, Electrical Department, Zoning Commission, Engineer of Highways, Corporation Counsel, Purchasing Office, Weights and Measures, Engineer and Bridges, Trees and Parking, Municipal Architect, Board of Public Welfare, Water Department and Markets.

The federation has arranged to have a bill introduced at the next session of Congress to give the District employes the $170,000 in raises that their efficiency ratings entitle them to. In drafting the District appropriation bill at the first session of the Seventieth Congress the District subcommittee of the appropriations committee provided $170,000 for raises and promised to provide a similar sum at the following session. At the last session, however, the subcommittee broke this promise, saying that the Welch salary act had raised the average of the District employes to a fair level.

Supreme Court Calls Recess Until April 4

Convening in general term yesterday, the justices of the District Supreme Court approved an order for an Easter recess. The order declared all divisions of the court will recess at the close of business today until April 4. Chief Justice Walter I. McCoy, however, will sit in criminal division of the court on Tuesday for the selection of jurors.

It is probable that Chief Justice McCoy will preside in the criminal court for a brief session Monday, when the retiring grand jury is scheduled to make its final report. The jurors have yet to report on the case of Capt. Guy E. Burlingame, retiring commander of the Second Precinct, as an outgrowth of the story told before the body by Mrs. Helen F. Bialock, former Seventh street palmist.

PARENTS-TEACHERS STAGE BIG MEETING

Dr. Ballou Urges Graduated Education, According to Pupils' Abilities.

DIVISION LEADERS ATTEND

Teachers, parents, students and citizen leaders of the Seventh School Division united last night in a meeting at Eastern High School, during which representatives of the four groups were introduced to an audience of more than 1,000 persons.

Dr. Frank W. Ballou, superintendent of schools, was the principal speaker. Others on the program were Miss Jessie LaSalle, assistant superintendent of schools, and Mrs. Giles Scott Rafter, president of the District Congress of Parents and Teachers.

Mrs. W. H. Harvey presided, introducing Miss H. V. Harper, who sang "March Winds," by Brown; "Twilight," by Glenn, and "'Tis Springtime," by Spross. She was accompanied by Miss Marjorie Piror.

Numerous Guests of Honor.

Among the guests of honor were Miss Sibyl Baker, Mrs. Allen Davis, D. A. Edwards, W. G. Gaff, J. L. Gammell, H. L. Grampp, Miss R. L. Hardy, Charles Hart, Dr. George Lavenner, R. L. Haycock, A. G. Hermann, S. E. Kramer, C. A. Luebkert, Miss M. R. McCauslen, Dr. J. B. Payne, A. P. Pfieger, Miss J. M. Rawlings, Dr. E. E. Richardson, Miss M. E. Sheads, Miss S. A. Tichenor, H. E. Warner, Miss Catherine Watkins and Maj. R. O. Wilmarth.

Schools in the division each had assigned places in the auditorium, with banners designating each group. The schools represented at the meeting were Brent-Dent, Bryan, Buchanan, Congress Heights, Cranch-Tyler, Ketcham-Van Buren, Lenox-French, Randle Highlands-Orr, Stanton, VanNess and Wallach-Towers.

Dr. Ballou praised the corps of teachers in the District's school system for the untiring efforts made on behalf of students. He declared that the greatest step forward in education in the last 50 years was the grading of schools, and added that the District system was being even further classified in order to provide personal teaching for each student.

Graded Education Urged.

By that, Dr. Ballou stated, he meant that each student would receive that degree of education which mentality, home life and general character of the student indicated was advisable.

Democracy is dependent upon the education of the people, the superintendent asserted, supplementing his remarks with the declaration that the school system of America would not fail in its tasks.

Miss LaSalle urged cooperation between parents and teachers in efforts to have boys and girls do better work in the schools. Mrs. Rafter spoke on the work of the parent-teacher associations.

At the close of the speaking program roll call of the schools was held, followed by a number of special acts, given by students.

NEW TRAFFIC RULES FOR POTOMAC PARK

Jam of Autos With Throngs to See Cherry Blossoms Will Be Regulated.

EASTER TO SWELL CROWD

Special traffic regulations will be enforced over the week-end in Potomac Park to facilitate the movement of the automobiles that will bring thousands of persons to see the cherry blossoms. The regulations will be issued the latter part of the week by the United States park police.

The great trek of the Tidal Basin for the spring pageantry put on annually by these trees from the Orient began yesterday. All day long a steady flow of pedestrians and motorists moved about the park and the basin.

The throngs will increase each day, reaching the maximum at Easter, at which time the blooms are expected to be at their best. It is because of the traffic jam that it is anticipated that the regulations will be enforced.

The Haines Point Tea House will be opened this morning for the convenience of sightseers to the point, if the weather is good. Otherwise it will not be opened until the first good day.

The rainbow fountain in West Potomac Park will be turned on for the first time this season Sunday and Monday for Easter visitors to the park. F. T. Gartside, chief of the park maintenance division, office of public buildings and public parks, announced yesterday.

Rolling of park lawns, planting of twelve new reservations and cleaning of 600 parcels of land under jurisdiction of the office has been begun by maintenance division forces.

Failure to Identify Him Gives Man His Liberty

Failure of Prohibition Agent John J. Quinn to identify Roland Spence, 25 years old, as the man he arrested two years ago at Marshall Hall on liquor charges, yesterday led United States Commissioner Needham C. Turnage to dismiss accusations of transporting and possessing liquor against the young man.

Quinn arrested a man at the summer resort in June, 1926, and seized 10 pints of liquor from his prisoner. The prisoner was confined to a stateroom on the steamer Charles Macalester on the return trip to Washington. When the boat was off Hains Point, the prisoner made his way through a porthole, swam to shore and escaped. A few weeks ago Spence was arrested on a warrant charging him with being the man.

The injured youth, a mainstay of the Central team, had been hurling the discus at the school stadium yesterday afternoon officials stated, and had had walked aside to permit a teammate to take a turn in the circle. The latter, who has not yet been identified, was not adept at throwing the flat-shaped iron sphere and the heavy weight slipped from his hands, striking Hochbaum in the back of the neck and knocking the latter to the ground unconscious. Hochbaum immediately was taken to Garfield Hospital.

The injury jinx has trailed Hochbaum since the start of the school year. Regarded as a varsity member of the football team last fall, Hochbaum sustained several broken ribs in practice and was unable to play.

The prosecution's case, conducted by Assistant District Attorney Walter M. Shea, was completed before the court was adjourned until this morning, when the defense, conducted by Bertrand Emmerson, jr., will begin calling 40 witnesses who have been summoned to testify in her behalf.

The principal witnesses for the Government were Miss Hazel Hardy, upon whom the alleged operation was performed; her cousin, Earl Hardy; her aunt, Mrs. Mabel Leonard; Winifred Murphy, who conducts a rooming house at 625 Massachusetts avenue northwest, and Dr. William C. Gwynn.

Testimony was developed tending to show that Miss Hardy, accompanied by Mrs. Leonard and Hardy, went to the Gray house on November 16, where, it was said, the operation was performed. The following day, it was testified, the young woman took a room at the Massachusetts avenue address, where the colored woman called and treated her.

A month later, according to testimony, the young woman developed blood poisoning from the effects of the operation and became dangerously ill at the home of her parents in Clarendon, Va. Dr. Gwynn testified that he treated her for blood poisoning during that time.

Her Husband Slain.

The defendant was first arrested in 1921 on a charge of performing a criminal operation. In 1924, she was taken in custody on a charge of first-degree murder of her husband, Walter Gray. Two charges of homicide, growing out of alleged abortions, were placed against the woman in subsequent years.

Through deaths among witnesses and obtaining continuances when trials were scheduled, the woman is said to have escaped facing a judge and jury until yesterday. She is on liberty under a total bail of $45,000 in connection with the charges against her.

SMOOT AND WATSON DEBATE ZONE PLAN

BOARD DEFERS DECISION

Senator Smoot and Senator Watson locked horns before the District Zoning Commission yesterday, with George Christian, secretary of former President Harding, supporting Watson.

Smoot wants the zoning of his former residence at 2521 Connecticut avenue northwest, changed from residential to commercial, and has sold it for the reported amount of $75,000, with the stipulation that he get its zoning changed to commercial. The senator has bought a new residence in Wesley Heights.

But Senator Watson lives on the other side of Connecticut avenue and so does Christian. They are willing enough that Smoot's former residence be zoned commercial, but if that is done they want their side of the avenue zoned the same way. A representative of Harry Wardman urged the commission to change the zoning to permit commercial development.

Contingent Clause Admitted.

Luther W. Linkins, through whom Smoot sold his Connecticut avenue home, admitted the contingent clause in the sale contract, but refused to confirm the price. The proposal when it first came before the commission dealt with Smoot's property, but since the case was first aired at a hearing, the area has been extended so that it would include both sides of Connecticut avenue from the so-called Million-dollar Bridge to Cathedral avenue and Calvert street, from Woodley place to Connecticut avenue.

No decision was made by the commission at the hearing yesterday and Col. William B. Ladue, chairman, has called an executive session of the commission in his office at 1 o'clock this afternoon.

Wants to Erect Apartments.

William E. Leahy, attorney for Dr. and Mrs. Charles S. Hawley, told the commission that the property of his client was the only property along the route of the Capital Traction Co. which was not zoned to permit apartments. Leahy presented an effective map to the commission, and it is expected that the commission will accede to the attorney's plea for a change in zoning to permit construction of an apartment house at Calvert street and Woodley place.

There were several bitter arguments during the course of hearing, with many persons appearing both for and against various proposed changes.

The hearing ended with consideration of a proposed amendment to permit stores within apartments in a residential zone.

Edgar B. Henderson and Edwin S. Hege opposed the amendment, but with such provisions that it seemed they were willing to give their approval so far as large apartments were concerned. Sidney Lusk, of the Operative Builders Association, estimated the size of the apartments needing such shops as 50 units. Louis Justment said 100 units.

Reformers Scored As Being Selfish

Often Do More Harm Than Good, Rotarians Told by Gordon Johnson.

The greatest harm in the world has been done by people who thought they were doing good, the Rev. Dr. Gordon Johnson, of the National Catholic Welfare Council, told members of the Rotary Club at luncheon yesterday in the Willard Hotel. The meeting was the annual pre-Easter observance.

The meeting was in charge of the Rev. Charles Warner, rector of St. Alban's Church. The church quartet rendered a musical program and led the meeting in singing "Nearer My God to Thee." George Whitwell presided.

THREE SENT TO JAIL ON TRAFFIC CHARGES

Youth Gets One Month and $55 Fine After Race With Policeman.

FOURTH IS FREED ON BOND

Three men were committed to the District Jail yesterday under heavy sentences imposed by Judge Gus A. Schuldt, in Traffic Court, for violations of traffic regulations.

David S. Peter, 19 years old, of Bethesda, Md., was ordered to serve a month for reckless driving and pay a total fine of $55 or serve another month for bad brakes, dead lights and speeding, as the result of a motor race with Policeman George W. Cook, of the Fourteenth Precinct. Cook suffered a broken thumb, bruises and lacerations of the legs and body, and his motor cycle was demolished when crowded off the road by Peter's car.

The policeman said he went in pursuit of Peter, who was driving an automobile 60 miles an hour along Wisconsin avenue northwest a few days ago. After overtaking him, Cook ordered Peter to drive to the police station. As the motor cycle entered the driveway to the station, the automobile sped away in the direction of Maryland. Cook again pursued, and in the course of the chase, he said, the automobile attempted to crowd him off the road twice. He fired six shots, which punctured three tires of the car, and in a third attempt at "roadhogging" both the motor cycle and the car went into a ditch.

3 Months on Permit Charge.

Driving a car with a revoked permit netted George Grice, colored, of 1421 Sixth street northwest, a sentence of three months in jail. Grice admitted that he was twice convicted of driving while drunk and driving while his permit was revoked on a previous occasion.

Ernest Johnson, colored, of 737 Second street northwest, went to jail in default of a $25 fine for "hit-and-run." He was given suspended sentences on charges of driving without a permit and reckless driving. Johnson was seated in the automobile of Leon Warren at John Marshall place and D streets northwest, Tuesday. Warren had entered the District Supreme Court Building to call for a friend, who was a witness in a case.

According to testimony, the automobile began rolling down the John Marshall place hill and Johnson climbed to the driver's seat to steer it to safety. Instead, it was testified, he guided it into another car then leaped out and ran after sighting Policeman F. B. Knapp. He was caught after a foot race of three blocks and admitted he ran because he had no permit.

Youth Asks Jury Trial.

Charles Burnstein, 18 years old, demanded a jury trial and was released in $500 bail on a charge of "hit-and-run," which, police said, grew out of an attempt by Burnstein and Robert Wesley, 17 years old, to "pick up" two young women.

The women, Mrs. Gladys Garrett, 26, and Miss Marjorie Edwards, 18, police said, complained they were accosted by the youths in an automobile on Sixth street southeast Tuesday night and invited to ride. After informing the mashers they were married women, it was said, the youths followed them several blocks and the car struck Mrs. Garrett as she stepped from a curbing. The youths were arrested an hour later at their homes. They were both convicted of disorder before Judge Ralph Given and imposition of a $25 fine was suspended when their mothers pleaded in their behalf.

40 CAPITAL PLACES MAY BE PADLOCKED AS RUM OFFENDERS

Police File List of Premises They Claim as Scenes of Liquor Selling.

GOVERNMENT TO ACT IF THE FACTS WARRANT

Officials Decline to Make the Addresses Public; Task Not Completed.

With padlock injunction proceedings in view, a list of 40 places where repeated violations of the dry law are alleged to occur has been submitted to District Attorney Leo A. Rover by Maj. Edwin B. Hesse, superintendent of police.

Thirty-four of the places were named in a report submitted yesterday and the other six were listed the day before. The action resulted from a survey by police, which was ordered by Maj. Hesse in accordance with a request made by Rover, to collect all available evidence on such places.

The list was turned over by Rover to his assistant, Capt. Harold W. Orcutt, in charge of prohibition law cases, for a thorough study. Both Rover and Orcutt declined to make public a list of the places named, declaring such action would be detrimental to their cases.

Orcutt authorized a statement which declared "each of these reports sets forth information relative to the bringing of potential padlock proceedings to abate nuisances on premises for violations therein of the national prohibition act. These reports are being studied by this (the district attorney's) office with a view of ascertaining whether the evidence warrants the bringing of such proceedings, and after the necessary study of such reports has been made and the necessary evidence to support such proceedings has been laid before this office, injunction proceedings will be brought against each of the premises referred to in these reports, where the facts warrant such action."

It is understood that the police have not finished complete listings of such establishments in the Capital and will continue to make reports, which will be turned over to the district attorney's office for action.
